Who's Who Nominations Begin Today

Forms for nominating students for Who's Who among students in American colleges and universities may be obtained from the Commandant's office, the housing office, Student Activities office and the Main Desk of the MSC today until November 7.

These forms must be filled out and returned to any one of these places by 6 p.m. November 7, said W. L. Penberthy, chairman of the final selecting committee.

Final selection of the 32 students will be made in the early part of December, Penberthy said. This selection will be made after an extensive elimination has been undergone.

A committee of five cadets will be appointed by Lt. Col. Taylor Wilkins to assist in screening nominees in the Corps. Likewise a committee of five civilian students will be appointed by Bennie Zinn, head of the Department of Student Affairs.

Student members of the Who's Who selection committee will assist these committees during the screening process. These committees will screen nominees to 64 candidates which will be divided between Corps and civilian students on a proportionate basis.

In order to be eligible for selection a man must be an academic senior and be expecting to receive his degree no later than June 1958. He must have a grade point ratio of 1.5 or better, be active in student activities, show qualities of leadership as indicated by positions held in student organizations, and be popular with fellow students. A candidate is eligible to be selected only one year.

Area Scouts Request Aid From Community Chest Drive

(Ed. Note: This is the third in a series of articles on the agencies requesting your help in the 1956 A&M College-College Station Community Chest-Red Cross Drive.)

The Boy Scouts of America are requesting $2,500 and the Girl Scouts $2,000 to carry on their respective programs of scout work in College Station and Brazos County.

Over 775 girls between the ages of 7-17 and adult leaders participate in the Girl Scouting program in the Bryan-College Station Area Girl Scout Council. The program is open to all girls of any race, color or religion.

Community Chest contributions will be used to pay the salary of Miss Marie Meyer, full-time girl scout executive, to pay expenses of the Girl Scout Little House and to finance all the other phases of the scout movement in the council. "All the money contributed through the United Fund and Community Chest movements stays in the council," Mrs. O. B. Donaho of Bryan, Council president, said. "A total of $5 each year is sent

Lions And Wives To Attend Banquet

College Station Lions and their wives will attend the annual Ladies Night banquet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Maggie Parker Dining Room, Bryan.

Final plans for the affair were announced at the monthly business luncheon in the Memorial Student Center yesterday.

The club heard reports of the monthly board meeting held recently and results of the club's booths at the A&M Consolidated Band Boosters Band Carnival Saturday night.

Jack Conlee of Bryan was the only visitor.

to the national headquarters to defray expenses there."

Girls themselves raise money for their own or their troop's work through such methods as the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale and calendar sales.

At present there are 25 Brownie Troops, 12 Intermediate Troops and five Senior Troops in the council. Many new groups are applying to the council for admission.

Sophomores Suspended From School

Three sophomore Air Force ROTC students have been suspended from school for the remainder of the semester, according to Col. Joe E. Davis, commandant.

They were charged with violation of paragraph 44-3 in College Regulations which states "Going to another campus with the intent to paint or otherwise deface statues or buildings or commit other depredation. Minimum penalty is suspension from the College for the semester in which the act occurs."

Col. Davis said they admitted to the charges.

He said the sophomores went to Baylor with the intent of burning the bonfire but found it too closely guarded. They then drove thru the campus and "dumped four one-gallon jugs of gasoline and kerosene into the street near a girls' dormitory." A wick was inserted between the "jugs" which was set on fire before being dumped out of the trunk of the car.

In accordance with college regulations, names of the offenders were withheld.

of the Sam Houston Area Council. There are 310 boys in College Station's five Scout Troops, two Explorer Posts and three Cub Scout Packs.

Each boy in the program pays dues to the group and provides his own uniform. Additional funds from the Community Chest and other organizations provide awards, salary for professional worker Leonard McPherson, help support Camp Arrowmoon and Camp Strake and help maintain the Area headquarters in Houston.

Among the many activities of the College Station Boy Scouts are usher service at football games, "Get Out the Vote" campaigns and other civic programs.

SCONA Delegates Applications Due

SCONA II delegates from A&M will be selected by President David H. Morgan on Saturday, after the nomination committee has met with applicants on Thursday and Friday.

