

Aggies Schedule Rugged Contact Drills After Tying Surprising Porkers 7-7

By RONNIE GREATHOUSE
Battalion Sports Editor

Aggie footballers who played a good game against Arkansas suited out in sweat clothes yesterday—but no one was seen suited out in sweat clothes.

"There just wasn't anyone who was out there playing a good game for us Saturday," said Coach Paul Bryant, "I had boys sitting on the bench who should have been playing. Our efficiency was lower than in any game this year."

It marked the first time this season that some of the players didn't suit out in sweat suits on the Monday following a game.

"We had a good workout today," said Bryant, "and this is the first time in over a week that we've looked like that Texas Aggie team."

Saturday's 7-7 draw before 27,000 screaming Razorback fans decided one thing at least—A&M and Arkansas fathers and mothers are just about equal.

Coach Paul Bryant, who spouts more colorful phrases in a day than most press agents can dream up in a month, told one sports writer that the "secret" of the Aggies' success is that "they've got good fathers and mothers and they're just good kids and try hard."

Despite the tie, A&M remains the focal point of the distorted Southwest Conference grid picture this week. The Aggies hold a half-game lead over second place TCU and Texas, who are currently tied with two wins and one loss apiece. SMU holds down the third spot with a 1-1 won-lost slate.

Kenneth Hall, sophomore fullback, has decided to drop football temporarily.

"I don't mean quit," said Hall, "I just want to withdraw until next spring in order to catch up on my studies."

Hall, who rewrote the Texas high school scoring records while at Sugarland, advised Coach Bryant today that he was unable to practice last week because he was ill with a virus.

"Ken asked me if he could come out for football next spring," said Bryant, "and I told

Waller Edges CHS In 14-12 Thriller

By MAURICE OLIAN
A&M Consolidated Correspondent

A&M Consolidated's Tigers, after outplaying the Waller Bulldogs, but getting outscored 14-12, will travel to Sealy Friday night in quest of their first District 25-A win of the season.

Sealy pulled out its offensive guns last week to trample Tomball 53-27, their second victory in conference play against no losses.

The homecoming defeat was particularly tough for the Tigers, as they played the Bulldogs on even terms the first half and dominated the latter two periods.

CHS outrushed Waller 200 yards to 152, and gained 68 yards via passes compared to the visitors 0. The Tigers had 16 first downs, while Waller managed only seven.

Jack McNeely, playing for the first time in his high school career at fullback, turned in what was probably the best running show by a Tiger back this year. He churned out 95 yards in 19 trips, leading all rushers.

Edgar Feldman and Bill Kavanough both played fine offensive ball for Consolidated. The entire defensive eleven did an outstanding job, causing Coach Horace Shaffer to remark that this was (See TIGERS, Page 4)

Ag Harriers Down Porkers

With five men finishing in the first seven places, A&M's cross country team remained undefeated with a windy 24-31 victory over the Arkansas Razorbacks last Saturday in Fayetteville.

Team captain Bill Cocke, although beaten for the first time this season, paced the Aggie harriers to their third straight win. Cocke finished second behind Arkansas' John Mason.

Bob Boles placed third behind Cocke with Ed Blake, Carol Wilmsen and Don Carver finishing fifth, sixth and seventh, respectively, for the Aggies.

LOYD TAYLOR scored all seven of A&M's points against the Arkansas Razorbacks last Saturday. In addition he was the No. 2 Aggie ball carrier with 49 yards gained on 10 tries.

Varsity, Fish Basketballers Begin Workouts

Basketballs begin breaking spider webs in the hoops around spacious White Coliseum today, as the 1955-56 version of A&M's varsity and Fish basketball teams start readying for their Dec. 1 opener.

Coach Ken Loeffler, who came here in the spring after leading LaSalle to the NCAA finals last year, starts the fall practice sessions with a 14-man varsity squad.

Seven lettermen return from the Southwest Conference's last place team of 1954-55, and with seven crack sophomores battling for starting positions, the Aggies should be tough to handle this season.

Varsity players include Don Bilbrey, Bill Brophy, Fritzie Connally, John Fortenberry, Ted Harrod, Roger Harvey, John Henry, Ken Hutto, Al Love, Johnny Lesikar, George Mehaffey, Jeff Penfield, Bryan Sutherland and Carter Williams.

John DeWitt, a star on A&M's 1951 SWC championship team, will assist Loeffler this year.
