

Chiefs Rap Aggies, 76-56

A&M lost a first-quarter lead Monday night and then played a losing game of catch-up as the Oklahoma City Chiefs rolled to their 14th win of the season, 76-56. A&M's record now stands at 6-11 for the season.

The Chiefs came from behind after trailing the first 10 minutes and steadily built up their lead to as high as 21 points at one time.

Heaton Named To School Group

H. L. Heaton, registrar, has been named a member of the State Commission on School Accreditation.

There are 28 members on the commission, composed of colleges, administration, instructional and school board personnel.

G. E. Thompson, superintendent of the Wink public schools is chairman of the commission and a meeting of the membership will be held March 12 in Austin.

Ken Loeffler's Farmers just couldn't take up the gap.

High point man for Oklahoma City and for the game was the Chief's 6-10 sophomore center, Hubert Reed, with a total of 30 points. High for the Aggies were guards Ken Hutto and Bill Brophy, both of whom dunked in 15 points. Larry Bradshaw of O.C.U. dropped in 14 during the game.

A&M resumes conference play

CHS Squeaks Past Sealy Team 53-51

Consolidated High School's basketball team hit a stubborn Sealy bunch last week in Tiger Gym, but weathered the storm to protect their district lead, 53-51.

Earlier last week, the Tigers had remained unbeaten in District 25-A by nosing past Katy 31-30.

Neither team commanded a safe lead during the fracas, with CHS having a slight advantage several times. Consolidated led 15-14 at the first quarter, a lead that Sealy wiped out momentarily during the second quarter to take a 26-22 lead. The Tigers rallied to own a 31-29 half-time margin.

Garcia scored 23 points for Consolidated and Floeck hit 10. CHS had a very good 57.1 shooting percentage.

Consolidated's "B" team won the preliminary battle 25-21, with Jerry Holland scoring 10 points. This was the Kittens third straight win.

Executives Here To Study SW Industries

Thirty-six executives from Texas and Southwestern business and industrial firms began three weeks of training Monday at the Fourth Annual Executive Development Course sponsored by Texas A&M College.

The course is devoted to studying problems arising in southwestern economy as the result of rapid expansion of industrial facilities in the past few years.

T. W. Leland, head of the college's Department of Business Administration and director of the course, told students at the opening morning session that the training of executives has become one of the most important phases of company thinking within the past decade.

A recent survey of 460 major business and industrial organizations, he told students, shows that 88 per cent of these companies have or are planning intensive training programs to develop better executives.

Students of the Fourth Annual Executive Development Course will study a wide range of problems of Southwestern organizations, ranging from personnel selection and policy formation to accounting methods and capitalization for expansion.

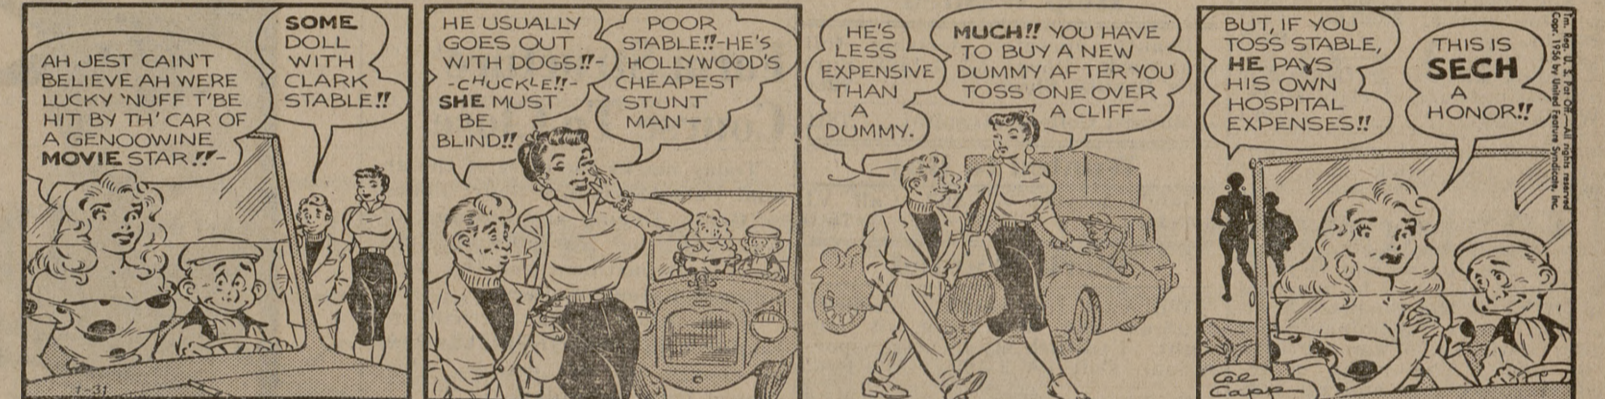

Vet. B&H Head To Aid Research

Dr. John P. Delaplaine, head of the Department of Veterinary Bacteriology and Hygiene, has been made a member of the 12-man Poultry Research and Marketing Advisory Committee established by the Federal Research and Marketing Act of 1946. The committee, composed of members from 12 states, review research work and make recommendations for completion, continuation, re-orientation or expansion of research efforts of the U.S. Department of Agriculture research program.
