

VET STUDENTS

night Mrs. Clark happily reported his condition was much improved. Yesterday afternoon, the third year Vet Meds extended their generosity to the Clarks, through a $350 check.

Seeking the best possible care for Jeffrey, the Clarks have arranged to take him to Fort Worth. The ambulance was to leave at 11 a. m. today on the 200 mile trip that will place Jeffrey under care of a heart specialist and pediatrician.

"We want to express our deep appreciation to everybody that has helped us so freely," Mrs. Clark said. "Not only to the Vet Meds, but also to the people who have brought food and offered to help in any way."

The Clarks live in College View Apartments, D-4-A.

Vets Talk of Emergency Fund
Seeing their chance to lend a helping hand in times when members of their class need aid, the Vet Meds are talking now about forming an Emergency Aid Fund Organization, and are planning to discuss it at the next meeting of the American Veterinary Medicine Association.

OUCH!

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Police said an 18-year-old ice skater here may be eating off the mantel until long after the ice melts. The youth told the emergency squad he was skating when he slipped and fell in a sitting position. Unfortunately, his skates were between the ice and his rear quarters. Thirteen stitches, police reported.

It would be the first such organization in the college, set up by members of the School of Veterinary Medicine. Planners hope to include the entire Vet School.

To raise money for the two contributions up to now, the students sold blood for $20 a pint.

When they market blood at that price, members of the class don't want to tell.

"We have a contract, of sorts," one member said, "and don't want to let anybody else get a chance at it."

"It took quite a bit of doing to find the place. We first tried to sell it in Austin, Fort Worth and Dallas before we finally found it," the student said.

Most places will pay about $10 a pint for blood, but I'd hesitate to say that Aggie blood is worth twice as much as other kinds, but it is just a good place, he said.

Weick to Receive Plaque for Report

Richard F. Weick, aeronautical engineering graduate, will receive a plaque from the Institute of Aeronautical Science for his prize-winning paper, "Preliminary Design Study of a Turbine Powered Executive Airplane."

After winning the Fourth Annual Student Paper Convention in Dallas last year, the paper was submitted to the National contest where it placed first.

Otis D. Wells, senior aeronautical student from College Station will represent A&M at this year's Convention. Wells became A&M's representative after winning a contest staged by the Aeronautical Engineering Department. His paper was entitled "Balance System for a Small Wind Tunnel."

Students from about 19 colleges and universities will attend this year's convention which will in Fort Worth from April 25-27.

Each college will send one undergraduate and one graduate student. They will be accompanied by a faculty advisor. The contest is open to all engineering students.

Men in the know know true from false

More than 50% of college men earn at least half their way through school

TRUE  FALSE

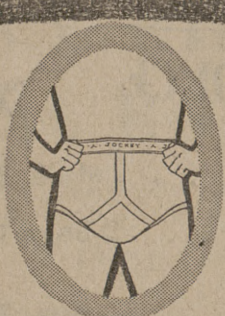

False. While 71% earn part or all of their expenses, the breakdown is: 17% earn nothing; 25% earn less than 1/4; 20% earn 1/4 to 1/2; 14% earn 1/2 to 3/4; 24% earn 3/4 to all.

College men usually marry college women

TRUE  FALSE

False. They might like to, but there are just so many more college men than college women that they can't. However, it is true that college girls usually marry college men.

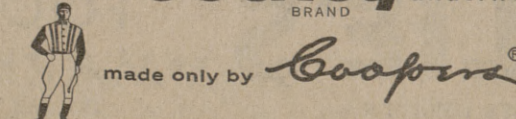

The vital part of Jockey underwear lasts longer than the rest of the garment

TRUE  FALSE

True. The waistband is usually the weak point of most underwear, but Jockey developed a special, long-wearing, heat-resistant elastic (with U.S. Rubber and the American Institute of Laundering) that actually outwears the garment itself.
