Chemist From North Ireland To Talk Here

A chemist from Northern Ireland will deliver a lecture here Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the lecture room of the Biological Sciences Building. The public is invited, Dr. Ide P. Trotter, dean of the Graduate School, said.

Dr. Cecil L. Wilson, the lecturer, is a member of the Chemistry Department, The Queen's University of Belfast, Northern Ireland. He will talk on "Ultramicroanalysis."

"In recent years", Dr. Trotter says, it has become evident that minute quantities of some substances often have a profound effect on certain chemical, physical and industrial processes. Conventional chemical techniques frequently failed to isolate the small amounts involved.

"After much experimentation by our speaker and others great progress has been made in a field called ultramicroanalysis. As the name implies this is a much more delicate and refined process than microchemistry. It deals with the analysis of exceptionally small quantities of either known or unknown substances.

"Dr. Wilson will review the history and development of the techniques used in this field. He will deal in greater detail with the work he has guided at The Queen's University of Belfast which has contributed much to this new area of knowledge. In addition he will present his ideas regarding the most likely trends which may develop in the future."

The two students faced group court with that court's decision going before the Commandant.

Silver Taps For Kinard Planned Monday Night

Funeral Held Saturday In Beaumont

Silver Taps will be held at 10:30 Monday night for Gene Thadeous Kinard, 21, senior electrical engineering major from Beaumont, who was killed last Thursday night in an automobile collision between Woodville and Livingston.

Also killed in the wreck, which occurred about 11 p.m., was a Jasper high school student, Bob Hilton, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hilton; three other Jasper boys were hurt in the wreck.

Kinard was on his way to his home when the accident took place on Highway 190, about 14 miles west of Woodville. State Highway patrolman R. D. Warren said that evidently Kinard, who was alone in his car, lost control and turned broadside. The front of the Hilton car hit Kinard's car on the right side.

The Aggie senior was to have been married last Sunday to Miss Brenda Smith of Jasper.

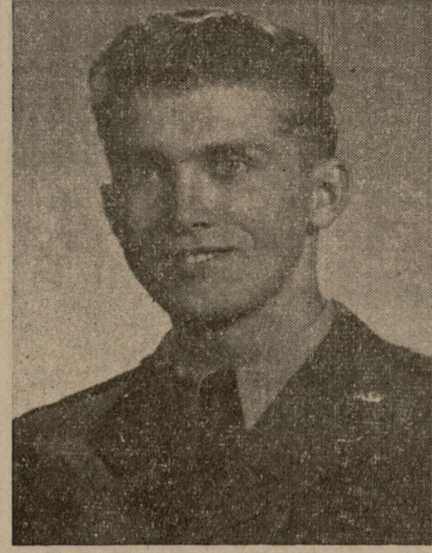

Services for Kinard, the son of G. T. Kinard of Beaumont, were held late Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist Church in Beaumont.

CS Observers Help Close Warning Ring

The selection of College Station as a site for one of the newly formed Ground Observer Corps posts for Texas means the community will help to close the perimeter begun by posts operating in Canada and most states along the outer perimeter of the U.S., Col. Percy Goff, tactical officer at A&M College and post commander for the Ground Observer Corps, has declared.

"Volunteer cooperation in this vital defense structure is urgent," Col. Goff said, "because the GOC is a cooperative community project requiring team work between many scattered towns and a filter center, which for this area is Houston, where the center is being organized and trained.

"When enough local people have volunteered to help organize and defend our part of this defense pattern, an organizational meeting will be called," he said. "Not long ago a local release carried in connection with 'Operation Sagebrush' stated a theoretical atomic bomber had sneaked beneath our radar and knocked out Bryan Air Force Base. This points out the urgent need for civilian manned GOC networks."

Persons interested in participating in the community defense project should contact him, or Mrs. Homer B. Adams, Col. Goff added.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

That, in recognition of the valor and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty of James Edward Sarran, who lost his life while saving the lives of three comrades by pushing them from the path of an on-coming vehicle and himself being crushed between it and a parked vehicle, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to cause to be struck and the President is authorized to present posthumously to the parents of said James Edward Sarran a gold medal of appropriate design with suitable emblems, devices and inscription to be determined by the Secretary of Treasury."

Immediately following the meeting will be held a double elimination singles tournament for the purpose of seeding the players for selection of the teams to compete against other schools. The tournament will be continued the next afternoon and evening if necessary.

The club is interested in novices as well as accomplished players, and will have some persons available to give instruction to those who want it, Maj. Conoley said.
