Republican Leader Against Sanctions

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) last night was reported thinking of quitting the American delegation to the United Nations if the Eisenhower administration backs any move to single out Israel for sanctions.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, was said to have informed State Department officials he cannot go along with any punishment of Israel that is not matched by sanctions against Russia, Egypt and India.

Asked if he would resign his U. N. assignment in protest against American support of any resolution to apply economic sanctions to Israel for its refusal to withdraw troops from disputed territory, Knowland replied:

"I will make my position known when I find out what the administration is going to do."

Knowland announced later that President Eisenhower has called a meeting of leaders of both parties in Congress for Wednesday. He said he assumed the President will be ready then to advise the leaders what the administration plans to do next.

Knowland said he had not been informed of any plans the administration may have for altering the proposals, which Israel has rejected, calling for withdrawal of its troops from Gaza and the Gulf of Aqaba area.

The bipartisan meeting with the President will be the first for congressional leaders since shortly before Congress convened, when they were briefed on the Middle East resolution subsequently passed by the House and now ready, in revised form, for Senate debate.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, told the Senate today he hopes the deadlock over Israel's refusal to withdraw troops "does not revive the talk about sanctions or other methods of coercion."

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) told the Senate that yesterday's statement by the President amounted to rejection of Israeli requests for needed clarification of the American proposals. He said present administration policies could "play directly into the hands of Egyptian President Nasser and the Arab bloc."

There were indications the State Department is striving to come up with a new proposal in the U.N. which would avoid a showdown on the sanctions issue.

Gerald F. Tyne Will Speak To AIEE-ASME

Gerald F. J. Tyne, of Bell Telephone Laboratories, Murray Hill, N.J., will speak at a joint meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers—Institute of Radio Engineers and the American Society of Engineers tonight at 7:30 in the EE lecture room, 301 Bolton Hall.

"Talk on Miniatureization-Components and Applications" will be the title of Tyne's talk. The talk is being sponsored by the AIEE-IRE and ASME Chapters, and will be of interest and importance to engineering students, according to John Denison, AIEE councillor.

"Tyne is a very talented speaker," said Denison. "We are fortunate to have him speak to us and expect a good attendance."

The local AIEE Chapter has grown in membership from 45 in 1955 to 113 at present, said Denison. The A&M Chapter is now the largest AIEE in District 7, he said. District 7 includes Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and part of Louisiana. Approximately 40 Electrical Engineering seniors are expected to graduate this spring.

Denison said that the AIEE-IRE society is approaching 100 per cent senior membership. J. E. Blake, senior EE student, is chairman of the membership committee.

Off the Cuff What Goes On Here

An unsolved burglary in College Station really has had Tyrus Timm, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, in a whiz since last week.

Contrary to all the rules of conducting a burglary, this time the culprit brazenly walked up to a bedroom window of the Timm home, removed the screen, raised the window and as detective Timm has it figured out—poked a fishing rod with a hook on it across the room and removed Mrs. Timm's purse from a bed.

All this was done with all lights in the house on, the family all home—watching television—and early in the evening.

What makes Dr. Timm so mad is that the money in the purse was one of his expense checks which Mrs. Timm had cashed earlier in the day and had forgotten to divide with him.

Last week in this column, one Aggie's trouble with lost pants was discussed. Now the subject of pants comes up again, but this time the culprits are irritating a rampus group which many people have great respect for—the Aggie Wives.

Whereas last week's thief lifted one pair of long pants while the owner was playing football, this week finds pants of the short, sheer, lacy variety missing.

Several residents of College View reported thefts of women's undergarments over the weekend and worried Campus Security officers compared them with a growing list of such misdemeanors collected since September.

Whoever or whatever is responsible for the thefts, some campus sources, possibly remembering the recent irate letter protesting "sex stories" in the Commentator and signed "Aggie Wife", considered warning the culprit to beware of his victims.

Farm Bureau Men Discuss Allotment

AUSTIN, (AP)—Two officials of the Texas Farm Bureau met today with Gov. Price Daniel to discuss a 10-million-dollar appropriation for the Texas agricultural experimental stations.

The stations, under the A&M College System, have asked for $10,629,497 for the next two fiscal years while the legislative budget board sliced the figure of $8,540,152.

"We talked to the Governor about getting the two million dollars put back on," said Loys D. Barbour of Iowa Park and B. J. Gist of Abilene.

