Government, CAB Plan Air Control

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The government took a first step yesterday toward complete control of all the air space over the United States in which the airplanes of tomorrow will fly.

The Civil Aeronautics Board, in an unprecedented action, provided for the establishment of a new "continental control area" above 24,000 feet, effective Nov. 1.

CAB plans to lower this ceiling gradually until all the air space is controlled. It admitted, however, that this can come only when experience and necessary facilities permit. The ceiling probably will be lowered to 15,000 in two or three years.

Flight control at 24,000 feet and above will have little effect on air lines' operations until 1959 when high altitude jet planes are to come into use.

The CAB wrote these principal changes into the air traffic rules for the new continental control area: Minimum visibility for flights under visual rules was increased from three to five miles and a minimum horizontal clearance from clouds was increased from 2,000 feet to one mile. The required vertical clearance from clouds will remain 1,000 feet.

Brucker Knocks Georgia Governor

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Secretary of the Army Brucker last night accused Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia of defaming Army paratroopers sent to Little Rock, Ark.

Brucker quoted Griffin as saying in a speech that troops of the 101st Airborne Division have been "giving themselves over to abandoned revels that would be horrifying in an occupied enemy country."

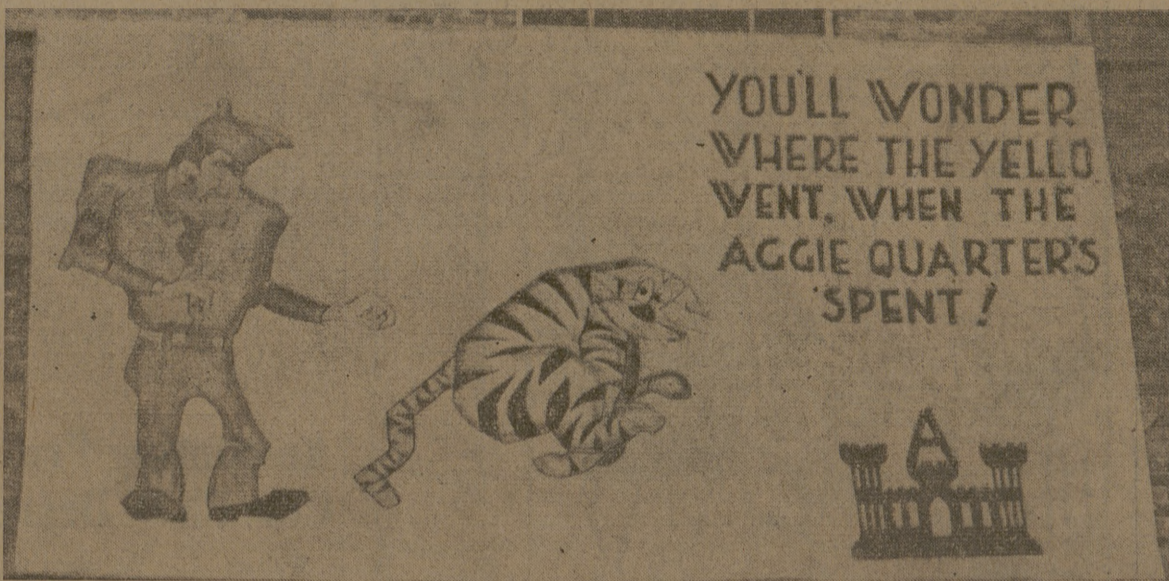

Brucker added, in a statement "These allegations by Gov. Griffin sound like those of a demagogue. They are ridiculous, inflammatory and wholly without foundation in fact."

Brucker said many members of the 101st are from the South, and from Georgia.

"They are no different from any other young Americans and they are neither brutal nor are they indulging in 'revels' of any sort," he said.

Brucker said only three of the more than 1,000 federal troops stationed in Little Rock for the past nine days have been involved in any type of incident.

"The only incident... occurred," he said, "when three soldiers who were absent without leave were apprehended in a tavern in North Little Rock last Saturday night. These men were promptly punished by their superiors for having been AWOL."

