'Engineer' Writer Places In Contest

Dewitt L. McLallen of Fort Smith, Ark., senior Petroleum Engineering major has been named second place winner in the 1956-57 Student Engineer's Council Engineering Article Contest, Dr. John C. Calhoun Jr., dean of engineering, announced Wednesday.

A check for $15, supplied by the Student Engineers Council, was presented to McLallen.

His article on "Turbo-drills," for use in drilling oil wells, was printed in the May issue of the A&M College Engineer.

Development work on the turbo-drill is still in progress and it promises to be a real contribution to the oil well drilling field, he said.

McLallen is a distinguished student and is a member of Texas Delta Chapter of Tau Beta Pi and also Phi Eta Sigma.

Local Poetry Group Opens New Year

Poetry Society of Bryan-College Station met Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hudson for its first meeting of the year.

A highlight of the evening was the announcement that a new book, "Raphael, the Herald Angel" by the society's president, Mrs. Hudson, in collaboration with David Appel, will be released by the publisher this week.

It was also announced that a story by Dr. John Q. Anderson appeared recently in the Folk Lore Anthology and that several articles by Virginia Syptak were published in the Houston Post.

Saturday at 9:05 a.m., Victor Wienen of the A&M English Department will present a program of poetry over KORA. He will read selections from "Mistletoe," the unpublished anthology of Poetry Society verse.

Results of the judging by Dr. Everett A. Gillie of members' poems submitted to him were announced. He is an author and member of the English faculty of Texas Technological College.

In the serious verse category, Dr. Gillie gave first to "Biography," second to "Driftwood" and third to "Reflections at a Window," all by Charles Lee Hurley. In light verse, first went to "Dogwood" by Hurley, second to "Fable" by Jessie Merle Franklin, and third to "Excuses" by Dr. John Q. Anderson. Anderson also received honorable mention for "New Kittens."

Vic Lindley, reader and critic, read the poems presented for the evening, and judged: light verse—first, "Excuse Me, Please" by

Senate to Hear Chest Speaker

The Student Senate will hear a representative of the A&M College-Station Community Chest speak tonight at 7:30 at its regular meeting in the Senate Chamber of the Memorial Student Center.

Members will discuss the subject of a non-profit blood drive for children suffering from hemophilia in the new business portion of the program.

Reports from the Issues, Student Welfare, Student Life, and Public Relations committees will complete the program.

Ring Orders Due

October 31 is the final date to place senior ring orders for delivery before the Christmas holidays, H. L. Heaton, Director of Admissions and Registrar said yesterday.

AREA PLANNING

needed to complete plans. Experts in many of the fields to be studied are available at A&M, and with their help, the cost of the plan could be lowered considerably, the committee pointed out.

By filing a request for aid to the federal government, half the cost would possibly be paid for from federal funds but the commission unanimously agreed to try to put the plan into operation without government aid, unless absolutely necessary.

"If we pay the entire cost ourselves, we can say it is our plan," said Langford. "If we receive federal aid, there would be strings attached."

"Between the college, county and two cities, there is no reason why we cannot raise the amount between us over a 3-year period," added Butler.

The commission is to report on the committee proposal to their groups and try to get an answer by their next meeting probably within about 30 days.

Missionary To Speak Here

The Rev. Max Lowdermilk, missionary to Pakistan, will discuss Christian missions this weekend at the YMCA, the Methodist Wesley Foundation, and the Interfaith Chapel.

At 7:30 Friday night he will speak before members of the United Nations Club in the YMCA. Student workers and pastors will hear him at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, again at the "Y."

Sunday morning he will address married students at the Wesley Foundation, and that night he will speak at the Interfaith Chapel.

Under the auspices of the Student Volunteer Movement for Christian Missions, the Rev. Lowdermilk is sponsored by the following church and student groups: Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist, Disciples of Christ, Lutheran and United Church of Christ.
