Educators Need Action, Says Prof

"Educators have gone too long with big ideas but not enough concrete action," Dr. Hilda Taba, professor of education at San Francisco State College, Calif., told the Institute on Curriculum Research Conference held here Friday and Saturday. About 100 educators attended the conference.

"In college education, we tend to follow set patterns of teaching, when we really need to educate the educators in developing their own techniques in instructing," Dr.
Taba declared.

Research sections were held throughout the two-day conference with emphasis placed on both student and teacher problems.

Dr. G. P. Parker, head of the Education and Psychology Department and general chairman for the conference and Alexander Frazier, Houston, both of the Research committee, headed the general sessions.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer pioneers in design and sales of new tiny transistors

The germanium transistor—some smaller than the eraser end of a pencil and able to operate on a few thousandths of a watt —is probably one of the most promising developments in the electronics field today.
It opens the way to new midget radios, TV sets flat enough to hang on a wall and many other exciting possibilities.

One of the men who helped design and perfect these tiny transistors—and the man who is now head of sales for all General Electric germanium products—is James H.
Sweeney, Manager—Marketing, Semiconductor Products Department.

Sweeney's Work Interesting, Vital

As early as 1948, Sweeney was head of a group that studied the design and possible uses of germanium products. He gained national recognition for his work in developing and introducing these products to other industries, and when a new Semiconductor Products Department was formed in 1953, Sweeney was a natural choice for the job of marketing these products.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Sweeney came to General Electric in 1941, he worked in many different departments until he finally found the work he wanted to do. Like Sweeney, each of the 25,000 college-graduate employees is given the chance to grow, to find the work he does best, and to realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this:
When fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits —the individual, the company, the country.

JAMES H. SWEENEY joined G.E. in 1941 after graduating with a B.S. degree in E.E. from the University of Pennsylvania. During World War II he served four years with the Army.
