Freshmen Corps students will have their last chance to get their pictures in the '58 Aggicland during the remainder of this week when make-up pictures will be taken at Aggicland Studio.

Uniform for the pictures is Class "A" winter. Blouses are furnished at the studio, but each man must bring his own brass.

The ensemble is composed of five highly talented young ladies who are equally at home on television or the stage. They have made appearances on the Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen shows.

Coached by Carlos Salzedo, the unique quintet has won an enviable reputation from coast to coast for their fine musicianship, captivating charm and thrilling arrangements.

Admission to the performance will be by Town Hall season ticket or $2 for general admission, $2.50 for reserved and $1 for high school and younger seating.

Teamsters Petition Against Hoffa

NEW YORK (AP)—Leaders of a rank-and-file movement to throw out the election of James Hoffa to the presidency of the Teamsters Union indicated yesterday that thousands of Teamsters all over the country are signing petitions against Hoffa.

John Cunningham, chairman of a New York group which has brought court action aimed at declaring Hoffa's election illegal said 65 members of Hoffa's own local in Detroit have signed petitions.

Flu Hits A&M Again; 70 Cases in Hospital

Twenty-five new cases of flu were reported by the College Hospital yesterday as the virus continued to spread at A&M.

More than 70 patients were in the hospital last night, which is three times the normal amount, Dr. C. R. Lyons, hospital supervisor, said.

He said at least half the flu was of the Asian variety. Although tests have not been made on most of the cases, Dr. Lyons said the hospital staff had become familiar with the characteristics and that they were reasonably sure of the diagnosis.

"Asian flu is usually accompanied by high temperatures, up around 103 and 104," he said. "The common colds and sniffles may be accompanied by low temperatures, but usually the temperature does not rise as in the Asian variety."

The Corps is still virtually free from the attack as most of the virus victims come from day students living in College View and Civilian dormitories.

"It looks like the flu will be with us most of the winter," Dr.

BUSINESS RISE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Officers brought a man before City Judge James Demopolos on a vagrancy charge.

"What's your business?" Demopolos asked.

"I'm unemployed," was the answer.

"How do you support yourself?" the judge pressed.

"I don't need any money to get along," the man said.

"Well, you do now," Demopolos replied. "I fine you $20 for vagrancy."

Lyons said yesterday as the hospital list grew. He said the virus seemed to be bouncing back and forth across the state, and blamed weekend trips as the largest factor in causing flu at A&M to hang on.

"As Aggies go home or on weekend trips they contact other outbreaks and carry the germs back here," he explained.

He thought the holidays coming up this winter would aid the epidemic growth here, since Aggies will be traveling to all parts of the flu-ridden state.

Other colleges have the same problem. Dr. Lyons said he talked to University of Texas' doctors by telephone yesterday and they reported continued outbreaks there.

"Oddly enough," the hospital supervisor said, "having the virus does not make one immune to it. Many of the same students who have had the flu recently come back with a new case."

He said the hospital was giving flu vaccine shots to current victims as treatment. A good supply of the vaccine is on hand at the hospital, which any student may get for $1 a shot.

Weather Today

Continued partly cloudy and warm today and tomorrow is the forecast for the College Station area, according to the college weather station.

Aggies going to the Arkansas game will find it somewhat cooler in Fayetteville Saturday.

This morning's low thermometer reading was 60 degrees at 3:30. At 1 p. m. yesterday the mercury hit a high of 80 degrees.

Eisenhower to Attend Paris NATO Meeting

Plans Bipartisan Discussion First

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON.—President Eisenhower announced yesterday that in the interests of bolstering "free world security" he plans to attend a NATO Council meeting in Paris in mid-December.

First, Eisenhower told a news conference, he will hold his annual session with congressional leaders of both parties. This, he said, will be "in the tradition of bipartisan responsibility for keeping the country on a single track in foreign relations."

As the President prepares for these conferences, he is still puzzled at the significance of Russia's dropping his post-war associate and acquaintance, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, as minister of defense.

Pleasanton To Integrate Quietly Friday

PLEASANTON, Tex., (AP)—This southern Texas town of 5,000 is planning to quietly integrate its high school Friday in contrast to the racial struggles elsewhere this school year.

"We want to show the world it can be done in a Christian-like way," said the high school principal, D. C. Baldree.

