Bowl Squads Put On Pads

Army and air force teams ran through their first scrimmages in pads yesterday. Only two workout periods remain before the teams meet Thursday in the 12th Man Bowl.

The defensive units dominated most of the play, as the offensive teams had trouble getting their plays to work.

"We didn't get to work out very long today," said Bennie Sinclair, coach of the army squad. "and possibly for that reason we didn't seem to get the timing on our blocking down just right."

Army line coaches Lawrence Winkler and Lloyd Hale agreed that their charges were looking "very good."

They singled out linemen Roy Millen, Wendell Baker, Paul Beckman, William Abraham, and Bobby Goble.

"I think our team looked surprisingly good for the first day in pads," said air force coach Elwood Kettler, "and they were improving toward the last of the scrimmage."

Both teams plan a longer and harder scrimmage for today.

Brophy Hits for 28 But Ags Bow to LSU

Special to The Battalion

BATON ROUGE, La.—Bill Brophy threw in 28 points in A&M's best game of the season Monday night, but the LSU Tigers handed the Aggies their fourth straight loss of the season 73-61.

Brophy connected on 13 field goals and two of four free throws for his great point contribution against the tough zone defense LSU played.

The game wound up the Louisiana trip for A&M. After the 53-82 loss to Tulane in New Orleans Saturday night, and last night's defeat, the Aggies are idle until Dec. 21-22, when they compete in the holiday doubleheaders at Canyon. The Ags meet West Texas Dec. 21 and play either Hardin-Simmons or Pepperdine of Los Angeles the following night.

Then comes the preseason Southwest conference tournament in Houston Dec. 27-29.

Brophy hit 22 of his points in the second half, when Coach John

Floyd's battling Aggies outplayed the Tigers. LSU, which had lost three straight games, led 33-20 at the half. But A&M found the answer to the zone defense in a sharp passing attack and Brophy's accurate eye.

With Brophy, George Mehaffey and Lee Smith hitting key buckets, the Aggies closed the gap to five points with eight minutes left. But the Tigers, hungrier than they have

The Fish carved out a 29-14 lead with 7:57 left in the first half, then the tenacious Cougars went on a spree and went ahead 32-31 on forward Bud Hayden's tipin with three minutes to go.

Sutherlin then pushed through a one hander, and center Ted Dockery made two free throws, but Cou-