Two Curtain Countries Bar Atom Arms 'If...'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., (AP)—Poland and Czechoslovakia said yesterday they would bar nuclear weapons from their territories if East and West Germany would do the same.

Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki first made the offer in a policy speech to the U.N. General Assembly. Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister Vaclav David joined in.

Rapacki declared Poland was making its declaration after consulting others in the Communist eight nation Warsaw Pact. This presumably included the Soviet Union. Of the Warsaw Pact countries, only Czechoslovakia and Poland border Germany.

Rapacki said plans "being made to equip the West German army with nuclear weapons" might compel "threatened nations" to decide for strengthening their security. He added Poland wanted to prevent such a development.

David said Czechoslovakia was prepared to associate itself with the Polish move and to "renounce the production and stationing" of atomic weapons on its territory if both Germanys would do that also. Czechoslovakia is a producer of uranium.

Ike and Faubus Remain Locked On Troop Issue

Presidential Aide Offers New Hope

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Neither Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas nor President Eisenhower budged an inch yesterday in their troops-in-Arkansas deadlock, but a presidential aide held out a measure of hope for agreement.

Sherman Adams, the President's top assistant and one of his closest advisers, said in a Chattanooga news conference:

"In our opinion a basis will be found for the early withdrawal of federal forces from Little Rock.

"I personally believe and certainly hope this will not occur again."

Adams' words offered the only glimmer of hope for any early settlement of one of the grimmest federal-state conflicts in the nation's history.

Faubus said at Little Rock he was standing pat on his statement of Tuesday. This was the one rejected by Eisenhower as inadequate. He wants stronger assurances that the governor will prevent obstruction of federal court orders for the integration of Central High School at Little Rock.

Federal troops and National Guardsmen under federal control are in Little Rock now to enforce the court orders.

The White House was as unyielding as Faubus, and press secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday:

"There will be no comment on Gov. Faubus' statement today other than to say that I think the President's statement of last night is more apt than ever."

How is it more apt?, Hagerty was asked.

Hagerty replied there were several things, notably that the governor had been quoted as saying it was evident that disorders would follow withdrawal of federal troops.

IGY Leader Visits A&M In National Tour

Vice Admiral Sir Archibald Day, International Council of Scientific Unions, world coordinator for the International Geophysical Year program, will visit the IGY Data Center located in the Oceanography and Meteorology Department, at A&M, Oct. 6-7.

Sir Archibald plans no set talks, Dr. Dale Leipper, head of the college's Oceanography and Meteorology Department, said today.

He will be accompanied by Dr. George Rigby of the Washington office of the IGY. "Sir Archibald will answer questions and give advice we may ask on the functions of the data center and the flow of data," Leipper, says. He will come to A&M following conferences in Washington, on a tour of the US-IGY world data centers.

A native of England, Sir Archibald has his headquarters in London. He was educated at Cambridge and Dartmouth. His specialization was hydrographic surveying. He served on the Endeavor, Pitzroy, Iroquois and other ships at the British Admiralty.

He was fleet hydrographer in the East Indies, 1944-46 and was assistant hydrographer of the Admiralty, the Whitehass and in command of H.M.S. Dalrymple.

Sir Archibald was flag officer commanding the British naval forces in Germany and British naval representative in the Allied Control Commission in 1949-50. He was hydrographer of the British Navy, 1950-55.

In Opinion Poll

Aggies Say 'Nix' To Co-education

Since men's colleges are laying out the welcome mats for women over the entire United States, a short poll was taken to see how Aggies would feel about co-education here.

Sydney Heaton, B AAA, said, "Co-education would make A&M just like any other 'cookie pushing' school. It would ruin us!"

"Co-education is fine, but this is not the place for it," was one of the more favorable answers, but a large majority of the Aggies voiced a sharp "Not co-education, it would ruin the spirit of the Corps," that seemed to put a definite "no" on the idea.

Charles Sinclair, senior Corps member, says that A&M will eventually have to become co-educational because of outside pressures, but it might not be so bad because the coming of the feminine sex would help the school to grow.

"More boys will come to A&M because of the girls, and of course, the girls themselves would help increase the enrollment," said Sinclair.
