

WELCOME, AGGIES

Slouch & Simp at the Golf Course

- Yes, Slouch is right. Exchange store profits --- over $400,000 since 1946 --- have not only helped develop the golf course, but also most of the other recreational facilities on the A&M campus.

- Just to list a few, there's the Memorial Student Center, The Grove, the Rodeo Arena, the Lighted Softball Diamond, projection equipment for Guion Hall, musical instruments in the YMCA, and many other smaller projects.

- Oh, yes, the dormitory athletic equipment, travel for the famous Aggie Band, and recreational and religious books and magazines in Cushing Memorial Library are also products of these profits.

- When you buy at the Exchange Store you not only get your money's worth in books and school supplies, but you are making an investment in recreational facilities for every present and future Aggie.

- So --- Aggies, both old and new, why not follow Slouch to the Exchange Store and see for yourself what a stack of supplies this "One Stop Service Station" has to offer you.

Serving Texas Aggies

P.S.—Sorry, Simp, about those small cups, but you can't blame us for that. We only furnished the money; Joe Yagan selected the cups. Tell him your troubles.
