

Students Honored At FFA Banquet

Awards were presented last night to the outstanding senior and junior agricultural education student at the annual Student-Prof banquet sponsored by the A&M collegiate chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

Clifford Hobbs from Longview was named the outstanding senior, and Nathan Boardman of Lamesa was named the outstanding junior. E. V. Walton, head of the agricultural education department, presented the awards.

Edward Klinkovsky, junior from Temple, was named the winner of the $125 scholarship given by the chapter. The scholarship, given on the basis of previous work, need and scholastic standing, was presented by Lloyd Cook.

Jerry Johnson, president of the chapter, presented Dr. H. D. Foth with the Outstanding Professor and Honorary Chapter Member award. Dr. Morris Abrams, professor of agricultural education, and R. N. Craig, professor of agricultural engineering, were presented Honorary State Farmer awards by David Risinger, state president of the FFA.

J. D. Sartwell, executive vice-president of the Port City stockyards, was the guest speaker. Albert Crow was master of ceremonies, James Carter gave the invocation, and the Aggie Ramblers furnished the music.

Dames Club To Elect Officers

The Dames club will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the south solarium of the YMCA.

During the business meeting the club will elect officers for the fall semester. The group will also discuss plans for an annual picnic.

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
TAIPEI, Formosa—The Chinese Communists yesterday loosed one of the heaviest shellings of the year in the Quemoy across Formosa Strait close on the heels of their first aerial thrust in the Matsu area. The Defense Ministry said that in 45 minutes Red artillery on Amoy fired 150 rounds into little Quemoy Island, four miles away. There were no further details.

BONN, Germany—The West German Republic won sovereignty yesterday and immediately pledged it will "never rest" until it gains freedom for the 18 million Germans in the Soviet Zone. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government stressed that the jubilation of its 50 million citizens at the ending of the 10-year Western occupation is clouded by what he called the slavery of East Germany.

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev.—Save atomic power ripped into the Civil Defense test town yesterday, but the smashing nuclear blast left unhurt men and women in close-up trenches and soldiers in stout steel tanks. An immediate check on what the explosion of the test device, equalling the energy of 35,000 tons of TNT, did to Survival City was impossible.

Rodeo Team Is in Houston

Eight students will represent A&M at the National Intercollegiate Rodeo association competition at the University of Houston today through Sunday.

They are Lowie Rice of College Station; Clyde Martin of Port Arthur; Don Turner of Gatesville; Billy Steele of Streetmon; George Vincent of Sulphur, La.; Rodney Butler of Sulphur, La.; Curtis Burin of Bryan; and Henry Presnal of Tabor.

All are members of the Aggie

Rodeo club, and all have participated in other rodeos.

The Aggies' standing to date includes a first-place rating at the Arlington State college rodeo and third place in the Aggies' own show, and second in the Oklahoma A&M meet.

Competition in various rodeos in their district is the way in which team members earn the right to compete for national or regional championship ratings. The NIRA is a student affiliate of the National Rodeo association.

'Effective Use' Plans Made For New Chapel at A&M

Plans have been made for the "most effective use" of the chapel to be built here soon. Construction on the quarter-million dollar chapel is due to get under way this fall or early in 1956.

The Rev. Norman Anderson, head of the religious education department, was named to head a committee on the chapel and its use.

The committee named by Dr. David H. Morgan, president of the college, is composed of Dean of the College J. P. Abbott; J. Gordon Gay, secretary of the YMCA; J. B. (Dick) Hervey, secretary of the Association of Former Students. Theo Lindig, a student from Hye and president of the Inter-Faith council and the Rev. R. L. Longshore, president of the Association of Religious Workers on the campus, are ex-officio members of the committee.

"This committee has been assigned the responsibility of projecting plans through which the chapel will become as valuable an institution on the college campus as possible for the promotion of the spiritual life of the college community," said Anderson, who also is pastor of the A&M Presbyterian church.

FSA Financing Chapel

Construction of the chapel will be financed by the FSA. It will occupy a tree-lined plot now vacant in front of Morgan's home. It will include the chapel proper which will seat about 200 persons, a library, reception and conference rooms, patio or garden and administration office.

"It is only natural that in an institution where exploration in the field of science is so prominent as it is at A&M, that there also would be present on the campus an evidence of the deepening spiritual insights that normally should result from scientific study," Anderson said.

Recognition of Spirit

"The chapel will be an evidence that while the college develops the mind, it gives due recognition to the place of the spirit. The chapel should also become an institution where students of all faiths can find a common ground for fellowship in the things of the spirit without sacrificing their personal beliefs."

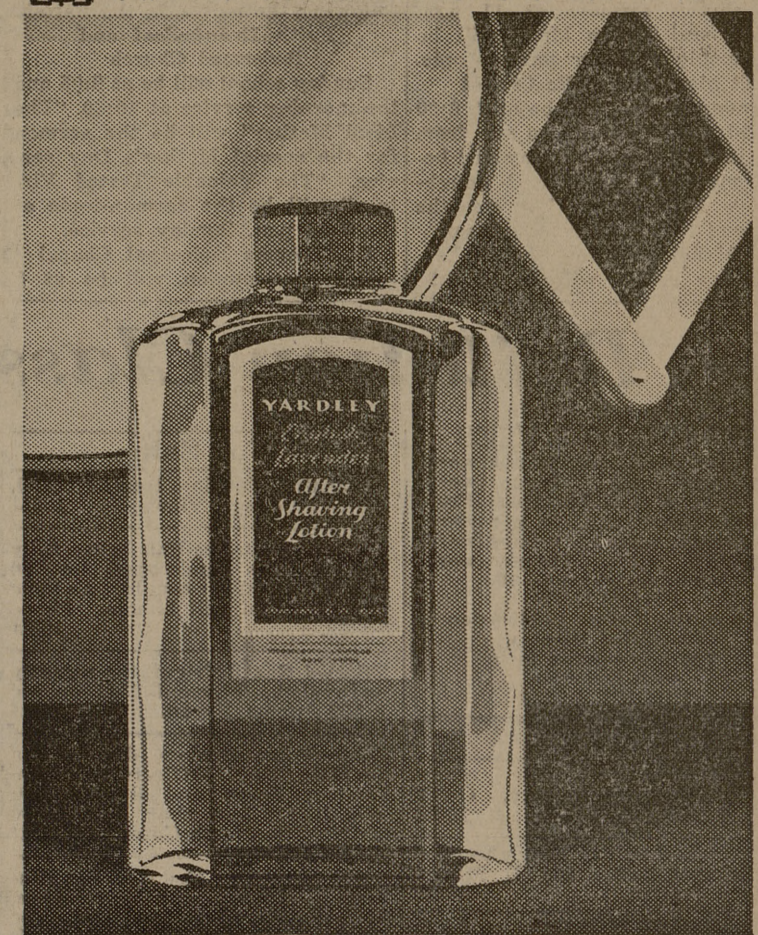

"The deliberations of the committee are at present in their early stages and little has crystallized with respect to a positive program. However, it is the view of this committee that whatever program is developed for the chapel it should not impinge upon the programs of the local churches or of the YMCA now serving the college. The committee feels that there is at present on the campus an open field for new work. It is in these areas not now adequately covered that the committee is exploring. In these areas the chapel program would not conflict with, but would only supplement, the existing spiritual programs sponsored by the campus churches, the YMCA and any other campus religious organization."

"In this way," Anderson declared, "the committee feels that the program associated with the chapel will be something new for our campus, that the chapel program shall make a significant contribution to the spiritual life of the students of all religious faiths with campus, and that it be completely equal privileges."