Seniors and juniors interested in being considered for appointment as delegates to SCONA II must fill out applications with Dean W. H. Delaplane of the School of Arts and Sciences by 12 noon Thursday.

Israelites Invade Egypt; Troops Aim For Suez

World War Fears Rise As Nations Take Sides

JERUSALEM, Tuesday, Oct. 30—(AP)—Israeli armed forces struck deep into Egypt's Sinai Peninsula today and were unofficially reported only 18½ miles from the Suez Canal.

War fears rose around the world. Egypt's army confirmed the invasion but said there had been no armed clash up until 4 p.m. EST Monday.

Egypt has been staging military maneuvers in the Sinai Desert. Its strength there is not known.

A high Israeli government source said the operation was designed to wipe out Egyptian commando nests in Sinai.

The Israeli forces were remaining in the area, not withdrawing as in reprisal raids.

Fighting blazed along Egypt's Gaza strip, about 80 miles north of the Sinai operation. Israeli reports said Egyptian forces engaged an Israeli patrol with small arms and mortar fire but there were no casualties.

As fears rose that war might be near in the explosive Middle East, there were these rapid fire developments around the world.

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower said, in a statement issued after an extraordinary night conference at the White House, the question of whether to call a special session of Congress "will be decided in the light of the unfolding situation."

Eisenhower said "we shall honor our pledge" to assist the victim of any aggression in the Middle East.

This pledge is contained in the U. S.-British-French declaration of May 25, 1950.

CAIRO—Egypt said no clashes had occurred up to Monday midnight. Cairo's big international airport, capable of handling Egypt's jet fighters, was closed to civilian traffic. Egypt's newspapers said Israel had begun a war.

LONDON—Prime Minister Eden conferred with his Cabinet leaders on the crisis.

UNITED NATIONS—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld met in urgent consultation with U. N. Security Council members.

OTTAWA—The Canadian government announced it is reconsidering an order permitting sale of 24 Canadian Sabre Jet fighters to Israel.

DAMASCUS — Syrian Defense Minister Abdul Rasib Raslin said Egypt, Jordan and Syria were ready to meet any emergency.

AMMAN—Jordan army headquarters said the Israeli border was quiet but its crack Arab Legion national army was posed and ready. Premier Suleiman Nabulsi denied Iraq's troops had entered Jordan to aid its defense.

After the station starts operating, observations will be made when the Harvard headquarters notifies the post the satellite is in range of the local group.

This will be possibly three times a month. The local watchers will be responsible for trying to locate the missile two hours after sunset. (See MOON WATCH, Page 2)

Weather Today

Cloudy with possible thunder-showers. Temperature at 10:30 a. m. was 67 degrees. High and low readings for yesterday were 84 and 70 degrees.

James Sarran Given Medal For Heroism

James E. Sarran, '58, heroic Aggie from Brownsville, who died from injuries sustained in an accident after pushing two classmates to safety last November was posthumously awarded the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission's bronze medal in Pittsburgh Friday.

Sarran died the night of the Turkey Day game last year, which was dedicated to him by members of the Aggie Team.

An attendant on the coffee-wagon carrying drinks around the outpost bonfire guards over the campus, Sarran was standing in the highway at the West Gate when he spotted an oncoming car bearing down on the group gathered around the coffee-truck. He threw himself against Roy A. Guthrie and Donald L. Moore pushing them to safety. Sarran was trapped between the car and the truck and was dragged 18 feet down the highway under the truck. He suffered multiple fractures and head injuries and never regained consciousness.

A&M Student Charged DWI After Mishap

Aggies again figured in the state highway accident list the past weekend although no A&M student was seriously injured.

Robert E. McKay, junior civil engineering major from McAllen was charged with driving while intoxicated by the Texas Highway Patrol following an accident north of the underpass on Highway 6 north of Bryan Saturday night.

McKay and W. C. Wyatt, freshman agriculture student from Godley, were returning from Waco when the accident occurred. Their car collided with the rear of a car occupied by Dr. C. R. Lyons, college hospital director.

No one was injured. Damages to McKay's car were estimated "around $600." The front end of the 1956 Chevrolet was severely damaged. Dr. Lyons' car had only "slight damages."
