

12th Man Bowl Teams Work On Offense

Army and air force teams spent their second workout period stressing football fundamentals in preparation for the 12th Man Bowl game Dec. 16.

Bennie Sinclair, coach of the army squad, had his team spending most of its time on offensive plays. Sinclair's assistants for the game will be Don Watson, Lawrence Winkler and Ronald Robbins. "The boys look good, despite the fact that they haven't worked out," said Sinclair.

In the opposing camp, air force coach Elwood Kettler also sent his charges through a brisk offensive drill. His team assistants are Billy Huddleston, Jack Pardee, Henry Clark and Bill Schroeder.

"We haven't decided on any defense yet," said Kettler, and added, "We have some promising players."

The teams will use only one defense during the game. Both squads have about 60 players, but that number will be trimmed down to about 30 before the game. Players will work out in shorts until Dec. 13.

HEAD MAN—John Floyd opens his fifth season as A&M's head basketball coach tonight when his varsity meets the University of Houston. He played and was an assistant coach at Oklahoma A&M under Hank Iba.

A&M kicks off its 43rd basketball season tonight in its new 8,500-seat field house, sending a green 12-man squad against the seasoned University of Houston Cougars at 8 p.m.

The contest is the official opening game for the G. Rollie White coliseum. No official ceremonies are planned.

Coach John Floyd, after sending his team through an hour and a half drill yesterday, said, "We've improved 100 per cent since last Saturday. Before that, we simply wasted our time. Right now, they're looking good."

Floyd announced this starting lineup for the Cadets — George Mehaffey, a 6-4 sophomore, at center; Bill Brophy, 6-3 junior, and Bob Gattis, 6-3½ soph, at forwards; co-captains Pat McCrory, 6-0 senior, and John Fortenberry, 6-2½ junior, at guards.

McCrory and Fortenberry are the only lettermen on the squad. McCrory is the only senior.

Houston, featuring seven-foot Don Boldebeck, will be out for its 100th basketball victory since its first season—1946.

Boldebeck scored 1,103 points in two seasons at Nebraska Wesleyan, then transferred to Houston last year and was held out. He and 6-4 forward Jim Hatton, a two-year letterman, will play the pivots in the Cougar tandem post offense.

Houston's other three starters also are lettermen. They are 6-2 Jack Foster at the other forward, and Jackie Bell and Lupe Lopez, both 5-11, at guards. Forward Don Bilbrey, 6-3½ junior, and guard Roger Harvey, 5-11 soph, are the top reserves for the Aggies.

The varsity defeated the Freshmen 67-52 in a warmup game Monday night. Mehaffey, the game's leading scorer, made 16 points.

Smoking tonight in the coliseum will be permitted only in the outer corridors.
