GARLOKA DRESSING

Crumbel into a bowl—4 oz. Blue cheese (about 1 cup, crumbled) Add and blend together—2 cups mayonnaise, 1/2 cup thick sour cream, 1/4 cup cider vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar, clove garlic (minced or crushed in a garlic press after thin, papery outer skin is removed). Beat until mixture is fluffy. Cover and store in refrigerator. Makes about 3 cups dressing.

Double-acting powders react largely in the oven, although their leavening action begins during the mixing.

Stir a half cup of grated cheese into a package of piecrust mix. Use as pastry for green apple pie.

AMBROSIA

Makes 6-8 servings.

Pare, and separate into sections: 4 oranges. Carefully remove all membranes. Drain well: 4 cups canned pineapple, tidbits or cubed, fresh pineapple. Peel, and slice: 4 bananas. Combine fruits lightly. Sweeten to taste. Chill well. Just before serving, sprinkle with shredded coconut, and top with maraschino cherry.

Ever serve Spanish Rice sprinkled with Parmesan cheese?

Add drained canned small green peas to stewed tomatoes; saves heating vegetables separately. Only one pan to wash.

JUMBO HAMBURGERS

Shape a pound of ground beef into a big thick patty and brown it in a little butter, cooking it to the degree of doneness you like. Then sprinkle the top of the meat patty so it is white with salt, black with pepper, yellow with dry mustard and red with paprika. Now swoosh the meat—right over the seasonings—with a square of soft butter and let the butter ooze down into the skillet. (Naturally no salt or pepper are added to the beef before cooking this way.) Remove the patty to a hot platter. Add a little water—two or four tablespoons is usually right—to the skillet and stir well; boil up and pour over the meat. Serves three.

Moslem Charity Aids Poor In Jerusalem 400 Years

By WILTON WYNN

JERUSALEM, (AP) — Hundreds of street waifs and widows receive their daily bread in Jerusalem today because charity ranks with holy war among Moslem virtues.

A free soup-kitchen set up over 400 years ago as an act of atonement by a Turkish conqueror following a bloody invasion of Palestine still doles food to the city's poor.

The Ottoman Turkish Conquerer Sultan Selim engaged in a terrible slaughter when he marched into Israel in the 15th century. But after his conquest, he sought to atone for the bloodshed by acts of charity in Jerusalem. His wife Sultana Khasgiah joined him in his project.

They endowed the "tekia Khasgiah", as the kitchen is called, using funds from a tax on several Turkish villages which the Sultan controlled.

Now the "tekia" is one of several charities supported by religious endowments.

The "tekia" opens its doors regularly at 11 a.m. The long line of the poor file into a room where Sheikh Jamil Younes Hussein doles out nutritious wheat soup which is the "tekia's" regular fare.

Moslem shiekhs in charge of the "tekia" say this daily act of charity has been carried out continuously since the time of Sultan Selim except for a few weeks during World War I.

Grain was so scarce then that none was left for the poor. After a time, however, the general of the Turkish army in Jerusalem diverted enough supplies from his troops to allow the kitchen to resume its work.

Although little known to the Western world, the "tekia" is a common institution in Islamic countries and has been ever since the Prophet Mohamed listed almsgiving as one of the pillars of the Moslem faith. There is a large "tekia" in nearby Hebron, and they are found in the larger Moslem centers like Damascus and Cairo.

How Pinky Downs Got Aggies Largest Pool

Although most Aggies know the P. L. Downs natatorium is named after the well-known "Pinky" Downs, there are perhaps a good many who don't know the full story as to how the natatorium was named.

It all started back in the 1930's when the natatorium was being built. Pinky, then on the board of directors, noticed that the pool was to be 50 feet by 100 feet.

Taking a tape measure, Pinky travelled to Austin where he noticed with dismay that the university of Texas pool was the same measurements. He immediately proposed that the measurements of the A&M pool be changed to 60 feet by 100 feet.

He was quickly told that it would cost $1,000 per foot which would run the cost up $10,000.

Rising to defend his position, Pinky grabbed the first thought that came into his mind and explained that the pool had to be wider because "the boys will want to play water polo, you know," he said, never having seen a water polo game in his life. "They've got to have room enough to swim those horses in there."

Needing a more substantial reason, Pinky, argued that it was worth $10,000 any day to have anything at A&M 10 feet bigger than it was at the University of Texas.

His argument must have been convincing since the P. L. Downs natatorium measures 60 feet by 100 feet.

Teenager Discovers Antibiotic

IOWA CITY, Iowa — (AP) At age 17, Suzan Hopkins is experimenting with an antibiotic she discovered herself in earth-worms.

Suzan isolated the antibiotic in research carried on in her own home and East High School, Waterloo, Iowa, where she'll be a senior this fall.

This summer she's continuing her research at the State University of Iowa's College of Medicine, at the invitation of Dr. Iam Maclean Smith, assistant professor of internal medicine. The Black Hawk County Medical Society and Waterloo Courier are paying her expenses.

Whether the antibiotic is new, or will have medical uses are still to be determined.

Dr. Smith declares Suzan's "interest and enthusiasm exemplify the scientific curiosity which we know the country needs in young people today."

Suzan has had only one science course, chemistry, but has read extensively in science on her own.

She began her research with a simple question: An earthworm digs and eats dirt, which probably contains germs. Does the worm possess some antibiotic or chemical protecting it?

She found it does contain an antibiotic that halts growth of at least certain types of germs. Then she extracted the antibiotic.

Sgt. Adams Wins National Honors

Sfc. Floyd R. Adams, military science instructor here, and winner of more than 50 marksmanship awards in United States and overseas competition, has added additional laurels to his growing list of marksmanship achievements.

After defeating numerous Fourth Army contestants at Fort Hood, Texas, for a berth on the Fourth Army team, Adams and his teammates journeyed to the National Match competition at Camp Perry, Ohio, where he and other Fourth Army marksmen met some of the best marksmen in the United States. The National Match competition is the "World Series" of competitive marksmanship. This year more than 1,000 individuals fired the courses with Army teams annexing most of the individual and team awards.

Adams, who has been assigned to the Army ROTC unit at A&M since September 1, 1954, was a member of the Fourth Army .22 caliber pistol team that took second place in the expert class. The team fired a score of 1127 out of 1200.

The nation-wide matches opened with individual contests with the .22, .38 and .45 caliber pistols. Adams won five awards for his excellence in this highly competitive field.

Adams is a veteran of 13 years in the Army. He has served in Berlin, Korea and Fort Hood, Texas, where he was a member of the 3632d Ordnance Company.
