Bryan High School and now a sophomore music major at the University of Texas. While she was in high school she was a member of the A Cappella Choir and sang the lead in its production of "The Chocolate Soldier." She is now with the University Singers. She has sung over KPRC-TV in Houston, KL-TV in Tyler, KCEN in Temple, and the American Broadcasting System from New York with Paul Whiteman.

Playing opposite her as Bilge is Don Smith, a pre-vet student here from Princeton, N.J. His experience with light opera includes singing the lead in "The Desert Song."

Mrs. Shirley Smith, who has the part of Lavinia, is from New York, where she studied for some time with a former light opera star and sang with a branch chorus of the Metropolitan Opera Company and with the Triple Cities Light Opera Company. She has sung in several operettas, including "The Student Prince" and a local production of "The Pirates of Penzance."

Charley Jenkins, a junior student from Lamesa, appears as Battling Smith. He is a soloist with the Singing Cadets.

Playing the part of Toddy is Miss Camilla Kennedy, a voice student of Mrs. Joe Barron of Bryan. She was in the A Capella Choir for three years while she was in high school, and was president of the Thespian Society. She has taught dancing for two years with the Jane Lee School of Dance.

Mrs. Frances Ryan is a graduate of North Texas State College, where she sang with the grand chorus. She has had a great deal of experience in singing with choirs, but this is her first work with light opera. She plays Charlotte Payne.

Carl Coppock, a graduate student at A&M, plays Ensign Allen. He sang for two years with the men's glee club at Manchester College and for two years with the Ohio State A Cappella Choir.

Ron Logan is in charge of the lighting, and Mrs. Ron Logan has the triple job of publicity director, stage manager, and costume hand-

Journalism Courses To Be Offered

The Journalism Department will offer two courses in the second summer semester, agricultural journalism 415 and journalism 311, radio news writing, editing and broadcasting.

Laboratory hours in each course may be arranged to suit the individual student.

In most divisions of the School of Agriculture where a course in journalism is required or is optional, either agricultural journalism 415 or journalism 311 is accepted.

For students going into county farm agent work, soil conservation work, or vocational agricultural teaching, one of these courses is considered a "must." Both courses give the student a full working knowledge of how to use the press and the radio in his public relations work.

Hundreds of students who have had one or both of these courses are now holding important jobs in agricultural journalism or radio farm directing work. Hundreds of other graduates of A&M now engaged in public or quasi-public service find that they can more easily and efficiently enlist the aid and support of the public in their field of work by having a working knowledge of journalism and radio.

Journalism 311 will meet daily from 9 to 10 a.m., while agricultural journalism 415 will meet daily from 11 to 12 noon. Professor Otis Miller will teach the two courses.

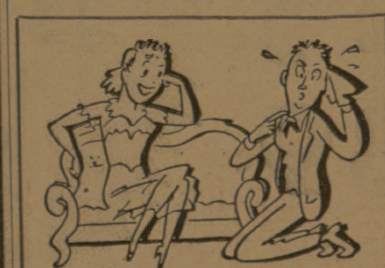

Soil Workshop Set July 9-20

Members of the Soil Conservation Service and the A&M College System will hold a workshop meeting July 19-20 to offer improved service to Texas agriculture.

Dr. J. E. Adams, dean of the School of Agriculture, who is a joint chairman of the workshop, along with V. W. Woodman of Temple, said "Since the first such workshop was held one year ago, several problem areas have received special attention by study groups composed of representatives of both organizations.

"Results of these studies will be presented at the workshop so that problems in our Texas agriculture will receive more uniform treatment."

Significance of these studies is indicated by the presence in the study groups of both Dr. R. D. Lewis, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station; Director G. G. Gibson of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and top-level administrators from the Soil Conservation Service.

Dr. Russell Makes Frozen Fruit Salad Doubles as Dessert

A field study of the stratigraphy of the Wellborn and Manning formations in east-central Texas by Dr. W. L. Russell, research geologist at the Texas Engineering Experiment Station, A&M College, has provided several geological observations.

It has been found that a sandstone previously identified as Carlos extending southwest from the type locality (one-half mile north of the road intersection at Carlos in Grimes county) is actually a sandstone in the Manning. This sandstone which was confused with the Carlos is named Goodbread. This type locality is on Lake Creek about a mile west of Carlos.

As a result of the study the sandstone exposed about one-half mile north of Carlos is observed as probably, but not certainly, being Carlos. The sandstone one mile west of Carlos is identified with certainty as Goodbread in the Manning formation. The sandstone exposed on the north side of a ridge about 2.7 miles west and slightly north of Carlos is considered with certainty to be Carlos.

The sandstone which lies a short distance below the Yuma sandstone at the top of the Manning is named Tuttle.

Southwest of the Brazos river there is a gap of about 50 miles in which marine zones are absent, or nearly absent, in the upper Jackson. Far to the Southwest two marine zones are present above the Carlos sandstone. The marine zone at the top of the Manning in Brazos and Grimes counties is seen as probably corresponding to one of these marine

Every good housewife learns to use leftovers to fill out her meals, and that is what your woman's editor has done to fill out this week's paper.

Because of limited space in previous editions, some recipes which were turned in had to be left out of the Family Favorites column. Here is one of the "leftovers," contributed by Mrs. Raymond L. Rogers.

Frozen Fruit Salad or Dessert

This is really a salad recipe, but it doubles for a dessert for us when I leave out the salad dressing. The marshmallows can also be left out.

- 1 large can fruit cocktail
- 2 T. strawberry Jell-O
- 12 chopped marshmallows
- 1 T. salad dressing
- 1/2 pint cream, whipped

Drain juice from fruit cocktail into saucepan. Heat and dissolve Jell-O. While this cools, whip cream and add salad dressing if desired. Add fruit and marshmallows and stir with dissolved Jell-O.

Since we have a deep freeze, I pour this mixture into muffin tins. This individual servings look very pretty when served. If you would like to make them several days in advance, freeze them and store them in cardboard cartons or plastic bags.

If you do not have a deep freeze, turn mixture into freezing trays and cut into squares when frozen.
