Up in Fort Worth the Horned Frogs are preparing for defense of their conference crown with eight of last year's starters back and capable of opening with a two-year letterman at every post. Jimmy Swink, everybody's all-American in 1955, is returning and should have another great year, short of death.

The Aggies go into this season with their finest prospects since 1941, but everybody else is better, too, and as Coach Bryant says, "We've got to play 110 per cent to win any game because our opponents will be playing 100 per cent."

The Texas Longhorns are crying the blues because they lost 19 lettermen and have only 14 returning, but don't let that old song and dance sway you.

"This is potentially the best Texas team we've had since 1952," Coach Ed Price comments. "If 60 per cent of the key sophomores come through, we could have a great team . . . fight for the flag. Defensively, we'll be much better. Offensively, we know we can pass the ball and run with it. This team has as much potential as any I've had."

Way up in the Ozarks, you just never can tell. The Razorbacks have the best conference record over the past two years, 88-3-1, and it looks like Coach Jack Mitchell has finally got them really running his split-T. You can never count them out.

Coach Jess Neely is rebuilding down in Houston, but doesn't expect them to lie in their nest in '56. The last-place team usually does remarkable things in this league. Stranger things have happened.

The new look in Dallas isn't at Neiman Marcus but at SMU. The Mustangs are changing from slow, ponderous monsters to swift ponies, but they won't get started too well this year.

ROD & GUN CORNER

Quail wings are used in the fall to differentiate between first year birds and birds a year or more older. Covert feathers of the young have light tips or splotches as contrasted to the solid dark color of the older birds. Wings studied by the Game and Fish Commission reveal that less than 30% of the birds killed each year are over a year old.

This is the first of a series of interesting facts that will be brought to you in ROD AND GUN CORNER each Friday by —
