Chicken Fricassee Heads
Tasty Menu For March

A cheery dinner menu these March days features chicken fricassee with dumplings. It's an old-fashioned dish but an ever-popular one.

Here are directions for making 6 to 8 servings:

Simmer one 4 1/2-to-5-pound (ready-to-cook weight), cut-up stewing chicken with 3 teaspoons of salt, 1 medium onion, a tip of bay leaf, and 4 cups of water until fork tender—about 2 1/2 hours.

Remove chicken from broth. Strain broth. Spoon fat from surface of broth and save for other cooking needs. Measure broth and if necessary add water to make 3 cups. Heat to a simmer.

To prepare gravy, blend 1/3 cup of the chicken fat, 1/2 cup of flour and 1 cup of milk until free of lumps. Pour slowly into simmering broth, stirring constantly until thickened throughout. Cover and simmer about 5 minutes.

Place chicken in gravy and heat thoroughly. Season to taste.

Make the dumplings from your own favorite recipe or one found in any good cook book, or simply use biscuit mix, following package directions. Garnish the dumplings with parsley.

Minister Kills Bankrobber At Road Block

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., (AP)—A Methodist minister shot and killed a fleeing bank robber yesterday just after the gunman had killed a state police sergeant at a highway roadblock.

In quick succession, only half an hour after the bank robbery at nearby Sellersburg, the double shooting cut down Marvin E. Walts, 49, a veteran of 19 years' state police service, and William Hassett, 25, Louisville.

The Rev. Robert Gingery, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in neighboring New Albany, was riding with Sgt. Walts, a member of his church, on Walts' day off when the police radio sounded the manhunt alarm.

Walts was sent to a roadblock four miles north of Jeffersonville. Jeffersonville is across the Ohio River from Louisville, Ky.

At the nearby Charlestown post, where Walts had been first sergeant almost 10 years, Walts' voice came over the radio from the roadblock, reporting that he had captured the bank robber. He asked for reinforcements to help bring the man in.

There was a few moments' silence. Then a shaken voice came over the radio:

"This is Rev. Gingery. Marvin has been shot. I have killed the bank robber. I'm sure Marvin is dead."

Later at his home in New Albany, the minister was near shock.

State police said the minister reported Walts ordered Hassett to get out of his escape car at the roadblock, about six miles south of Sellersburg, and that Hassett drew a gun and shot Walts in the head as he got out. Gingery said he then grabbed a shotgun from the state police car and shot Hassett.

Later, two women tellers from the bank of Sellersburg identified Hassett as the man who robbed the bank.

The $1,655 loot was recovered. Walts, who once served as a school principal, lived in New Albany.

Coat-Dress Costume Gets Dior's Vote Of Approval

PARIS (AP)—The importance of the coat-and-dress costume gets added impetus this season from no less a personage than Christian Dior whose 10th anniversary collection features a series of fragile and feminine ensembles in sheer floating fabrics and romantic mood.

The transparent coat of organdie or chiffon over a dress of slightly heavier fabric is a highlight of the collection.

One such costume has a white organdie coat over a short evening dress of white linen trimmed with bands of narrow black velvet ribbon run through beading.

The opposite combination is seen in an afternoon ensemble with a green silk faille coat over a dress of sheer black lily-printed organdie.

With these costumes Dior shows big-brimmed hats in the garden party manner. It is one more indication of the new mood of elegance and formality evident throughout spring and summer fashions on both sides of the Atlantic.
