Censor's Decision

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—“The Bad Seed”, a movie about a monstrous 9-year-old girl who commits several particularly unsavory murders was passed for showing by the three-women Memphis Board of Censors—but not without a deletion. The board held the picture—despite its shocking theme—could be shown on an “adults only” basis. But one word, spoken by actress Eileen Heckart, had to go. The word: “Privy.”

Aggie Talent Show Holds Auditions

Auditions for the Aggie Talent Show are slated for Wednesday and Thursday and all applicants must sign up in the Memorial Student Center Directorate Office before Wednesday, according to Shirley Cannon, program consultant.

Sponsored by the MSC Music Group, the talent show will be held Dec. 14, in Guion Hall. Co-chairmen Jasper Lind and Tommy Smith are looking for variety at this year's auditions and hope that many people will sign up.

Winner of the contest will represent A&M at the Sixth Annual Intercollegiate Talent Show in April. He will also give performances in talent shows at SMU, Baylor, Texas and Sam Houston college.

DATELINE AYRSHIRE

By Ken George

I don't know about you but most of us thought that Eydie Gorme was something. Jack Pardee and six or seven other members of that Fighting Aggie Football team found a little pleasure and fun on the dark night of November 13. Eydie and Jack sang a duet, she sang words and he crowed—like a rooster!

Pinkie had more fun than all of us. Everyone seemed a little worried when Pinkie got close to the mike but everything turned out fine.

Everything was fine except for Dave Darnalls' camera. Dave pointed his black box at Miss Gorme and when he snapped the shutter the flash bulb flickered, sputtered, and slowly went out. One can't blame the bulb though, look what it was looking at.

Major Edwards: You played a fine ball game Saturday, Mr. Wright.

Jimmy Wright: Thank you sir. A few minutes later: John Crow: What did Old Cheerful want this time, Jimmy?

Jimmy Wright: He just wanted to tell me he liked the game.

John Crow: Is that all? Jimmy: No, he gave me eight demerits too.

Note: Wright never wears a uniform except on Thursday.

Now that the NCAA has relieved itself on A&M, why doesn't Texas A&M play Oklahoma in Houston sometime after November 29 and before December 31. The rule says “No post season games.” Therefore we will call it a scrimmage and not a game. We could sell tickets and agree on a fixed percent of the gate for each school and donate the rest to charity. On second thought it wouldn't work. The NCAA probably doesn't believe in charity.

You know it is kinda ironic that the Aggies are the ones on probation when a Houston school has now and/or has had in the past all or almost all of its football players on the payroll of a large oil company. And a Fort Worth school has now and/or has had in the past all or almost all of its football players on the payroll of a large newspaper. But I guess these facts are too well hidden for the NCAA to find.

N. Gate Beauties

As inviting as a beautiful blonde... and as charmingly different in appearance... the latest Van Heusen sport shirt creations with their new eye-catching stripes and checks in rich, new colors can help you make the most of today's casual living! Soft and lustrous, these shirts are washable and specially built to stand up to anything you can dish out! They make a terrific addition to any playboy's sport wardrobe.

Want to know where you can find them? Just go by the A & M Men's Shop at North Gate at your first opportunity... they may not have any blondes for sale but you'll be able to buy some “beauties” in sport shirts! (Adv.)

Poultry Judges Chicago Bound November 23

Tom Collins, Jamie Beran and Sam White have been named members of the '56 Poultry Judging Team to represent A&M at the National Intercollegiate Poultry Judging Contest in Chicago November 27-28.

Bob Foster will accompany the team as alternate. The team will leave for Chicago Friday.

Members of the team were announced by team coach E. D. Parnell at the annual Poultry Science Banquet last night at Maggie Parker's Dining Hall. Selection of the team climaxed several weeks of training and elimination, Parnell said.

James R. Grubbs of the Grubbs Mobile Mills and Feed Store, commended the team for this year's efforts and Bill Dorum of the Texas Poultry Improvement Association presented a certificate for an official judging jacket to each member.

D. W. Williams, Vice-Chancellor for Agriculture presented trip expense checks to the team.

On the trip the team is slated to visit processing plants, breeding farms and land grant colleges to obtain additional practice.

While in Chicago the team plans a visit to the Chicago Board of Trade. After judging competition the team will visit Purina's farms at Gray Summit, Mo. and the Honnegar Breeding Farms.

The Poultry team in 1955 won second place at the contest. During past years Parnell has trained 14 teams, none of which have placed lower than fourth in National competition.
