

HI, SCHOOL

Tiger yell leaders will touch off not only the homecoming bonfire but CHS spirit as well at yell practice tomorrow night at 7:30. The band will be present to pep things up.

Wood gathering began Monday afternoon after school and will continue through Thursday. The big blaze, originally set for Friday was moved up so the football squad could attend.

Again this year the homecoming queen will be crowned at halftime, be given a football autographed by the team and yell leaders, have a corsage, and be escorted with her two runners-up around the field in a convertible. Corsages for the queen and two princesses will be donated by Aggie Land Flower Shop and J. Coulter Smith.

Nearly 1,500 cookies and 600 cold drinks will be on hand at the homecoming dance after the game Friday. The student council has requested each of the ten homerooms to donate 12 cookies each to be distributed free to the students and exes.

The junior high school now has entered the field of journalism. The newspaper club, sponsored by R. A. Owen, plans to publish a semi-weekly and a contest for naming the paper is in progress.

Two more additions to the high school terrace, the gathering spot of the clan, increase its popularity. Two ping-pong tables and accessories have been obtained and may be used before and after school, and during activity periods.

As students who bring their own lunches have been granted the privilege of eating them on the terrace, a trash container has been provided for their convenience.
