COLLEGE STATION, TEXAS, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1957

Price Five Cents

Chest to Hold Budget Hearing For Club Drive

A&M College-College Station Community Chest held its 1957-58 organizational meeting last night in preparation for the Chest drive which is scheduled for Oct. 29 through Nov. 12.

Budget hearings for the drive were set for Oct. 14 at 6:45 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center.

Co-chairman Richard Vrooman, appointed by College Station Mayor Ernest Langford, presided over the meeting. Other officers for this year's Community Chest were appointed at the meeting.

L. E. McCall is the other co-chairman, Ray Hite is treasurer and Reed McDonald is assistant treasurer. Jack Tippit was named publicity chairman with Loyd Keel as his assistant. Bob Shrode is secretary for the organization.

Through the Community Chest people may make their entire year's contribution to charities at one time and be sure that the money will all go to a worthy cause, Shrode said. The money is collected and handled by local people and placed where it will help the people of this community the most, he explained.

"People of College Station have always cooperated wonderfully in the past and we're looking forward to another very successful year," the Chest secretary added.

Four 'More' Freshmen at A&M

'Back by Demand' Town Hall Opens Tuesday; Four Freshmen First Show

By VAL POLK
Opening this year's Town Hall season next Tuesday will be the Four Freshmen who are being "brought back by popular demand" again this season.

The Four Freshmen, quite familiar to most Aggies around the campus, have never seemed to lose their popularity as do some groups that keep returning to the campus.

They started singing during their freshman year at Arthur Jordan Conservatory in Indianapolis in 1948 with a distinct "barber-shop" sound. This went over, so to speak, like a lead balloon.

Thus, they conceived the idea of trying to get a fivevoice sound with only four voices. Now it is the perfected and polished "sound" of the Four Freshmen.

Musical instruments are used by the group in a great many of their numbers which gives them the great versatility that belongs to the Four Freshmen. Each one plays certain types of instruments exceedingly well.

Bob Flanigan, who sings the top voice, plays trombone and doubles on bass. Don Barbour, the second voice, is a guitar player and is featured on solos. Ross Barbour, who sings third voice and handles all the introductions, plays drums and trumpet. Ken Albers, the group's bass voice, plays trumpet and mellophone. Albers is featured instrumentally as well as vocally on many numbers.

Placing high among the vocal groups, the Four Freshmen have won the "Best Vocal Group" category in the Metronome Magazine Poll the last three years, Downbeat Magazine Poll the last four years, and, thus far in 1957, have led the field in the Billboard and United Press Disc-Jockey's Poll, and the Playboy Magazine Jazz Poll.

In the recording field they have made such best sellers as "Day by Day", "Guardation Day", "Charmaine", and their albums, "Four Freshmen and Five Trombones", "Four Freshmen and Five Trumpets" and "Four Freshmen and Five Saxes."

Last year their tour with the Nat (King) Cole-Ted Heath Concert group proved to be a big success. Here at A&M the Four Freshmen were more entertaining to many Aggies than Nat Cole.

Admission to the program is by season tickets, or $2.50 for reserve seats, $2 for general admission and $1 for high school and elementary students.

J. Wayne Stark
MSC Director

MSC Head Holder Of Peculiar Honor

By LEWIS REDDELL
Memorial Student Center Director J. Wayne Stark is an Aggie with a unique honor. He is the only Aggie ever to be elected editor of the University of Texas yearbook, The Cactus.

Stark served as editor only a short time however. He was elected in 1941 and soon afterward was called into active duty in the Army.

After being discharged in 1945 with the rank of lieutenant colonel, Stark worked as personnel man with Anderson, Clayton & Company, Houston.

In 1946 A&M President Gilchrist appointed a committee of former students, faculty members and students to begin plans for a student union.

The committee had the job of checking up on costs, needs and operations of a student center along with deciding on what kind of governing body the staff would need.

The committee used Porter Butts, director of the Wisconsin University Student Union, as a consultant. Butts recommended that the committee hire a director some three years prior to the opening of the center so a governing body would be functioning when the center opened. The committee chose Stark as director.

