Teague Relates Experiences On Recent Trip

A traveler's impressions of countries on the other side of the iron curtain was one part of the talk given by Congressman Olin E. Teague before an open meeting of the College Station-Bryan AAUW Monday in the Biological Sciences Auditorium on the A&M campus.

Preceding his remarks on his recent European and Russian trip, Congressman Teague discussed the general duties of a member of Congress.

The congressman traveled in Czechoslovakia, Poland Russia and the Scandinavian countries besides numerous stops in France and Germany. Teague's impressions of the people behind the curtain are those that are last becoming legendary; except for the Russians, they are or appear in their relation with Westerners.

Mrs. Robert White, president of AAUW, announced that the next regular meeting of the organization would be Jan. 9.

Rev. Smith Speaks To Methodist Men

"Sacred events and sacred places of Christianity" was the address given to the annual Methodist Men banquet honoring their wives last night by the Rev. Mr. Arthur M. Smith of College Station.

The Rev. Mr. Smith's talk was in keeping with the religious atmosphere of the Christmas season after his return from the Holy Land this summer.

The minister is holder of the Baptist teaching chair at A&M which is one of the 17 sponsored in Texas by the Student Department of the Baptist general committee of Texas. He is also pastor of the Cottonwood Baptist Church located 12 miles northeast of Bryan.

The Rev. Mr. Smith was received by Dr. J. A. Kincannon, president of Methodist Men; The Rev. Mr. Nolan R. Vance, pastor of the A&M Methodist Church; Barney Welch, vice-president of Methodist Men and Clarence Moore, treasurer.

Group singing of songs by the guests was led by Dr. J. H. Southern. Curtis R. Holland headed the committee for the banquet menu and service, which included Ran Boswell, Dr. R. E. Branson, F. I. Dahlberg, Don Dale, E. S. Holdredge, Truman R. Jones Jr., R. E. Leighton, John Pedigo, Dr. I. W. Rupel, Dr. M. C. Schroeder, Dr. John Sperry and Bennie Zimm.

Associateships Offered Scientists

Two postdoctoral associateships for young scientists for work at the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C. and Boulder, Colo., and the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D.C. are open to qualified holders of the doctorate and others with equivalent experience and training. Dr. Ide P. Trotter, dean of the graduate school has announced.

Appointments can be made in various branches of chemistry, physics and mathematics, and applications will be evaluated by the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, Dr. Trotter said.

Additional information can be obtained from Dr. Trotter.

Underprivileged To Eat With Corps

Every unit in the Second Regiment will have an underprivileged child as a guest for the annual Christmas dinner at Sbisla Hall Thursday night.

Sam Layden, Regimental chaplain, is handling all of the arrangements. Unit commanders are coordinating with Layden in an effort to make this an annual event for future Christmas dinners.

The children, ranging in age from 9-13 are from Bryan and surrounding Towns. Each unit will take one child to supper, give him all the fruit from their tables and present him with a gift.

Paul Hornung, Notre Dame quarterback, is also a member of the basketball squad.

Job Calls

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, BUREAU OF PUBLIC ROADS will interview civil engineering majors for positions as highway engineer trainees for appointments following graduation.

LONE STAR STEEL COMPANY will interview geology majors for an opening as an assistant geologist to do field work in connection with the exploratory program.

MSC Employees Feted At Party

The Memorial Student Center gave their employees a Christmas party at 4 p.m. Sunday in the ballroom of the MSC.

The program consisted of the breaking of pinatas by the children of the employees and putting on of skits by the departments of the MSC. After the skits Christmas carols were sung.

Santa Claus greeted all the employee's children around a decorated Christmas tree, adding to the Christmas atmosphere.

CHS Freshman Girls Win Dress Awards

Seven girls from the freshman class of Consolidated High School received prizes totaling $50 for their dresses in a style show held at the school Monday.

The three judges were Mrs. Dorothy Rush, Mrs. A. R. Orr, and R. L. Boone, Vivian Sullivan was the hostess commentator.

Also entered in the contest were Jean Anderson, Susan Dowell, Yvonne Felty, Gaytha Edger, Pat Freeman, Patricia Jackson, Joyce Lorenz, Judy Litton, Dolores Marquart, Peggy Mitchell, Nancy Rogers, and Barbara Wasik.

LOOK BOTH WAYS-IT PAYS!

Whether you're walking or driving, it pays to look both ways at intersections. Statistics show that's where half of the city traffic accidents happen. Stop, look and live longer.
