Six Soph Linemen Get Starting Call In Second Grid Tilt

Six sophomore linemen probably will start for the Aggies tomorrow night when they meet favored Oklahoma A&M in the Dallas Cotton Bowl at 8 p.m.

Shaking up his first team after the Texas Tech game, Head Coach Paul Bryant announced this probable starting eleven:

Ends, Jack Pardee, 200, and Gene Stallings, 180; tackles, Darrell Brown, 185, and W. D. Powell, 185; guards, Dennis Goehring, 185, and Ray Barrett, 195; center, Lloyd Hale, 195.

Quarterback, Elwood Kettler, 165; halfbacks, Don Watson, 165, and Joe Schero, 165; fullback, Don Kachtik, 185.

Barrett is the only non-sophomore in the forward wall. He, Kachtik and Schero are the only seniors, and Kettler and Watson are juniors.

Yesterday the Aggies had a brief workout on offense and defense, and Bryant said the varsity would have a light 20-minute workout today before leaving for Dallas by plane.

The Red and Blue teams again polished plays and drilled on defense against Oklahoma A&M plays, then practiced punting and kicking extra points under pressure.

Bryant listed only 32 men on the traveling squad. In addition to the probable starters, these players also will make the trip:

Ends, Bennie Sinclair, Bill Schroeder, Billy McGowan and Donald Robbins; tackles, Henry Clark, Norb Ohlendorf, Larry Winkler, George Johnson and Bobby Lockett; Guards Marvin Tate, Sid Theriot and Joe Rowell; center Richard Vick, Herb Wolf and Russell Moake.

Quarterback, Charlie Scott; halfbacks, Gene Henderson, who also may play quarterback, Billy Huddleston and Bobby Drake Keith; fullback Bill Granberry and Bob Easley.

Huddleston suffered a sprained ankle in practice, but probably will be able to play, Bryant said.

Hawkins Named New IE Associate

Dr. Leslie V. Hawkins has been named an associate professor in the industrial education department.

He comes to A&M from the Panhandle A&M college of Goodwell, Okla., where he taught industrial arts education for eight years.

Graduate School Enrollment Is Up

The enrollment of A&M's Graduate School is up 9.4 per cent over the same period last year.

The enrollment to date is 351 and last year at this time it was 331, Dr. Ide P. Trotter, dean of the Graduate School, announced today.

Registration will continue the rest of this week.

After Campaign CHS Wears New Uniforms

A&M Consolidated high school's band, majorettes and cheerleaders will all wear brand new uniforms this year, after months of fund-raising activities on the part of the band and the Band Boosters club.

Maroon and Gray
The new band uniforms are wool serge. The coat is a maroon, double breasted uniform jacket with gray trim; the gray trousers have two maroon stripes down each side. Topping off the uniform is an air force-style hat with gray sides, maroon top, and white trim.

This year the girls as well as the boys will wear trousers. Last

In their last encounter with the Cowboys in 1952, A&M scored in the last minutes to win 14-7. Kachtik's line plunging sparked the Cadets in that one.

In practice this week, Bryant's crew has shown signs of getting over the fumblyitis that hurt so badly in the Tech opener. The Aggies' lack of a passing game let Tech use a nine-man line, and that, too, may be changed this Saturday.

Three Branches

A&M Now Has New Set-Up

The new organization of A&M which went into effect Sept. 1 has the entire set-up of the college operating under three heads who are directly responsible to the president.

Dean of the College John P. Abbott will have deans of the various schools report to him on matters concerning the college, while the departmental heads are under the school deans. Also responsible to Abbott are the commandant and his subordinate academic organizations, and the registrar. The library, museum and short courses are handled directly by Abbott.

Business manager under the new organization is Charles A. Roeber, with the manager of physical plants and the auditor under his supervision. Manager of physical plants is W. H. Badgett. Roeber is also acting as auditor until the post is filled. Under Badgett is the head of maintenance of grounds, superintendent of build-

Saddle and Sirloin Elects 2 Officers

Two new officers were elected by the Saddle and Sirloin club Tuesday to fill vacancies in the club.

