Loeffler Looks At First Squad

Their second day of practice under Coach Ken Loeffler was a turdy one for the Aggie basketball players yesterday, as the new engineer of what is hoped will be a bright future took a long look at the squad he starts with.

Loeffler worked out a 35-man squad for an hour and a half, and after it was over, had high praise for Fritzie Connally, the 6-2½ sophomore who has high jumped 55 in track and easily dunks a basketball.

"Connally is the most finished all player out there," Loeffler said. "I don't see how I can keep him off the team. You could tell that in the first three seconds."

Playing in only eight games as a freshman last season because he finished his first-year eligibility in February, Connally averaged 15.2 points and 11 rebounds per game. Loeffler also had some kind words for George Mehaffey, 6-4 junior center who averaged 13.0 in conference play and led in rebounds for the 12 SWC games.

For the first 15 minutes, the squad loosened up shooting baskets, then Loeffler played a team of veterans and a sophomore against a predominantly sophomore five for 50 minutes, showing his offense to the rest of the squad.

On one team, Loeffler had Bill Brophy, 6-3 senior and the 1954 scoring leader; Mehaffey; John Fortenberry, who averaged 12.0 over the full season; Ted Harrod, 6-0 junior who started the last six or eight games; and 6-6 Jeff Penfield, a sophomore.

The other five was composed of Al Love, 6-5 senior, and sophs Ted Dockery, 6-5, Connally, John Lesikar, 6-7, and Carter Williams, 6-4.

Loeffler again emphasized the "every man a king" angle of his "incentive basketball" to his new squad. In Loeffler's style, every pass results in a double screen. If the player with the ball doesn't find a hole in the defense, he passes to another and goes on to screen.

"You help me and I help you" is the way Loeffler puts it.

There will be a meeting of the Texas A & M Chapter of the American Association of University Professors Thursday April 14th in the Cabinet Room in the YMCA. The officers for the coming year will be installed following which a program consisting of twelve 6-minute talks by men from different college departments will be held. The subject of these talks will be the jobs which these men held with industry last summer. At the conclusion of these talks a member from the college placement office will be present to sum up the program and answer questions. Inasmuch as summer employment is one of the major problems here the program should prove highly informative and interesting. All members of the teaching staff are cordially invited.
