

14 Years Experience

Battalion Staff Is Named For This Year's Publication

A staff which totals more than 14 years of experience on The Battalion will put out this year's papers under the guidance of Co-Editors Harri Baker and Bob Boriskie.

Major from Memphis, Tenn., started with the paper his freshman year. During his sophomore year he was city editor and last year was campus editor.

of the former co-editors. He has worked for the Memphis Commercial-Appeal and has edited the Big Bend Sentinel, weekly newspaper of Marfa. He was summer Battalion editor-advertising manager.

AWARD WINNERS—These two men will receive 20-year awards next week for federal service in the College Station-Bryan area. The awards, presented by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, will go to B. C. McCallum, seated, and P. B. Lflore, standing. M. J. Richardson, not shown, will also receive an award. Receiving 10-year awards will be Frank F. Dunn, Claud M. Grace, M. C. Powell, and Vernon W. Turner, all from Bryan, Paul J. Bell, N. Miles Payne, Bobby Clay and J. C. Stewart, all of College Station.

Last spring he was elected acting co-editor after the resignation

A World War II veteran, Boriskie is a native of Bryan. He started his work on The Battalion his sophomore year and has been sports editor and news editor.

He was elected with Baker last spring as acting co-editor. This summer Boriskie worked for the San Angelo Standard-Times. He is also a senior journalism major.

Managing Editor
Another senior journalism major, Jon Kinslow will be the Battalion managing editor this year. A native of Dallas, Kinslow has three years experience on The Battalion.

He has been city editor and was managing editor last spring. He has also worked on The Dallas Morning News as a reporter.

Sports Editor
Sports Editor Jerry Wizig, a senior journalism major, has been working on the paper since his freshman year. He has worked on the sports staff all three years and last year was sports editor. This summer, Wizig, who lives in Waco, worked as a police reporter for the Galveston News.

News Editor
Ralph Cole, junior agricultural journalism major from Muenster and Don Shepard, senior agricultural journalism major from Jermyn, will be news editors this year. Both men began their Battalion work last spring. In addition to his news editor duties, Cole will also cover the city news.

Women's Editor
Mrs. Nora Burge, a native of Paris, Texas, is the woman's editor this year. She came to The Battalion from the Paris News. Her husband, Bill Burge, is senior architecture major.

Reporters
Reporters for this year will be Jim Neighbors, Welton Jones and Dick Rabe. Neighbors and Jones are freshmen journalism majors and Rabe is a sophomore who wrote intramural athletics last year.

Advertising Manager
John Huber, Korean war veteran and a graduate student from Texarkana, will be Battalion advertising manager. He is married and has two sons, one of whom was born Monday. His advertising salesmen will be Charles Ritchey and Samuel L. Dunlap.

Also on the Battalion staff this year are Miss Kerstin Ekfelt, Miss Betsy Burchard, and Maurice Olian.

Miss Ekfelt is now assistant woman's editor, working mainly on compiling a cookbook to be published by The Battalion sometime before Christmas. When this is finished she will become a feature writer. She is a senior at Stephen F. Austin high school in Bryan. Miss Burchard, a senior at A&M Consolidated high school, will write The Battalion's weekly "Hi, School" column of news at CHS. She will also write some news and features about the school. She is editor of CHS' newspaper, The Round-Up.

Maurice Olian will write A&M Consolidated sports for The Battalion. His stories will appear on the sports page, several times a week. He is a senior at CHS. The staff is incomplete, and will be added to during the year.

"Positions are always open, and anyone who wants to work is invited to come by the office," said the editors.

