"Infinitesimal"

Sen. Kefauver Defends Democrat's Innocence

WILMINGTON, Del., (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver campaigned intensively in Delaware yesterday afternoon and last night despite a cold and sore throat, asserting any wrong doing in the Democratic party in the past was "infinitesimal" compared with Eisenhower administration "giveaways."

The Democratic vice-presidential nominee, starting a week's seven-state, 4,000-mile swing, rode in an open car through Dover and Wilmington and made three scheduled speeches as well as one impromptu talk.

Kefauver's first appearance was at an open air rally in front of the Delaware State Capitol Building after a midafternoon departure from Washington. In this talk

Esten Will Speak To Women's Club

C. K. Esten, assistant professor in the English department, will speak to the Bryan Women's Club Wednesday afternoon. The subject of his talk will be "Genesis of Tragedy."

To illustrate his speech Esten will present a scene from "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" that the Aggies Players presented last fall. Working with Esten and playing the parts that they portrayed in the show will be Harry Gooding as Queen, Charles Ware as Greenwald and Toby Hughs as the court president.

he said the Democrats "now have a party of idealism, a clean party, worthy of your full support."

Asked at his news conference if this meant he did not consider the party clean in the past, he answered:

"I didn't mean that in those terms. I felt the Democratic party needed many more hard working women volunteers and the enthusiasm of young people. We had grown a little stodgy and that's why we lost the 1952 election.

"But we have been much reinvigorated since that time."

In a speech last night at a rally at a Wilmington high school, he said women are going to vote in record numbers this fall and most of them will support the Democrats because of the "rising tide of inflation."

Kefauver defended his running mate, Adlai Stevenson, from a charge made earlier in the day by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) that the former Illinois governor was "too naive" to be commander-in-chief of the nation's armed forces.

"We of the Democratic party have a program that is good for the people and we have men who are capable of carrying out foreign policies without losing us all of the friends in the world that Mr. Dulles' and Gen. Eisenhower's policies have lost us."

"Property owned by the husband before marriage or the wife before marriage belongs to them alone," he said, "but all property earned after marriage is community property."

The Lions also discussed the sale of Christmas cards to benefit the Lions' crippled children clinic and introduced one guest, Bob Davis, a member of the Bryan Evening Lions Club.
