Daniel Escapes Death As Ceiling Crumbles

AUSTIN, (AP)—Gov. Daniel had a close brush with tragedy yesterday when a big chunk of fresco crumbled from a ceiling in the Mansion and fell near him.

The governor was standing at the foot of the mansion's imposing and slightly shaky stairway in the main hall when the plaster dropped from the second floor ceiling.

It bounced on the stairs, where several women were standing, broke into three pieces, and showered dust and debris over guests at a tea. The morning affair was in honor of the governor's sister, Miss Ellen Daniel and his aunts, Miss Bessie Partlow and Miss Miriam Partlow of Midland.

Mrs. Daniel was standing in a doorway nearby, but was not in direct line of the fall. Workmen were rushed to begin immediately on a repair job that the governor said was long over due. He and his family will continue to occupy the 102 year old residence the state furnishes its governors.

"I'm sure glad to see the Lord is still with us," Daniel said. "That was a close one."

Mrs. Daniel first ran to see if her husband was unharmed. Then the governor's pretty and poised wife took the mishap calmly and with a touch of humor. As departing guests told her what a nice party it was, she replied: "It certainly was different." The hall ceiling was not replaced when other rooms in the mansion were replaced several years ago.

"This work has been recommended for several years," the governor said. "But the appropriation from the Legislature was never enough to do the job."

"For at least the last six years it has been a safety rule not to allow more than 25 persons at a time on the stairway. The stair way leans and the Sam Houston bedrooms leans. All of that needs fixing."

The big Georgian mansion got its first modern face lifting in 1953. Outmoded electrical wiring was replaced, the plumbing improved and a great deal of redecorating done.

Foster, Gleason Chosen to Head 'Vet' Company

A tentative list of officers and non-commissioned officers for the newly organized "A" Veterinary Company was announced last night in a company meeting held in the Memorial Student Center.

John Foster will be commanding officer with Ivan "Rusty" Davidson as executive officer. Ed Pigott will be a platoon leader.

Jerry Gleason will serve as first sergeant with Clark Mulkey and Everett Howard as platoon sergeants. Barney Stumbo and Ralph Vodingh will be supply sergeant and scholastic sergeant respectively.

"Our goal is to win the General Moore Trophy for being the best outfit on the campus," Foster said. "We should have the best grades in the corps and should have one of the biggest outfits so we ought to do all right in intramurals and extra curricular activities."

According to the registrar's office 42 freshmen have signed up to major in pre-veterinary medicine next year. Foster said he expects this number to rise to 60 by September. The outfit will have about 20 upperclassmen.

The company will be attached to the third battalion of the second regiment. Maj. Edward L. Scott will be the tactical officer.

The Statue of Liberty was presented by France to the United States on the hundredth anniversary of American independence.

State Nears 'Yes' For Double Tuition

AUSTIN, (AP)—The Senate yesterday shoved to within one step of final passage a bill doubling the tuition in state colleges and universities.

Sen. Jarrard Secrest of Temple, sponsor of the bill approved by the House, said he expected to get final passage Wednesday by voice vote. The extra money the bill would bring in has been earmarked for public school teachers' pay raises.

The measure was given temporary approval by a vote of 13-10, with six senators paired, or 16-13. Opponents indicated earlier they could not stop it but the Senate returned in some apprehension that a filibuster might be forthcoming. The vote to lay out the bill for debate was 18-8.

Sen. Jimmy Phillips and Sen. Culp Krueger who spearheaded the opposition, spoke for about 10 minutes each against the bill.

"I challenge members that think this is a good place to get money to go out to the university and look at some of those married couples living in tar paper apartments ...

the young married mothers attending classes with the babies in bassinets," Krueger said.
