First Graders Need Birth Certificate

Attention parents:

Now would be a fine time to request copies of birth records for children entering school for the first time in September.

To delay is to risk being caught in the August rush.

That's the word from W. D. Carroll, state registrar, who remembers last year's swamped condition in the Bureau of Vital Statistics at the State Department of Health.

Many schools, including A&M Consolidated, require certified copies of birth certificates as proof that a child is six years old before permitting the child to be enrolled.

At A&M Consolidated, the parents of a student entering the first grade must show a birth certificate to either the superintendent, the principal, or a teacher.

"By all means make request for copies of those records early," Carroll said.

"Working with limited personnel, the Bureau of Vital Statistics cannot possibly render the type service expected by those who wait until the last moment to make requests," Carroll said.

Each application should include the full name of the child, the date and place of birth, and the names of parents. The law says a fee of fifty cents must accompany each application.

Requests for certified copies issued by the state registrar should be addressed to the Bureau of Vital Statistics, Texas State Dept. of Health, Austin.

How many children will be enrolling in school for the first time this fall? Carroll can't say precisely.

But he does know that some 200,000 children were born in Texas six years ago which, theoretically, would make them eligible for school this year. And most of those entering public school will need proof of age.
