

W. T. RIEDEL

J. J. Skrivanek, Consolidated High School principal, ended rumors that he might be seeking the job yesterday, when he issued a statement saying "I would neither seek or accept the superintendency were it offered to me."

OFF THE CUFF

On the recent trip to California with the Air Force DMS flight, Mehahey had performed to the entertainment of all present showing how to really "do the bop."

After the dance he took his partner back to her table and told a Colonel sitting there that he really had a wife a man could be proud of, the Colonel grinned, and told Mehahey—"Thanks son, but my wife is sitting right here."

Seemed that the red-faced Mehahey had been dancing with a captain's wife all the time.—Tch, tch.

The Aggie football "language account" should reach a considerable sum if violations continue to mount up like they did during a practice last week.

The rules: for cursing, a player pays 25 cents; for a coach, $1; and for Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, $10.

It seems that after one afternoon's practice, Bryant owed the account $230.

Saturdays are magic days for Aggies. No more classes, no more look-a-like suits (temporarily, anyway). It's time to head for "Hometown" and have a weekend of such magnitude that it will shut out "blue Monday."

This was not the case of one Ag who came back Sunday, without that all-over weekend glow. It seems his girl had given him up for Lent.

"About a month ago I informed Superintendent Richardson that I would not be back next year," his statement said. "Recently patrons have approached me and asked if I would allow them to draft me for the superintendency. To those school patrons who have expressed such high confidence in me, I am eternally grateful."

Riedel was born in Yorktown, Tex., in 1921. After graduating from high school there, he entered A&M in 1940 and left in 1942 to serve three years as a bomber pilot with the Eighth Air Force in England.

Returning to A&M he received his MA degree in Education. During the 1946-47 school year he taught in Greenville, Miss.

Riedel came to Consolidated in 1947 as Industrial Education teacher and helped organize the A&M Consolidated Junior High in 1949. He has served since then as principal of the junior high.

Graduate Presents Paper On Radar

A paper written by Capt. William A. Finley has been accepted for presentation at the national meeting of the American Meteorological Society in Chicago March 21.

Capt. Finley wrote a paper entitled, "The Use of Radar in the Investigation of Various Tornado Models," as a part of his graduate study of radar.

Petroleum Book Out

"Petroleum Production Technology", a 124 page illustrated publication dealing with the various aspects of oil production, was recently released, according to an announcement from the Texas Engineering Experiment Station. Seventeen technical writings and illustrations are included.

School Board Slate To Close Thursday

Thursday is the last day for filing for posts on the A&M Consolidated School Board for the April elections, Dr. J. S. Rogers, president of the Board said.

Two posts, each carrying three-year terms, are open, Dr. Rogers said. E. E. Brown from North College Station and H. L. Allen from Peach Creek are both up for re-election.

Aerial Application System Receives Handbook Released $30,000 Grant

"Handbook on Aerial Application in Agriculture", which was produced through the co-operation of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the A&M Short Course Office, has recently been released.

The publication contains illustrated technical writing on aircraft, distribution equipment, operation insect control, brush and weed control, preharvest chemicals, seeding, customer relations, client building and accounting.

Rockefeller Foundation officials have allotted a $30,000 grant to A&M College System's rice improvement and management training program.

Located at Beaumont, the substation serving as the center of the training program develops about 85 per cent of all rice varieties grown in Texas.

Most of the money will be used for the work of a training consultant at the substation. The grant is to run over a three-year period.
