Presbyterian Church Schedules Two Services

The A&M Presbyterian church will schedule two morning worship services rather than the present one service, said the Rev. Norman Anderson.

"To any successful community, growth is an essential part. The finer the contribution a business makes to the community, the finer it is for the community that it grows," Anderson said.

"The A&M Presbyterian church has come up through the years from a small group of 23 members and has now grown so much in that 26 years that it is necessary, in order to seat its congregation, to have two services Sunday morning," Anderson said. The new schedule will start Sunday morning with the first service at 8:30 a.m. and the second service at 11 a.m. Sunday school will still be at 9:45 a.m.

The morning worship service attendance is not the only evidence of growth. The Sunday School, under the superintendency of J. R. Jackson, is organized and has the largest enrollment in the history of the church.

In addition to the Sunday school instruction for the youngsters there are three supplementary periods giving additional training through the Junior League, supervised by Mrs. H. S. Thigpen, including 4th, 5th and 6th grades; the Intermediate League, supervised by Mrs. J. R. Jackson, including 7th and 8th grades; and the Senior League for high schoolers, supervised by Anderson.

The church has a membership larger than its seating capacity and it is to accommodate all its members and its many other worshippers now that the new schedule of two Sunday morning services is being started.

The officers of the church have taken this step in hope that the two separate opportunities to worship will enable those who would like to worship at the Presbyterian church and avoid conflicts that might interfere with one of the hours by attending at the other hour, Anderson said.
