FISHERMEN AND FISH HAPPY

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A major problem of California fishermen who yearn for better black bass may have been solved by a transcontinental air trip from Tennessee. The shipment brought brood stock of adult threadfin shad, a highly rated bass forage fish, for stocking in the warm inland waters. The bass gamesters had everything there but an adequate live food supply.

Now fishermen and fish are happy.

No CHS Boys Plan Cardinal Try-Out

Jim Bevans, baseball coach of A&M Consolidated high school, said yesterday he would not send any boys to the St. Louis Cardinals try-out camp starting in Houston Thursday.

Bevans said he did not believe in a boy going into professional baseball directly from high school.

The camp is being conducted jointly by the Cardinals and the Class AA farm club, the Houston Buffs. Boys between the ages of 17 and 23 are invited to attend the camp.

Pogo's 'Father' Plans Busy Week

This week will be busy for Walt Kelly, creator of The Battalion's comic strip Pogo. He speaks, directs and is honored at ceremonies in Washington, D.C.; Bridgeport, Conn., and Westtown, Penn.

These in addition to writing and drawing the adventures of Pogo Possum and his friends in the depths of southern Georgia's Okefenokee swamp.

Yesterday Kelly was the first comic strip artist in history to be honored by representation in the permanent exhibition of the Library of Congress. By special request of the library, he will present to it a collection of drawings of Pogo, showing the development of the character through the years.

This collection is to include art from the first appearance of the character in comic books to samples of recent strips, Sunday pages and original drawings for books about Pogo and his friends.

The library decided to request this permanent exhibit, according to its officials, because in their estimation Kelly's work constitutes an unusual use of black and white by an American artist and is a modern day continuation of and addition to the folk lore tradition and folk art of the country, by virtue of Pogo's whimsical observation on the events and mores of our times.

Today Kelly will be master of ceremonies at the Barnum festival in Bridgeport, Conn., that city's annual recognition of the contribution made to its civic life by the famous circus man, P. T. Barnum. One of Kelly's popular characters in the Okefenokee swamp is a straw-hatted bear, a circus personality who operates under the name of "P. T. Bridgeport."

Wednesday, Kelly will be the commencement speaker at Westtown school, Westtown, Penn.

This talk will be the latest of some 75 speaking engagements filled by Kelly since last summer. During the past nine months he has addressed, he estimates, more than 50,000 newspapermen, journalism students, and members of newspaper and general scholastic societies. His usual topic is "Freedom of the Press in our Free Society."
