Both Teams Expect Tough Fight on Kyle

By DON BISETT
Assistant Sports Editor

It's time again for the "Twelfth Man" to show his wares and today is the day. The fourth annual Twelfth Man Bowl will open up and pass before our eyes on the turf of Kyle Field as the Army and Air Force each battle for a win.

A grim Don Watson, Coach of the Army legions is expecting a real battle and has said, "We only know that we are going to play them as good a ball game as we know how to do."

Watson, a perfectionist at heart, is not at all satisfied with the result he has achieved with his team. This is not his fault nor that of his team, but the fault of time. If he, or Coach Dee Powell of the Air Force for that matter, could have had a few more weeks to prepare they would each feel better.

Watson said that he was far from displeased and that, "If we do win I think that the line will play a big part of that victory." Of the team as a whole he said that they were in as good condition as humanly possible in the short time they have worked.

Captaining the Army team will be Glendall Rand, senior Quarterback and Tony Gonzales starting right tackle.

Coach Dee Powell of the Air Force has the same gripe that is prevalent in the Army Camp, that of no time to prepare as he would have liked to do. Of the game he says that, "We will have the desire and the spirit and will be putting out all the time we are out there."

"I think the game will be won on breaks and desire of the boys out there playing the game," says (See BOWL, Page 6)
