

Ag Rifle Team Wins Third Against 44 Other Teams

The Texas A&M rifle team won third place in the Fourth Army Indoor Small Bore Rifle Competition, according to information from Fort Sam Houston, 4th Army Headquarters.

The Aggies, who defeated 44 other ROTC teams in the states of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico, scored 3,667 points. Oklahoma A&M took first place with a score of 3,807 and the University of Texas was second with a score of 3,688.

The matches consist of firing the .22 rifle on a 50-foot range at target sheets containing 10 bulls-eyes. Only one shot is fired at each bulls-eye. The targets are then mailed to Fourth Army Headquarters where a compilation is made. There is no actual meeting of the teams.

Sidney C. Ferrell is captain of the Aggie sharpshooters. Other members are David C. Carpenter, Fred W. Galley, Donald D. Phillips, Kenneth B. Beard, Guy H. Andrews, Dyck Boles, Edward W.

Stobart, J. Paul Costa and Larry Myers.
Capt. Fred A. Walker is the officer-supervisor for the Army ROTC while Capt. Charles Jeffries is responsible for the Air Force cadets.
The top team in the Group B Senior ROTC units (basic course only) was Arlington State College.

Student Activities To Manage Follies

The Office of Student Activities will take over managerial and advertising duties of the 1956 Aggie Follies for the first time this year. The Inter-School Council formerly handled these duties. The Council will maintain the planning and production end of the show.

The Aggie Follies will be held in conjunction with Mothers Day activities again this year. The ISC is the planning and coordinating group for social events on Parents Day. The Student Senate handles other Parents Day activities.

Plant Researcher Will Speak Today

Dr. W. R. Singleton, distinguished research plant breeder and geneticist from the University of Virginia, will talk on "Radiation, Genetics and Plant Breeding" at 4 p.m. today in room 113, Biological Science Building.

The public is invited, but it has been suggested that advance students and professors will be most interested. Dr. Singleton was previously at Brookhaven National Laboratory, New York.

His visit here is being sponsored by the School of Agriculture.

Spelling Clinic To Start March 2

A free 15-day spelling clinic beginning March 2 will be sponsored by the English Department, said K. E. Elmquist of that Department.

Students classified as juniors or above and members of the community, whether or not connected with the College, are invited to enroll. The techniques to be used are designed only for those whose native language is American English. The clinic is designed for those desiring to overcome spelling handicaps.

Three two-hour meetings will be held, the first to be from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, March 2 in the Senate Chamber of the Memorial Student Center. Two additional two-hour meetings will be scheduled at that time to suit the convenience of those participating.

Enrollment will be limited to 20. Persons interested in enrolling should contact Elmquist or his secretary, Department of English, 311 Academic Building, VI 6-4210.

Perry to Speak For I. Ed. Conference

Dr. Kenneth F. Perry, of the Colorado State College of Education, will be the principal speaker at the eighth annual Industrial Teacher Conference at A&M Friday and Saturday.

The meeting, a joint undertaking, is sponsored by the Department of Industrial Education, The Texas Engineering Extension Service and The Texas Industrial Arts Association.

Included on the program are talks and panel discussions by prominent men in the field of vocational industrial education and industrial arts education. These will include demonstrations of wood, metal, visual aids and plastics and will be given by school shop supply companies.

A special section of the program is designed for ladies and is sponsored by the Industrial Education Student Wives Club and wives of staff members of the Industrial Education Department.

Forty Attending

Forty persons are attending the Traffic Engineering Short Course being held here. It is the first of its kind to be held at A&M.

C. J. Keese, of the Civil Engineering Department, the sponsoring organization, is general chairman of the course.
