

Game of Week

Senators, Orioles Tie 3-3

The first game under the new lights at Little League Park Tuesday night brought to a large crowd one of the most exciting games of the season. Struggling to an eight-inning tie, the first extra-inning game of the 1955 season, were the Student Co-op Orioles and the Black's Pharmacy Senators.

Featured in the game which ended 3 to 3 because of a time limit was brilliant relief pitching on both sides. The Orioles got into several jams because of loose fielding—they made 10 errors—but tight pitching got them out of trouble except in the third inning.

Larry Randolph toiled six innings for the Orioles, permitting only two hits. Due to a Little League ruling that no pitcher can hurl more than six innings in a week, Randolph retired in the seventh in favor of Jackie Ross. Ross promptly got in trouble, and Bobby Adams, who had been playing first base, came in to throttle the Senators during the rest of the game.

'Fireman' Fowler

The Senators picked up a superb job of relief twirling on the part of Jim Fowler. Fowler, who had been playing second base, came to the mound in the sixth when the Orioles had a man on third with no outs. He got out of the inning unscathed.

P. D. Gandy, right fielder, collected two hits for the Orioles, and left fielder Bill Berry drove in two runs. Catcher Russel Brown of the Orioles had the game's only extra-base hit, a double, but it proved to be of no avail. For the Senators, right fielder Larry Lewis had two hits of the four they got. Fowler got the other two and drove in a run. The Orioles collected six hits.

The Orioles were up and down in the first, and the Senators, in spite of a two-base error by Oriole shortstop Les Palmer, got nothing in their half of the inning.

Nothing in Second

In the second, the Orioles got two men on base—a single by Gandy and a walk to Berry—but a force play at second ended the threat. A walk, a wild pitch, and a throwing error by the Oriole catcher put a Senator on third base with only one out, but the Oriole pitcher bore down to strike out first baseman James Riggs and force his opposing moundsman, Jack Armistead, to pop out on a nice catch by second baseman Danny Garner.

The third was of a different order, for, after the Orioles had gone down in three up—three down fashion, the Senators got their only runs of the game. The Oriole pitcher started it when he fumbled Lewis's grounder. Catcher Jimbo Carroll walked, and Coufal grounded to second. Garner, at second, picked up the ball and threw to third, trying for a force, but he threw wild. Lewis scored, Carroll was out at the plate in a sharp collision with the pitcher who had taken the throw from the catcher. Olian, meanwhile, had gone to second, from where he was singled home by Fowler.

A single by Gandy, an error, and a ground-out brought in the first Oriole run in the top of the fourth. Randolph, who had been put on base as a result of the error, scored the second run in the same inning on a passed ball.

The Senators threatened in the bottom of the fourth, filling the bases on two walks and an error with only one out. A liner to short right was caught and the right fielder threw home to hold the base runners. Randolph got out of the trouble when his left fielder, Berry, made a running catch of Olian's fly ball.

Trailing 2 to 3 in the fifth, the Orioles tied up the gall game—a tie that was not to be broken that night. After an out, third baseman Tommy Kerley singled off Olian's glove in deep left center. George Outlaw, Oriole center fielder, grounded to third baseman Sidney Coufal who threw to second for an apparent force on Kerley. However, the shortstop covering second dropped the ball, and both Kerley and Outlaw were safe. Gandy forced Kerley at third, then Randolph walked, filling the bases. Berry drove in Outlaw with an infield hit. Senator second baseman Fowler probably prevented another run from scoring with a brilliant stop of Berry's grounder over second base.

The Sixth Inning

Brown doubled in the sixth for the Orioles, sliding into second safely under the throw from left field. He went to third on a wild pitch. With the count 3 balls and 1 strike on the next batter, Palmer, the Senators decided to change pitchers. Fowler came in from second base to the mound, and Jim Mills replaced him at second. Fowler finished the walk to Palmer, then struck out Adams. Kerley popped out to first base, and Brown, who had raced toward the plate when Kerley hit the ball, was out at third, the ball being thrown there before he could get back.

