Lions Club Sells Trees for Charity

The College Station Lions Club is selling Christmas trees and will use the profits for charity purposes, according to Dr. Leland C. Grumbles.

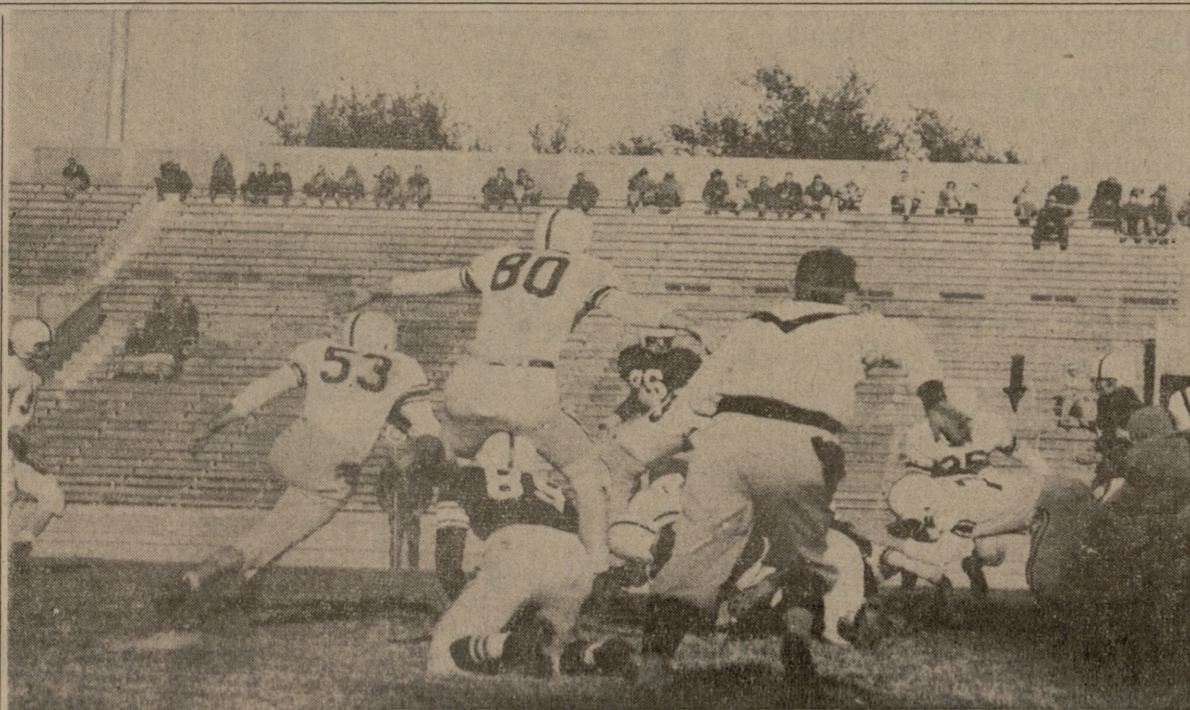

Trees are being sold at the old Western Auto Store at the East Gate. Although there are a limited number of trees, all of them are of a top grade.

Table decorations, artificial snow, fireproofing compounds and other articles of this type will also be sold.

The proceeds from the sale will be used for the Boy Scouts, buying glasses for underprivileged children, and other charitable purposes.

The store will be open from 3 to 7 p.m. on week days, and from 3 to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

The trees will be sold until Christmas Eve.

POWER IN THE LINE—White shirted blockers rush—and leap—to get in some blocking for an unidentified ball carrier (arrow) for the White team in yesterday's 12th Man Bowl game. The White eleven beat the Maroon team before a sparse crowd in Kyle Field 13-0. Profits from the game are used to support the 12th Man Scholarship and the Student Aid Fund. Game story is on Page 3.

Program Consultant

UT Girl To Join MSC

A 20-year-old brunette whose hobbies are dancing and drama will soon live in Aggieland.

Coming from the University of Texas, Miss Shirley Cannon will replace Mrs. Betty Traganza as Student Center program consultant Jan. 3.

Miss Cannon will not be new to Aggieland, at least not to those who saw the Interscholastic Talent Show last year. She is the girl who kept the crowd cheering with her performance of a Spanish dance routine.

According to an article in the Daily Texan, Miss Cannon has "all" of the qualifications necessary for work. Last semester she took 21 academic hours and performed in various campus musicals.

She even was an assistant to the director of one musical while coaching a separate part at the same time. Having been at UT only two years, she has been a finalist in two beauty contests, the "Blue Bonnet Belles" and "Miss Austin."

Some of her summer activities include modeling at Neiman-Marcus in Dallas and performing for charity purposes at different hospitals. Her home is in Grapevine.

