

Freshman Reception

1,600 Attend Open House

More than 1,600 new students attended the Open House and Reception held in the Memorial Student Center last Sunday.

President David H. Morgan welcomed the new students to the reception. Others in the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Kamm, new dean of student personnel services and wife; Bud Whitney, president of the MSC council, and Dick Wall, MSC council vice-president.

Students met deans, and heads of the various departments of the college, such as Student Activities, Student Affairs, Basic Division, and displays in the ballroom with leaders there to welcome students and explain the committees to them. Also on hand to greet the students were many girls from College Station and Bryan who met the students, introduced them to officials, and directed them to the various exhibits.

Freshmen also took the opportunity to look over the facilities of the MSC. The dark room, art galleries, craft shop, record room, piano room, Ham Club room, browsing library, directorate offices and game room were open all afternoon.

Capers Combo furnished musical entertainment in the fountain room and Miss Sandra Sevier of Crockett played the organ in the main lounge.

A&M 12th Man Stands Ready

Whether the Aggies win, lose or draw, and it's usually been lose, the whole state of Texas knows the 12th man on the team—the foot-sore A&M student body.

The Twelfth Man tradition was born in Dallas, Jan. 22, 1922, in a game between the Aggies and the famous Praying Colonels of Centre College.

As the game entered the fourth quarter, the Aggie coach, Dana X. Bible, now athletic director at the University of Texas, saw his fast but light backs one by one being carried off the field. Bible sent a "hump-it" leader into the stands to find Gill and upon from the stands and was out on the field ready, he became the first "Twelfth Man."

Then he remembered a sophomore back who had been working out with the squad all season, a boy named King Gill, with plenty of heart but without the weight and experience. Gill had not been taken to Dallas with the team but, like all good Aggies, had gone to the game and was in the stands with the Cadet Corps.

Bible sent a "hump-it" leader into the stands to find Gill and upon from the stands and was out on the field ready, he became the first "Twelfth Man."
