

A&M Battles Tough Hogs Saturday

Ags Krueger Placed On All-American List

Stanford tackle Paul Wiggin and Pittsburgh end Joe Walton are examples of the fine crop of All-America line candidates emerging from the penalty-ridden Pacific Coast and maligned East in the current football season.

In between the continental extremes, the always-productive areas boast such outstanding performers as Jim Parker, Ohio State guard, Kentucky tackle Lou Michaels and Jerry Tubbs, the Oklahoma center.

But one of the surprising features of the grid campaign just entering the November home stretch has been the wealth of line talent which has risen in the wake of the conference's clampdown on the Pacific Coast.

The same is true in the East where the reputation of the college game has suffered in recent years.

John Witte of Oregon State, Dick Day of Washington and John Nisby of the non-conference College of the Pacific rate just half a step behind Wiggin according to the regional Associated Press All-America board in the Far West.

From the hard-hit Bruins of UCLA come guard Esker Harris and center Jim Matheny whose brilliant work anchors a forward wall dotted with new, inexperienced faces.

The Southwest offers Baylor guard Bill Glass and tackles Norman Hamilton of Texas Christian and Charles Krueger of the Texas Aggies. All are standouts. So is tackle Dalva Allen from Houston of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Other top linemen include:

Ends — Jerry Leahy, Colorado and Bill Floyd, New Mexico A&M. Guards—Jim Martin, Missouri; Ed Brown, Arizona; Wayne Coble, Oklahoma A&M; Jim Herlocker, Wichita; Lloyd Day, Tulsa.

Aggies Put Conference Lead Up for Grabs on Kyle Field

By BARRY HART
Battalion Sports Editor

A&M puts its undefeated, onced record on the line tomorrow night at 8 p.m. on Kyle Field against the Arkansas team that knocked Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's Aggies out of a Southwest Conference title share in 1955.

Only A&M's Don Watson has seen an Aggie win over the double tough Razorbacks, and that was in 1952 when Watson was a freshman. This will be the third time in as many trips to Kyle Field that the Hogs are under the reins of a different coach. In '52 Otis Douglas brought his team to a 31-12 shellacking at the hands of the Aggies. In 1954 Bowden Wyatt's conference champions slid out alive with a 14-7 win after Watson's 87-yard punt return was called back for clipping.

Arkansas shows the lightest forward wall in the league, but their depth more than offsets the lack of weight. The Hog second team punched over the first touchdown in their 14-0 victory over Mississippi last Saturday and moved the pigskin to the one-yard line on the way to the second.

"We haven't done much this week," commented Coach Bryant. "I don't know whether we're ready to play or not. And I'll tell you if we don't get ready we'll get whipped."

A & M counters the Razorbacks' one-two punch of Gerald Nesbitt and Don Christian with the most powerful running backfield in the conference. Jack Pardee, Roddy Osborne and John Crow have picked up 929 yards among them and rank fourth, sixth and eighth in the ground gaining department.

Nesbitt and Christian own 704 yards between them with Nesbitt's 437 leading the league. Christian has added 147 yards through the air to stand seventh in total offense.

Hog Cross Country Team In Dual Meet With Aggies

Arkansas' thinly-clad aggregation invades Aggeland tomorrow afternoon sporting an undefeated cross country record with everything to gain from another win.

If the Porkers can take the lightly-regarded Aggie distance men in Saturday's meet, chances are they will be in for a showdown later with the Texas cross-country team during the final SWC title contest.

"We don't have a chance of winning Saturday," declared Coach Ray Putnam, "We are merely playing out our schedule for the year and have a good chance to finish in last place."

"I'd say Arkansas is probably the number two cross-country team in the Conference," asserted the Aggie mentor, "and they'll have some mighty good boys down here tomorrow."

A Razorback press release concerned primarily with Saturday's gridiron activity stated briefly, "Arkansas' primary chances for success against Texas A&M this weekend appear to be in cross country."

Running for A&M are: Ed Blake; Jack Heald; Robert McKnight; Eddie Bussa; Ronald Kirkpatrick; Bass Redd; and Johnnie Roberts.
