

Board To Discuss Building, Finances

Construction items and financial matters will be discussed by the A&M System board of directors when they meet here this weekend. Items on the agenda are as follows:

Consideration of a revenue bond issue for the new A&M Press building and bids for construction of the building.

Report from an engineer on the needs for an increase in A&M's electrical power supply.

Bids for a feed building at the Poultry center.

Consideration of confirmation of the building of a residence on the college plantation.

Other minor building contracts.

The board will take time off to attend the football game and the dedication ceremonies of the G. Rollie White coliseum Saturday. The ceremonies will be held at 4 p.m. in the lobby of the big building.

Dr. M. T. Harrington, chancellor, will preside at the dedication. A. E. Cudlipp, a member of the board of directors, will dedicate the coliseum to White, banker and ranchman from Brady who is serving his 29th year as a member of the board. It is his 10th year as chairman. Gibb Gilchrist, former chancellor, will give the invocation.

Tyree L. Bell, president of the Austin Road company of Dallas, will also speak at the dedication program.

The directors of the Bryan Chamber of Commerce will give a dinner honoring the members of the board of directors Friday night.

Also invited to the dinner, which is at 7:30 p.m. at the Oaks in Bryan, will be college officials and local civic leaders.

The next meeting of the board will be in Austin at the time of the A&M-University of Texas football game.

Non-Regs Get Own Student Council

For the first time in the history of A&M, civilian students will have their own student council.

The civilian council is to be started this month. Floor or ramp representatives will be elected and they will elect a councilman from their dormitory area. The council will work toward better and friendlier relationships with the cadets and all parts of the college and toward improving all phases of college life.

Each civilian dormitory has a student housemaster who will assist students with their problems, maintain cleanliness and proper living and study conditions in his dormitory. Each area has a counselor or advisor responsible for student personnel work in his area. He is also available for consultation at all times. He is responsible for discipline and for the maintenance of the dormitories and equipment in his area.

Civilian students are expected to keep their rooms clean and orderly at all times, said Bennie Zinn, assistant dean of men for student affairs. They may come and go as they please and may wear any type of clothing they choose as long as it is clean and in usual good taste.

Civilian students are encouraged to participate in all college activities. All students should participate in intramurals or in some activity at the Memorial Student Center, Zinn said.

A&M Students Can Enlist In Reserve

A&M cadets can enlist in the Army Reserve in room 108 of the Military Science building, September 21 through 24.

A recruiting team from the office of the unit advisor, will be there then, said Lt. Col. C. E. Hesse.

A freshman cadet enlisting now and receiving a commission after graduation would receive $29.64 more per month or $355.68 per year because of four years reserve service.

Length of service in any of the armed forces or their reserves increases the pay for each rank.

A cadet cannot be called to active duty while he is in ROTC.

Units in College Station and their vacancies include the 420th engineers brigade, 7; 75th division artillery, 15; medical detachment of 75th division artillery, 3; 897th field artillery, 2; and 289th infantry, 26.