They are Albert Jenkins, vice-president and Ken Killion, reporter.

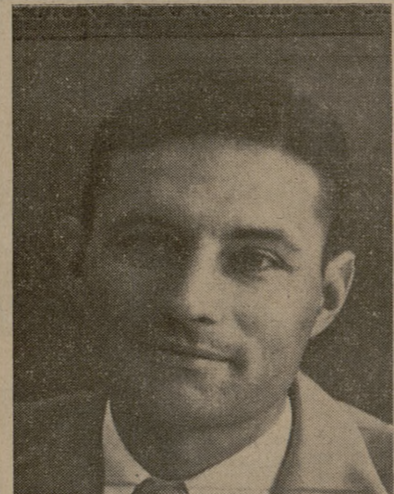

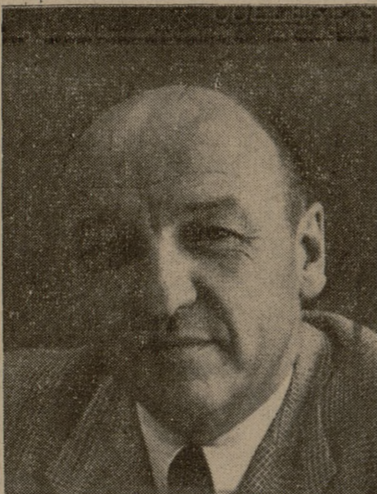

They replace Tom Montgomery, who has been drafted, and George (Tip) Smith, who did not return to A&M.

The club also elected F. E. (Sonny) Tutt as representative to the Agriculture council and C. D. Bruther and W. M. Warren as sponsors.

Committee heads were named for the Aggie rodeo and other plans for the rodeo were discussed. The rodeo will be Oct. 29 and 30.

Damage Slight In Friday Fire

Slight damage was caused by a fire at 11:30 a.m. Friday when a child's playhouse burned at the home of P. L. Frost, 200 Timber. The College Station Fire Department extinguished the fire.

AIRCRAFT STUDY—These two A&M professors participated in Boeing Airplane company's summer faculty program. Wendell Horsley (left), director of the placement office, was coordinator of the program, and Warren Rice (right), of the mechanical engineering department, conducted investigations on jet engine testing facilities.

Under the student personnel services dean is the head of the department of student affairs, head of the department of student activities and the commandant with his non-academic student organizations.

Head of the department of student affairs is Bennie A. Zinn, in charge of civilian counselors, campus security, housing, civilian dormitory affairs and veteran's advisor.

W. L. Penberthy, student activities head, is over intramural athletics, clubs and organizations, organized student activities, music activities, student activities and the YMCA.

The Dean of Student Personnel Services also receives reports direct from student health services, placement, student labor, secretarial supply and student publications.

Aggie Players Will Cast Play Monday

The Aggie Players will have try-outs for parts in "Missalliance" by George Bernard Shaw at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Music hall.

The play will be presented at the Memorial Student Center Nov. 15-17.

C. K. Esten, sponsor of the Aggie Players, will direct the play. The November presentation is one of three plays to be presented by the players this year.

All local people are invited to try out for parts.

Civilian Students Will Hear Morgan

President David H. Morgan will speak to civilian students in the chemistry lecture room at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

He will speak on "The status of the civilian student at A&M."

Weather Today

PARTLY CLOUDY
Partly cloudy, ground fog Saturday morning, clearing later in the day. Yesterday's high was 90, and the low, 55.

Home Football Seating Brings Senate Debate

News of the World

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles — President Eisenhower stripped off the velvet gloves and told a wildly cheering political rally last night the nation needs another Republican Congress to prevent "stagnation" under any government half Republican and half Democratic.

Taipei, Formosa — The "little war" along Red China's southeast coast roared into its 21st day yesterday with more Nationalist air blows and heavy artillery duels.