The appropriation includes work at 23 sub-stations and 15 field laboratories with biggest outlays going for agronomy, feed control service and agriculture economics and sociology.

Mind Determines Man's Life: Broach

Life can be meaningless and empty, or rich and full—it depends upon what a man thinks in his heart, Dr. Claude U. Broach, Religious Emphasis Week speaker, said this morning at the second campus-wide RE meeting in Guion Hall.

"The dimensions of life are the outgrowth of affirmations. Let us therefore affirm, this is a spiritual universe, God is personal and knowable, prayer is power, personality is the supreme value and Jesus Christ is the supreme personality," Broach said.

"He comes to us as one unknown, without a name, as of old. He came to those who knew him not.

A&M Hospital Urges Students To Get Shots

Now is the time to become immunized against polio—before the polio season starts, according to Dr. Charles P. Lyons, superintendent of the college hospital.

Dr. Lyons said that an adequate supply of Salk vaccine is available and it is perfectly safe. Charge for immunization is $1 per shot. Three shots are necessary for complete protection, spaced one month and seven months from the initial dose, he said.

"No cases of severe paralysis or deaths due to polio occurred in Texas last year to people who had received two of the Salk series," Lyons said.

About 900 college students have received polio immunization, including all the varsity athletes. There are no painful reactions to the Salk serum, Lyons said.

"Children up to 20 years old usually have the most severe cases. However, no age group is immune," Lyons said.

Seniors Can Order Grad Invites Now

Seniors can begin ordering graduation invitations, according to the Office of Student Activities.

Orders are now being taken at the Student Activities Office on the second floor of the YMCA. Deadline for ordering announcements has been set for March 13.

Seniors may order as many or as few invitations as they wish. There are three types of invitations to choose from.

Student Activities advised seniors to place their orders as soon as possible to avoid confusion toward the deadline.

Wrong Department

BALTIMORE (AP)—Over a fire alarm in the basement of a Johns Hopkins University building the sign said: "Fire alarm out of order. Call 'power house.'"

He speaks to us the same words: 'Follow thou Me' and set us to the tasks which he has to fulfill for our times," said the Charlotte, N. C. minister, quoting from Albert Schweitzer.

Dr. Broach officially opened RE Week yesterday with a speech on "The Power the World Needs." He said that men had access to resources and reserves of sheer power as never before, yet danger and fear prevail. Man's problems are spiritual and cannot be handled by the sheer weight of force and power, he said.

"Christian faith is the channel of spiritual power. It is a power which alters and redeems character, meets human needs and puts a new spirit in men," Broach stated.

Filing Deadline Set For Patrol

Deadline for applications to the U. S. Border Patrol is Feb. 19. Civil Service examinations for those positions will be given March 19.

Applications may be picked up at any post office. They should be mailed to Board of Civil Service Examiners, US Immigration and Naturalization Service, 119 D Street, N. E., Washington, D. C.

'The Spirit That Is Aggield'

New Record Album Planned

By C. R. McCAIN

From booming echoes of Aggie yells in The Grove to harmonious musical chords of male voices and band instruments, the Aggie's traditional songs were once again being recorded on circular wax this afternoon at Guion Hall.

"The Spirit That Is Aggield", a new album of famous Aggie songs and yells planned by the Student Activities Record Album Committee, is now being recorded by technicians from Camden, N. J.

"These men, trained by the Radio Corporation of America (RCA), have the finest hi-fidelity recording equipment available," said C. G. (Spike) White, chairman of the record album committee.

Containing eleven selections, the album is to be recorded by the Aggie Band and Orchestra, directed by Col. E. V. Adams, and The Singing Cadets, directed by W. M. Turner. Special yells were recorded last week in the Grove by the 12th Man.

Side one of two records will include "Spirit of Aggield" and "Aggie War Hymn" in yell-practice style by the Band and Singing Cadets. The old album featured only the Band. "Silver Taps" will be the third selection and will be played by Band buglers.

On side two the Aggie Band will play "The U. S. Army March" and "The Star Spangled Banner". The demand for the Band's arrangement of the National Anthem warranted placing it in the album.

The Singing Cadets on side one of the second record sing "The Spirit of Aggield" and "12th Man" in choral style. The Aggie-band Orchestra takes the spotlight next in dance style with a vocalist to play "I'd Rather Be A Texas Aggie".

"Auld Lang Syne" and "This is My Country" are sung by the Singing Cadets on side two. Aggie
