Chosen all-around cowboy for the show was Ira Akers of Sam Houston. Runner-up for this honor was Sonny Sikes of the same school.

Saddle Bronc Riding

Akers also took first place in the saddle bronc riding. Next in order of placing were Robert Penny of McNeese, J. Laversdorf of Sam Houston and E. M. Holt of Sam Houston.

Not satisfied with winning the above category, Akers won first in bareback bronc riding, followed by Rudy Praham of McNeese.

Dick Burks of the University of Houston, and T. E. Taylor of Texas Agricultural and Industrial college.

Bull riding honors went to Curtis Burlin of A&M. Second in this went Sonny Jameson, also of A&M, while third went to Penny and fourth to Laversdorf.

Sam Slanklen from Southwestern Texas State Teachers college roped in first in ribbon roping, trailed by Buddy Cockrell of the University of Oklahoma, Sonny Sikes of Sam Houston and Lowie

Sikes returned to the winner's circle with a first in tie down roping. Following Sikes were Peppy McKinney of the University of Texas, George Vincent of A&M, and a tie for third and fourth between Duane Crews of A&I and Charles Durham of A&M.

Cotton Kinney of McNeese held down first place in steer dogging, with Kenneth Ford of Arlington State college, Rice and Dale Burkham of Oklahoma A&M following him.

The girls' barrel race went to Lou Parson of A&I, first, with Virginia Davison of the same college, second.

Sixteen horses were entered in the cutting horse contest; four appeared at each of the four performances of the three-day rodeo.

"Miss Choya" won first place. She is owned by Lewis Pierce. "Snooky," owned by Milt Bennett; "Sonny Sikes," owned by Clem Betcher; and "Kings Pistol," owned by Jim Calhoan, followed for first places in their respective appearances.

but Kamm said his job here would not be too different from his present one—"people are people."

"And you A&M boys aren't living without girls," he said, sitting in the MSC lounge as the Saturday afternoon parade of weekend dates went by. "You just bring them in from some place else."

Asked about his idea of the relationship between civilian and military students, Kamm said, "I can't really say because I don't know enough about it, but it looks like we should try to keep the valuable leadership training of the corps, and try to develop a similar training program for the civilian students, perhaps through their Civilian Student Council."

Kamm, who will start his new job July 1, said he hoped to arrange some way of keeping in regular touch with students, "just to keep up with what's going on."

A native of West Union, Iowa, Kamm graduated from Iowa State Teachers college in 1940, took his MA degree from the University of Minnesota in 1946 and his PhD from Minnesota in 1948.

After teaching in the high school at Belle Plaine, Iowa, from 1940 to 1942, he was a civilian instructor in radio with the air force from 1942-44 and with the naval reserve from 1944-46. He became counselor and research assistant for the general college, University of Minnesota, in 1946 and dean of

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young manager handles finances for building of $5,000,000 plant

In the next ten years, the demand for General Electric industrial heating equipment will double. To meet this demand, a giant new plant (model at right) is being built at Shelbyville, Indiana.

The plant will cost $5,000,000, and the man responsible for handling finances for the entire job is 32-year-old R. E. Fetter.

Fetter's job is important, responsible

Dick Fetter's work as Financial Manager of the Department began long before General Electric started building the plant. He and his group first had to estimate probable operating costs and predict whether the plant would be profitable.

Now, during construction, Fetter's chief concern is keeping track of all the expenses on this multimillion-dollar project. When the plant is completed, he will set up a complete financial section and manage everything from tax, cost, and general accounting to payrolls, budgets and measurements, and internal auditing.

25,000 college graduates at General Electric

This is a big job. Fetter was readied for it in a careful step-by-step program of development. Like Fetter, each of the 25,000 college-graduate employees is given his chance to grow, to find the work he does best, and to realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When young, fresh minds are given freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, and the country.