Stark assumed duties as director on October 1, 1947. His first task at A&M was to assume management of two confectionaries operating on the campus, George's and Casey's.

The school had cancelled the confectionary operator's contracts prior to this.

He operated the two confectionaries as the pilot plant for the present MSC, establishing purchasing, warehousing and operating procedures from these two establishments. The beginning staff was also formed at this time.

Stark worked from 12 to 18 hours a day, seven days a week when the MSC was in its infancy. By the time the doors were opened in September 1950, the center had a fairly firm operating program. It now is a $1 million operation.

An Aggie graduate, class of 1939, Stark also attended University of Texas Law school for two years, where he won his short-lived editorship of the Cactus.

He still retains his reserve Army commission and is still active in the Anti-Aircraft Artillery Reserve. He has a special interest in the guided missile program.

Stark is married and is the father of two children, John 13, and Sallie, 7.

An occasional game of golf, the MSC activities and traveling hold Stark's interest in his leisure time. He also is vice president of the National Association of College Unions and belongs to the College Station Kiwanis Club.

Civilian Councilmen Hold First Meeting

Bennie Zinn, Head of the Department of Student Affairs, outlined the role of the Civilian Student Council in building a greater college at the Council's first meeting of the year last night.

Meeting in the Press Club Library, the 15 new councilmen attending were told by Zinn, "Whatever you do, do it for the good of A&M."

"You will accomplish nothing by squabbling among yourselves, among Civilian dormitories, or with any group," he told them.

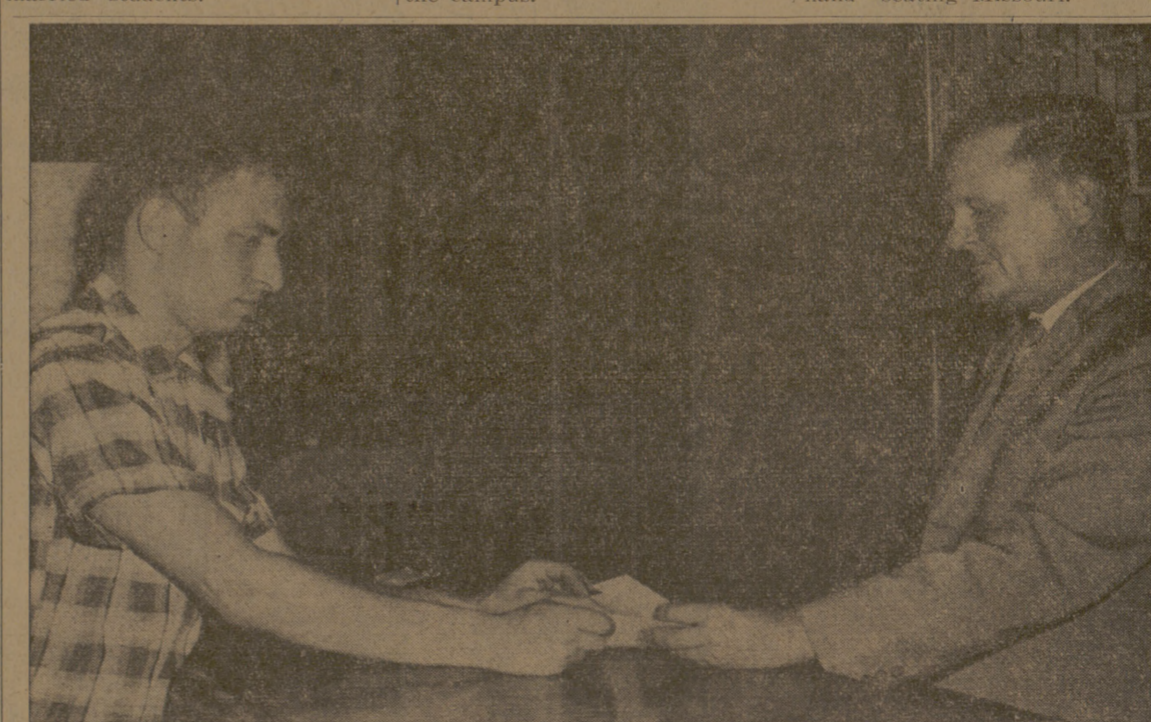

Zinn gave the group a brief summary of the history behind the council and its constitution. He explained the constitution and its meaning and application. Also he told the councilmen the meaning of the governing body and their duties and obligations as a part of student government.

