Physics Course To Be Taught This Summer

Both women and men teachers will be students during the Summer Institute for Texas High School Physics Teachers June 4—July 13 at A&M, said J. G. Potter, head of the Physics Department.

He stressed that "salvation of high school science teaching will lie in interesting more prospective women teachers in preparing to teach the sciences."

With $250 fellowships contributed by industrial companies available to the teachers, the Institute, with an anticipated enrollment of 30 students, will double the number of qualified Texas high school physics teachers, Potter said. The fellowships will easily cover all necessary expenses, he added, since special dormitory accommodations have been arranged for both men and women groups.

Application blanks and further information on the Institute may be obtained from H. L. Heaton, college registrar.

Prerequisites for applicants include college algebra, familiarity with the trigonometric functions and some acquaintance with physics comparable to that made through a minimum introductory college physics or general science course.

Six hours of graduate work will be granted for satisfactory completion of the program, Potter said.

23-7 Vote Taken

S. S. Opposes Segregation

By RALPH COLE
Battalion Managing Editor

The Student Senate, by a margin of 23-7, went on record last night as "opposing segregation." The decision, which took more than two hours to decide, came after much debate. A roll-call vote was taken to determine the issue.

Sixteen members of the Senate were absent, leaving 32 voting members present. B. A. (Scotty) Parham, Senate President, did not vote. A minute of silent prayer was offered by each member present before the voting took place.

Frank Patterson, senior senator, presented a poll taken by several students in the East Corps area only. The poll was supposedly taken from a representative group of A&M students. The Senate did not use the poll which supported segregation, due to inadequate proof that it was representative of the student body.

During the arguments, Doug De Cluitt, junior senator, said, "It would be more degrading to me to have a Negro boy chew me out than to wear lip stick all year round and walk in steam tunnels. 'There is a time and place for it," he continued, "in grade school but not in college."

Closing argument was given by Joe Ross, civilian senator. "Let's do what God wants, and not base our votes on public opinion," he said.

A motion to postpone the vote until a later meeting did not pass. Every senator present had a chance to have his say on the matter, and most of them did.

The issue was presented by Frank Webber, delegate to the Texas Intercollegiate Students Association Conference at Abilene recently. A&M's delegates voted for desegregation at the convention.

Local Groups To Hold Meeting

The College Station Development Association and Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual community meeting Monday, at 7:30 p.m., in the A&M Consolidated High School auditorium, according to W. H. Delaplaine, president of the Association.

"The purpose of the meeting is to consider proposed amendments to the constitution and to hear reports on proposed activities for 1956," Delaplaine said.

The Development Association board of directors meets on the second Monday of each month in the College Station State Bank at 4 p.m., Delaplaine added.

"This is not a meeting of the directors, but a meeting for the members," he said. "The members, of course, are the citizens of College Station."

Former Advisor Dies In Illinois

Charles Firth, 81, former student advisor here during World War I, died last week in a Grand Island, Ill. hospital.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday in the First Baptist Church of Grand Island. Burial was in the Grand Island Cemetery.

Three Trustees Will Be Elected

Absentee balloting begins in the school office of Mrs. L. S. Paine at 8:00 a.m. on March 17 and ends at 5:00 p.m. on April 3. Petitions for placing names of candidates on the ballots must be filed by 5:00 p.m., March 16, in Mrs. Paine's office. Petition forms are available in her office.

Residents of the A&M Consolidated Independent School District will also have an opportunity to vote on their representative to the county school board at that time.