Ticket Application Mailed To Faculty

Applications for tickets to the Aggie home football games have been mailed to all faculty members and employees of the A&M System by the athletic department.

In order to receive top priority tickets the applications must be sent to the athletic department by July 31.

Faculty and employees also will be admitted to all other athletic department sponsored events throughout the school year if they purchase a season book. Top priority will not apply to single game purchases.

Each faculty member and employee will be limited to two season books under the top priority rating and the books will not be transferable.

This fall the Aggie football team will play Houston, Baylor, SMU and Texas on Kyle Field. Season tickets to these four games are $13.

The Senators came close to winning the game in their half of the sixth. A single and an error put two on, but Randolph forced Coufal to ground out to force the game into extra innings.

The Orioles got nothing but a walk in the seventh. The Senators created a stir of excitement in their half, but didn't come up with any runs. Olian was safe on an error, and went to second on a wild pitch. Shortstop Johnnie Williams struck out, and Olian was out trying to steal third on the play. Fowler singled to right center, moving to third on Palmer's wild throw of Calvin Schehin's grounder. Adams relieved Ross, who had replaced Randolph in the seventh due to the Little League ruling. Adams promptly struck out Riggs to end the inning.

The Orioles managed a walk in the eighth inning, but it was lost among three strikeouts as Fowler really bore down with his fast ball. After an out, the Senators started something with Lewis getting a single, and Carroll being safe on Palmer's fifth error of the night. Coufal lined out to center field for the second out. Lewis got to third base on a wild pitch. With two out, Olian, who until five fruitless appearances last night, had been the league's leading hitter, popped out to first base to end the game in the deadlock.

If the game has any bearing on the outcome of the second half winner, it will be replayed at a later date.

The line score:
Orioles 3-6-10
Senators 3-4- 3

MSC Season Ticket Sales Start Monday

Season tickets for the second semester's summer entertainment series at the Memorial Student Center will go on sale Monday, July 11, at the main desk in the Center.

The tickets are $1.25 for students and student wives and $1.50 for non-students.

Tickets are good for admission to all seven films in the series, as well as to the special "live" program.

The movies to be shown are "The Fourteen Hours," July 19; "White Tower," July 21; "Rocket Ship XM," July 28; "Captain Blood," Aug. 2; "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," Aug. 4; "The Affair Blum," Aug. 16; "Three Men on a Horse," Aug. 18.

The special attraction for the semester will be the Bostonians, a male quartet, who will give a program July 25.

Single admission to the films is 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Admission to the Bostonians will be 75 cents for those who have not bought season tickets to the series.

Double Bill Tonight For Light Dedication

Although the first game under the new lights at Little League Park was played Tuesday, the official dedication of the new feature will be tonight. A double-header is on tap, with all of the major league teams scheduled.

At 5:30 the Red Sox tangle with the Orioles. Following this game will come the second half of the bargain bill (it's free)—Senators vs. White Sox.

Sometime during the affair, Gibb Gilchrist, head of this year's Little League program, will make a short talk, thanking everyone who has made lighting the field possible.

In last week's games, the White Sox spanked the Orioles 9 to 4 in Thursday's contest. Friday, the Orioles rebounded, slapping down the last place Red Sox 10 to 2. No games were played last Saturday or on Monday of this week.

The standing through Tuesday's game (See Game of Week) are as follows: Senators—3 wins, 1 loss; White Sox—2 wins, 1 loss; Orioles—3 wins and 2 losses; and the Red Sox have one victory against five defeats.

The schedule for the rest of the season is as follows:

Tonight—Red Sox vs. Orioles

Friday—Orioles vs. White Sox

Saturday—Senators vs. Red Sox

Monday—Senators vs. White Sox

On July 12, two all-star teams from the Minor leagues will play under the lights as a finale to their season. All of the games start at 7:30 p.m., except in the case of tonight's double header, which has the first game at 5:30.

Rookie Bob Speake of the Cubs played for a service team in Japan. His team won 99 games, lost eight and tied one.