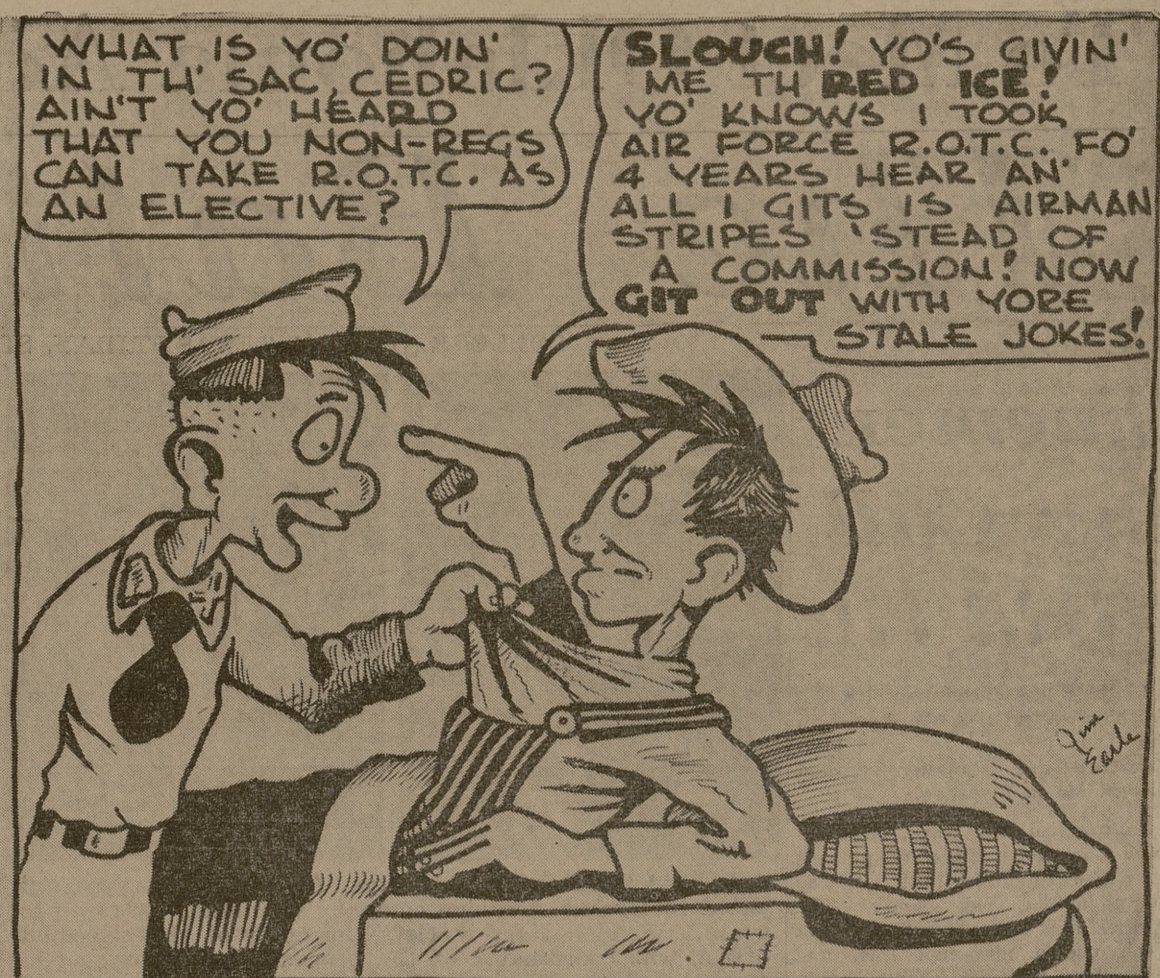

The Battalion office is on the second floor of Goodwin hall.

Agriculturist Staff To Meet

Agriculturist staff members, and students wishing to work on the school agriculture magazine, will meet in room 2B of the Memorial Student Center Tuesday night after yell practice, F. E. (Sonny) Tutt, editor, announced yesterday.

Tutt said that prizes may be awarded for the top story in each issue.

The United States imports around eight million pounds of dried daisy blooms annually to make pyrethrum, an insecticide.

College Archives Growing, Cofer Says

The documented history of Texas A&M is growing by leaps and bounds says Prof. D. B. Cofer, college archivist.

For example, Louis A. Hartung of San Antonio sent a scrapbook of 1925-29, carrying the signatures of 165 classmates, pictures, programs, ticket stubs and other historical data, showing student life at that time.

The archives was established four years ago and since that time the archives office has received hundreds of historical documents and is receiving more each day.

Mrs. W. E. Joor of Houston sent in biographic notes on her uncle, William Lorraine Bringham, the sixth president of the college, and an autograph of W. B. Philpott, class of 1884.

Cofer is an authority on A&M history. In the collection are four books written by Cofer on the early history of A&M, told through the lives and activities of the men who administered and served the college from its opening in 1876 to 1905.

A picture of the 1896 football team was sent in by Dr. and Mrs. Tom Coke Hainston of Columbus.

Former students throughout the state and elsewhere have sent in historical documents, some dating back many years and some up to the present.

Rides For SA Ags

The San Antonio A&M Mothers club transportation chairman has written The Battalion asking that her address and phone number be published so San Antonio students will be able to get rides to and from San Antonio. She is Mrs. E. Wulfe, 503 Mission street. Her phone number is LE-2-4894.