In explaining student government action, Zinn advised the group not to waste time "floundering around" over an issue, but to appoint a committee and investigate the matter to find out the facts before taking action.

Zinn stressed cooperation among all student governing bodies and the need for the Corps and Civilians to work together. If an idea is originated among Civilian students which will benefit the Corps, it should be submitted through the commandant, he pointed out. And in turn if the Corps has something which will benefit Civilians it should be passed down through the Corps liaison officer.

Included among the council representatives were the two college vice councilmen elected last night, Robert Montgomery and Charlie Graham were the selections of the married students.

Aggies, Tigers Vie Tomorrow In 'Ole' Missouri

Cadets Undefeated In Twelve Contests

By GARY ROLLINS
Battalion Sports Editor

The Texas Aggies, bidding for their second straight undefeated season and a bid to the Cotton Bowl, journey to Missouri tomorrow to clash with Coach Frank Broyles' mighty Tigers.

Missouri, once considered only slightly better than an average squad, will be at full strength for this tilt, the first between the two schools.

The Bengals, pride of the Ozarks, are a great offensive team, and last season outgained eight of their ten opponents in total yards rushing.

Last week, Arizona felt the brunt of the powerful Tiger attack and absorbed a 35-13 beating. The Wildcats from the desert country were solid favorites to hand Mizzou a defeat, but Broyles' Bengals simply refuse to lie down for anybody this year.

They have a potent backfield, featuring the running of 186-pound fullback Hank Kuhlman who ripped off three touchdowns last week against Arizona; the passing of quarterback "Stub" Clemensen and the return of their outstanding backfield ace, halfback Charlie James.

The Aggies, Southwest Conference champions, will be handicapped slightly by injuries.

John Crow and Loyd Taylor, the southwest's most famous one-two punch in football, will not be seeing action and a sizable number of "depth" players have been weakened by the recent attacks of influenza.

Without the services of Crow and Taylor, the Farmers still have the best running team in the conference. Through two games, Bryant's Cadets have gained 485 yards on the ground.

The road for Coach Paul Bryant's charges has been anything but a superhighway—Maryland and Texas Tech were fired-up to defeat the Cadets and become "giant killers."

On both occasions, though, the Aggies came through at the opportune moment and scored the "next" all-important victory.

Coach Bryant, in whom each and every player solemnly believes and trusts, has taught his charges that the game "at hand" is the most important game.

So the Aggies, who can still hear the ring of the Cotton Bowl gates as they slammed shut last year, settle to this important task at hand—beating Missouri.

Senate Asks For Parking On Spence St.

A resolution to Chief of Campus Security Fred Hickman suggesting that students presently parking on Spence Street not be given tickets until parking facilities were available was passed unanimously last night by the Student Senate.

The Senate, meeting in regular session at 7:30 in the Senate Chamber of the Memorial Student Center, also discussed at length the disposition of Reveille II, at present attached to A Quartermaster Company. Final decision on the question is scheduled for the next Senate meeting, Oct. 17.

One hundred ninety four dollars and ninety cents was collected yesterday in the buckets placed at the entrances of the messhalls to care for "Rev" during the year, $44 more than the estimated need. All of the money was deposited in a special Student Activities fund for the mascot.

Aggie Rodeo Slated For Thurs. Night

The annual All-Aggie Rodeo is slated to begin Thursday and will last through Saturday. Over 150 Aggies will be competing for prizes in the major events, bull riding, bareback bronc riding, bulldogging, tie-down calf roping, and ribbon roping. Only Aggies are allowed to compete.

An added attraction will be Royce Hudson and his trained bull Hudson is tabbed as one of the best rodeo clowns in Texas.

The rodeo is sponsored by the Saddle and Sirlin Club and tickets may be purchased from any member of the club. Cost is $1 for adults, 50 cents for students and children.
