Softball Start Monday Four Teams

Softball will start the four-team league on Monday on the lighted field near the Grove. Games will be from 7:45 to 9:00 p. m. in dormitories 14, 15, 16, and 17. Teams can play with their own equipment or sign up for the college equipment. The teams are: 14, 15, 16, and 17. Games will be held in the gymnasium.

The object of the tournaments is to determine the best tennis and golf players in school, Welch said. They will be single elimination tournaments, with one loss removing the loser from the tournament. Athletic officers have entry forms for the tournaments. Volleyballs and basketballs may be picked up in the student activities office by any students for their own use at the Grove or in the gymnasium.

A&M Officials Will Visit Summer Camps

College officials will visit the more than 600 A&M ROTC cadets at summer camp this summer. The students, who will be seniors next year, are at the army and air force installations in all parts of the country for one month or six weeks of training.

President David H. Morgan will head five administrative officials who will spend two days at some of the camps. He will be at March air force base, Riverside, Calif., on August 10-11.

Other college department heads making the trips are Dr. J. P. Abbott, dean of the college, to Fort Eustis, Va., July 22-23; Col. Joe E. Davis, commandant and coordinator of the School of Military Science, to Fort Lee, Va., July 8-9; Dr. W. H. Delaplane, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, to Goodfellow air force base, San Angelo, July 6-7; C. N. Sheppardson, dean of the School of Agriculture, to Long Beach, Calif., air force base, July 6-7.

Twenty-three officers on regular army assignment at A&M will attend camp with the cadet groups. Of the total, 353 cadets are scheduled for 13 army installations and the remainder at the same number of air force bases.

Most of the camp sessions start June 19 but a few air force assignments are dated July 25.

Mumps Outbreak Reaches 36 Cases

An outbreak of mumps in the College Station area has reached 36 cases. Of these, 19 are in College Station and 17 are in Bryan.

According to the Bryan-Brazos county health unit report for last week, measles is the next most prevalent disease, with 24 cases, 12 each in College Station and Bryan.

College Station also has four cases of chicken pox.

Halick Is Awarded $3,600 Fellowship

John V. Halick has been awarded a $3,600 fellowship, good for a year, effective June 1, 1954. The fellowship will allow Halick to complete the requirements for a Ph D degree in biochemistry and nutrition here.

For the past two years Halick has been employed by the Agricultural Experiment station and has been working with Dr. L. R. Richardson to determine why mixed feeds and feed ingredients sometimes heat and spoil, and to develop practical means of preventing this loss.

It was found that heating and the accompanying loss in feeds were caused by the growth of molds due to an excessive amount of moisture.

This work attracted the attention of J. A. Gooch, a director of the T. J. Brown and C. A. Lupton foundation of Fort Worth, who was on the campus inspecting other work, and he recommended Halick for the fellowship.

Halick will now spend his entire time on his graduate program and plans to complete his course and write his dissertation. His dissertation will be a study of compounds which prevent the growth of molds when added to feed.

He is 27 years old and a veteran of World War II. He received his

Four A&M Football Players Identified as TT Members

Four Suspended Until Next June

Four of the 18 students suspended for being members of the TT's, a secret fraternity, have been identified as football players Norbert Ohlendorf, tackle; Bill Schroeder, end; Billy Huddleston, halfback; and Ray Barrett, guard.

The four, and the other 14, are under indefinite suspension from the college, which means that they may apply for readmission "at some future date."

The members of the secret organization were uncovered a week before the spring semester ended. At the time, President David H. Morgan refused to release the names of the 18, saying he had promised them at the start of the investigation that their names would not be made public.

The names of the four football players were printed by the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram Tuesday.

Morgan told the Dallas Morning News that none of the suspended students could apply for readmission before June of 1955.

'Not Eligible'

"If there are any football players involved," he said, "they will not be eligible to participate with the team this year." Paul (Bear) Bryant, football coach and athletic director, said Tuesday, that he had discussed the case with college officials but that he had had no definite notice of the punishment.

Paul (Bear) Bryant said yesterday the loss of the four players will have a "telling effect" on A&M football prospects.

Bryant's complete statement was, "Official notification was received today that certain members of our football team will not be re-admitted to A&M College this fall and will, therefore, be lost for the 1954 football season."

"Personally, I am very much in sympathy with those affected and realize that losing them will have a telling effect on our team this fall. Nevertheless, in my opinion an unnecessary obstacle has been removed, for, whether good or bad, nothing should be present that in any way could affect one's loyalty to the team or the college."

All 18 charged with membership in the group were allowed to complete their school work for the spring semester. Degrees were indefinitely withheld for graduating seniors in the group, and all others were indefinitely suspended.

"This has gone through channels," Morgan told the Dallas paper, "and the decision has been made. Any of the students under indefinite suspension may make application for readmission in June, 1955, but not at an earlier date."

Since the football players had completed their work for the year, they would be eligible to play for A&M next year.

Will Apply

"The only word we have from the college is that we are under indefinite suspension," Ohlendorf told the News. "No one has indicated how long the suspension will be. I intend to make application some time this summer. The last time I talked to the other players involved, they said they had similar plans."

Ohlendorf said he would not be interested in attending any other college and did not know what he would do if he were not allowed to come back to A&M.

The Star-Telegram called the suspension of the football players a "blow" to A&M's "thin squad."

'Blow'

Lourin McMullen, writing in a by-lined sports column in the Star-Telegram, said, "Four such valuable hands perhaps would not be so seriously missed if Bryant had behind him three or four years of talent reaping comparable to the harvest he has made for A&M."

"At this stage of the game, however, the loss is a blow to a thin squad."

'Very Few' Classes Discontinued

"Very few" summer classes have been discontinued because of the legislative rule requiring a minimum of 12 students in each class, according to Dean of the College John Paul Abbott.

"I don't believe we have had much trouble this term," Abbott said. "He believes less classes have had to be cancelled since the rule than were canceled before it went into effect."

He attributed the difference to better planning. The rule says that each undergraduate class must be canceled if it has less than 12 students, and each graduate class if it has less than four students.

Bryan A&M Exes Donate Blood

Members of the Bryan A&M club have gone to Temple to replace blood given in transfusions to another A&M former student.

The former student, A Cecil Wamble, '33, is in Scott and White hospital there with internal hemorrhage. An employee of the cotton laboratory, he has been in the hospital since June 1 and has had seven blood transfusions.

The story has pictures of the building, its facilities and members of the veterinary staff.

"Certainly these new facilities, as well as those to come in the future," the paper says, "offer Texas agriculture many real and usable advantages for increasing livestock production, so vitally needed."
