New Soviet Developments Show Sign For Peace--Dulles

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday that new Soviet developments may increase long-range chances for peace, there is no time to "terminate or curtail" the administration's big foreign aid program.

Dulles spoke for more than two hours in a final plea before the House Foreign Affairs Committee for $4,900,000,000 in new foreign aid funds for the year beginning July 1.

Next week the House group starts voting on the bill and the main question has not been whether the amount will be cut, but how much. Chairman Richards D-SC said in advance of Dulles' testimony the committee might lop off anywhere up to as much as 1 1/2 billion dollars.

Dulles told the committee: 1. It is quite possible that the Soviets have cut their armed forces and may reduce them more. And there are "germs of highly favorable developments" in Russia which, in terms of 10 years or a generation, could bring about an end to the cold war.

He said the armed forces reduction announced by Russia is possible because the Soviets may be overextending themselves by such simultaneous efforts as new weapons development and industrial and agricultural expansion.

A&M Produces Mature Men, Says Dittman

"No man through wishing ever becomes great. The Lord provides the fishing but you must dig the bait," concluded Col. Henry Dittman, professor of Air Science, in an impromptu speech to the Speechmasters Club this week.

Col. Dittman, speaking on "The Future of Our Country in Young Hands," raised the question as to whether or not the youth of today were becoming complacent and taking the path of least resistance. He gave examples of some of the heroic accomplishments of the leaders of this century and pointed out that if this country wants to continue to turn out men of this caliber it must not become complacent and undisciplined.

"I try to tell everybody I can that military training at A&M is one of the finest things that a mother's young son can be subjected to," Dittman said. "We are not hazing the men or trying to beat them to death, we are disciplining them so they can mature and follow the lines they should. It was the poorly trained and undisciplined soldiers who failed to make it back from the Korean concentration camps."

He told the story of Joe Routt, All-American guard from A&M, who during the Battle of the Bulge, asked to be transferred from a staff position to a command position. The next day Joe led his men into battle and was machine-gunned down. He gave his life for an ideal.

"What we need is capable, alert young men with a lot of drive and hustle who want to do something for their fellow man," said Dittman. "The Korean War was won by a small number of men, comparatively speaking, with obsolete weapons who had the guts, desire and determination to protect our country at all costs."

The speech was made in the Social room of the Memorial Student Center before the 30 members of the Speechmasters Club.

says, "We have a fine pitching staff and defensive team, but we don't have enough offensive strength."

Besides baseball and basketball, golf rates high on the list of activities for Bell. A World War II veteran, Beau's excess time is enjoyed with his wife and daughters.

Coach Bell says next year's team depends upon what good material the freshman team has.

"We can be sure of a good shortstop, but beyond that there is a question mark."

By coincidence, the House was debating the new defense appropriations bill as Dulles was speaking to the committee.

4. The Democratic administration that preceded President Eisenhower did much to develop a good foreign aid program. Dulles bestowed an unusual amount of praise on Richards, who is not seeking re-election this year, and stressed what he called the aid program's bipartisanship.

"The progress we have made," Dulles said, "is the culmination of 10 years of postwar effort and a great contribution to it was made by my predecessors in office."

General Mills Chickens To Be Here Saturday

The only trained chicken show in the United States will be featured at the Texas Chick, Poultry and Egg Show at DeWare Field House, Saturday.

The trained chickens are the property of General Mills Inc. and consist of six acts. The show has traveled to all parts of the United States and at the State Fair of Texas, more than one million people saw the show. It has received national recognition by twice having stories in Life Magazine as well as many other national magazines.

Some of the things which the chickens will do include laying a golden egg, shooting a gun, playing poker with members of the audience, answer any question with either yes or no, work math problems such as addition, subtraction, multiplication and getting square roots and pick out objects from under covers.

These hens have been trained at the Animal Behavior Enterprise Farm at Hot Springs, Arkansas. The shows will begin at 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. and 2 and 4 p.m. The public is invited and no admission will be charged.

Adlai Charges Republicans With Financial Influence

By The Associated Press

Adlai Stevenson says "heavy financial contributors to the Republican party are attempting to influence the Democratic primaries" against him this year.

Stevenson, seeking to become the Democratic presidential nominee again, told a group of labor union leaders in Los Angeles Thursday that he has been informed that some of the most influential men in America raised in one night "all the Republican money needed to defeat me in Minnesota."

"If this report is true," Stevenson added, "it appears that the Republican leaders who helped elect President Eisenhower in 1952 are now trying to dictate the choice of the Democratic candidate this year. If that is so, it is not unlikely that their money has or will turn up in Florida and California."

Stevenson tangles with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in the Florida primary May 29 and in California June 5.

Kefauver, also campaigning in California, was not available for comment but one of his campaign spokesmen said the Senator "knows nothing of any such support." This spokesman, former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath, said Stevenson's statement "sounds to me like a man in the first stages of panic."