Washington — The sentencing of Lt. Col. Harry Fleming today was the third decision by the armed forces on charges that American Korean war prisoners collaborated with the Communists. A fourth case is still under trial.

Chicago — Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas said today the Russian submarine threat is the greatest in all naval history, but he declared the U. S. Navy is capable of dealing with it.

Los Angeles — The AFL convention today passed by voice vote a resolution condemning the Eisenhower administration and urging a large worker turnout in this fall's election.

Corps, Non-Regs Bicker; Problem To Be Studied

Dissension over the annual question as to where civilian students should sit at football games sparked a short but lively debate in the Student Senate last night before the matter was referred to a committee.

Recommendations, ranging from putting the two groups together to an all-college drawing for seats in the student section of the stadium, were presented at the meeting.

However, the senate made no definite recommendations to the committee.

Last year, the non-military students sat above the cadet corps.

Why Not Blame The Weather?

The weather gets blamed for a lot of things, so you might as well blame it for all those little bugs that have been crawling around your room this week.

According to the entomology department, they are leaf hoppers, and they spend all their life in grass.

All of their life, that is, except when they are bothered by something.

The entomology department figures the colder weather we have been having at night recently forced the bugs to seek cover.

"They have a pretty good barometer," the department said.

Long To Conduct Services Here

The Rev. E. V. Long, pastor of St. Martin's Lutheran church in Austin, will conduct the Spiritual Life Mission beginning Monday at Our Savior's Lutheran church here.

ALL DRESSED UP—Proudly showing off their new uniforms are Junius Clark of the A&M Consolidated band, Majorette Mildred Dew and Yell Leader Ann Fleming.

The first item about the seating arrangement that brought argument was the composition of the committee. Senate President Jerry Ramsey first suggested the committee be composed of four corps members and three non-regs. This, however, drew sharp criticism from civilian Senator Jerry Schnepf who wanted three members of each faction on the committee.

"We should get out of the idea that one group—the corps—is the ruling faction here," Schnepf said.

After John Benefield pointed out that last year's committee was made up of four corps men and three civilian students, Wallace Eversburg said it was of little importance which group had the most members on the committee.

"Surely," he said, "some people will have enough sense to vote for the best interests of A&M and not for some clique."

Ramsey asked the senators "not to get off on petty differences" and instead work for a "greater A&M."

Four-Three Approved
The motion finally approved by the senate called for four corps members and three non-corps men. It was passed unanimously.

However, after the initial arguments over who should be on the committee were finished and the motion passed, several senators offered suggestions to the committee.

Tony Specia first proposed that the civilian students be allowed to sit with the cadets. But this immediately drew fire from corps senators who pointed out that there was little way of telling the civilian classes apart except in the case of seniors wearing rings.

A system of having each civilian student wear a different colored card to represent his class was suggested by Benefield. The plan was tried last year, and the civilian house masters distributed the cards in their dormitories. However, the plan was used only once.

Interjected between the arguments over what to do with the civilian students was a comment by civilian Senator George Allen. He said, "I hate to see any dissection between the corps and the non-corps students."

One other proposal, also presented by Benefield, was to have a drawing for seats in the student section. The main objection to the plan was how students would take dates to the games if there were only one seat to a student.

After the debate over the matter ended, the senate appointed members to the seating committee, but the entire composition of the group was not named since several civilian senators remain to be elected. Appointed were Allen, Benefield, Bob Alcock, Gus Mijalis and Jim Rowland. No chairman was named.

In other action by the senate, Ronnie Miller, Gene Stubblefield, Buddy Vance and Dave Parnell were appointed to the college's traffic committee.

A budget committee composed of Treasurer Eversburg, Jerry Johnson and Specia was named to study the allotment of the senate's $760 budget, approved by the Student Life committee last spring.

No date for the election of the civilian senators was set, but Ramsey said the executive committee of the senate would pick a date soon.