But beauty and ability aren't the only talents Miss Cannon has.

A member of a group of girls on the UT campus called the Triggerettes, Miss Cannon holds medals for being the outstanding female rifle shot on the UT campus.

Extra Aggielands Given To Schools

A total of 391 surplus Aggielands weighing 2,937 pounds were given away in two days as Home-town Club presidents staged a "gold rush" on the Student Publications Office.

Most of the books taken were of the recent models but some of them dated back as far as 1932.

The club presidents were responding to a letter sent out by Spike White, Student Activities Office, requesting them to carry the yearbooks to their hometown high school libraries.

Had the 391 books been mailed, the postage would have cost more than $200.

Extension Service, honorees are: R. G. Burwell, Stephenville; Ruth Causey, Kountze; Juanita Fowler, Vernon; B. F. Hudson, Texarkana; Pauline Lokey, Amarillo; Claude McAdams, College Station; W. S. Millington, Angleton; Guy Powell, Kerrville, Nena Roberson, Col-

Five A&M students will attend the Southwest Conference Sportsmanship Committee meeting in Dallas Dec. 31. They will also be guest of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association for the annual Cotton Bowl game Jan. 2.

Banquet Tonight in MSC; Gen. Donovan Will Speak

A&M's first annual Student Conference on National Affairs will close tomorrow, but delegates report no flagging interest in the vital issues which are being discussed.

"The Role of the United States in National Affairs," the continuing theme of the conference, is being explored from all angles by a combination of 110 delegates and top-flight men connected with the vital world affairs of our nation. Speeches have been given, round-tables and panels held, and reports will be given tomorrow at 12 noon on the observations and conclusions reached by the delegates. This will be the final session of the four-day conference.

This afternoon is being taken up with the third round-table meetings, and the topic of interest is: "Does America Need Friends?" The fourth and final round-table meetings tomorrow morning will be on the pertinent question: "Is Peace Possible?"

If You Come Here, You've Got To Work

A visiting delegate to the Student Conference on National Affairs was put to work yesterday—if you call what the U. S. Military Academy's Lewis S. Soreley III did was work.

For perhaps the first time in the history of A&M College a visiting cadet served as acting adjutant at a review of the Corps. And Soreley, who is from San Antonio and a Brigade Supply Officer at West Point, served in that capacity. He is a senior at the Academy and one of its two delegates to the conference.

Now what would Emily Post say about having guests work?

A banquet for the delegates and honored speakers and advisors will be held at 6:30 tonight in the Memorial Student Center ballroom. Gen. William J. Donovan, former Ambassador to Thailand, now retired, will deliver the third principal address at this banquet. He will talk on "The Communist Challenge in Asia."

Yesterday afternoon following the Corps Review, Thurston B. Morton, Assistant Secretary of State for Congressional Relations, spoke on "The Mechanics of Formulating United States Foreign Policy." Excerpts from his speech follow:

"In this modern world material means are also required if fighting begins — and to discourage those who would fight. We have those means. But in an age when violence once begun could have almost no limit, our survival as a free nation, as a civilization, also depends upon programs and policies that can protect our interest by means short of violence.

"One of the strongest weapons we have for protecting ourselves is the health and success of our republic. It is difficult for those who oppose our economic and political system to promote their's if our system is flourishing and their's is not; if we are actually giving to people the benefits they claim they will give someday.

"The first principle of our foreign policy is the first principle of our life as a nation. It is the fact that we are a government of the people, by the people and for the people."

He also emphasized that the United States must work with other nations in shaping our policies, and that by adhering to the United Nations Charter, our country has expressed its will to cooperate with other nations of the world."

Merry Xmas and A Happy New Year

Christmas Seal Sale is its sole means of fund. So, how about it? "Merry Christmas" Mrs. A. V. Moore Christmas Seal Chairman

RELAXING—Delegates to the Student Conference on National Affairs have been very busy, so it's a break for them to take time to relax. Enjoying the comfort of the MSC are, seated, left to right, A&M's Walter Raynaud; Agnes Sullivan of St. Louis University; and Roy Heenan, McGill University, Montreal, Canada. In back is Dick Holden of the University of Montreal. We don't know who the curly-headed fellow holding up the lamp is.

Guion Will Close

Guion Hall will close Sunday for the Christmas holidays, according to Tom Puddy, manager. Opening date will be Jan. 3.

BABY, IT'S COLD OUTSIDE—It was cold weather yesterday for the 12th Man Bowl game, but it didn't bother the Wharton Junior College Starlettes who performed during halftime. And here is head majorette Shirley Horton, who headed the 54 girls.
