Grad Dresses Go To Parties Next Summer

By DOROTHY ROE

EVERY GIRL wants a graduation dress that can be transformed into a party dress after the diploma is safely in hand. One smart solution is to make a bare-topped party dress of white pique, with a little coverup cape. This season capes are all the rage, so it's possible to have a halter top party dress, with the cape making it a graceful and appropriate graduation dress.

One of the most flattering styles for any girl is a dress cut on princess lines, highwaisted, with a full-gored skirt, a halter neckline and a lowdipping back. The cape should fall about three inches above the elbow.

For the sheath minded, a slender dress, which might be teamed with a back-buttoning bolero is suggested. If you want a more formal look, you might make it in white silk shantung.

After graduation, you may give the dress a new look with a variety of bright cummerbunds, ranging from gay red-and-white checked gingham for a pique dress to turquoise taffeta for the white shantung. And for a really gala look, try a wide sash of organza or chiffon, with long streamers clear to the hemline. Just for fun, tip the streamers with artificial flowers.

Mrs. Thomas Talks Of Peru As Poets Dine

Mrs. F. L. Thomas, recently returned from Lima, Peru where she has lived for the past three years, was guest speaker at the annual reunion of the Poetry Society held Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Jaynes.

Julia Cisneros and Keith Kidwell, poetry contest winners from Consolidated high school, were present to receive their awards, autographed copies of poems by Charles Lee Hurley.

Other guests included Mrs. Eugene Rush, CHS English teacher, Mrs. Lucille Hartgrove Reynolds, Alabama poet, Robert Gladish and Dr. Loyd C. Taylor. Mrs. Milton Franklin read the evening's poems. Best poems in the light category, by popular vote, placed Elizabeth Wood, first; John Q. Anderson, second; and Charles Drumwright, third. Recognition for best three poems in serious vein went to Charles Lee Hurley, Dr. Anderson and Charles Drumwright.

The following officers were elected to serve again: Mrs. Dan Hudson, president; Mrs. McNeill Drumwright, vice-president; Mrs. F. L. Thomas, secretary; Mrs. T. Gordon Watts, treasurer; Elizabeth Wood, historian; Mrs. Milton Franklin and Vick Lindley, readers. The program, attended by 34 members and guests, was preceded by a buffet supper. The Rev. Gordon Watts, D. D., gave the invocation.

This newspaper doubting the wild rumors (spread by stories in this newspaper) that an enormous, lizard-like creature was actually seen emerging from the ooze of Lake Erie, sent its ace photographer after proof.

With reluctance, distaste and horror, we are now forced to admit the story is true.