Voters approved integration 323-88 last Saturday in a local option election—the first under a new Texas law. This law requires a favorable vote before any school district in the state can integrate. The penalty for noncompliance is loss of state aid and accreditation.

Eisenhower said that "there is some reason for the extraordinary frequency of changes in the Soviet ruling group since the death of Stalin." But he said any effort to determine why the men in the Kremlin do what they do produces only highly speculative results.

It isn't known, he said, whether Zhukov is "actually degraded, or whether there is some other move contemplated."

Eisenhower attached one condition to his attending the meeting of the 15 member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said that, "Assuming the majority of the heads of government accept I intend to accept." It really wasn't a condition, though, as NATO had announced hours earlier that the chiefs of government of the member countries would attend the session.

The idea of bringing the chiefs of state together grew out of last week's meetings here between Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain.

The two also agreed on a greater sharing of nuclear and scientific information in the free world as a means of countering Soviet advances in missiles and the conquest of outer space. For the United States, this will require lowering some of the secrecy barriers set up in the Atomic Energy Act.

On that, the chief executive said he will have definite proposals to lay before the early December meeting of congressional leaders.

Georgi Zhukov Causing Worry In Red Regime

By The Associated Press

Continued silence on Marshal Georgi Zhukov's future indicates the Communist party has a tiger by the tail.

Party boss Nikita Khrushchev apparently has touched off an internal crisis he wanted to avoid. Old soldier Zhukov may have proved just a bit tough to handle.

In his chat with correspondents Tuesday night Khrushchev scoffed at reports the Communist party Central Committee was in session. But there are many indications to the contrary. Khrushchev has denied many things which later turned out to be true.

There can be little question that he has been trying to master a major political crisis.

Here is one possibility—admittedly speculative!

There have been indications the party's grip on the army-control through party spies in the officer corps and the ranks—has been slipping.

Zhukov has resisted the system. The party demands complete subservience by all branches of Soviet life, including the military. Its authority is jeopardized if this control slips. Khrushchev and his party cohorts had to do something.

They felt Zhukov had to be ousted from direct control over the armed forces. Confident he could swing it, Khrushchev had Zhukov removed as minister of defense. He was going to offer Zhukov another high position—perhaps premier in place of Bulganin—but with no great shock to party, public or army.

Correction

The story in Tuesday's Battalion on the college dining halls stated that students pay $1.45 daily for the three meals. In correction of the mistake: Students pay only $1.35 per day for meals, or 45 cents per meal.

New Highway Stripe Puzzles Motorists

Changing the center stripe of Texas Avenue in Bryan seems to have many motorists who were used to the old roadway wondering which side of the street to drive on, according to Resident Engineer, J. M. McLain, of the state highway department.

With widening and improving the highway, a new broad yellow stripe was painted one lane west of the old dash stripe. Many motorists still obviously haven't noticed this, said McLain, and many keep driving in the old lane which is now for north bound traffic.

The two-car collision which killed an A&M freshman and a Giddings man Tuesday night could very well have happened under such conditions according to investigating officers. The crash was head-on with apparently no reason other than the new center stripe markings, to cause the accident, Bryan police investigating the wreck said.

McLain said the new center stripe was to be crossed under no conditions except when turning at street corners.

Senior Aggicland Picture Schedule

Corps seniors will have their portrait made for the Aggicland '58 according to the following schedule. They will be made at the Aggicland Studio between 8 and 5 on the days scheduled.

Nov. 4-5: Corps Staff, First Regiment, First, Second and Third Battalion staffs and A, B, C, E Infantry.

Nov. 7-8 A Ordnance, B, C, Armor, A, B, C Engineers, A Transportation, A, B, C, Field Artillery and A, B, C AAA.

Nov. 11-12: Second Regiment, First, Second, Third, Fourth Battalion Staffs, A Signal, A Quartermaster, A Chemical and A Veterinary.

Nov. 14-15: A, B, C Composite, A, B Athletics, Maroon Band, White Band.

Work on the highway began last March and should be completed by January, 1958, according to McLain. The work covers all roadway on Highway 6 (Texas Avenue in Bryan) from Jersey Street in College Station to 27th Street in Bryan.

When completed, the highway will be 64 feet wide, allowing room for two lanes with parking room on both sides of the roadway. At four places of especially heavy traffic congestion, the highway will widen to four lanes.

The new highway will be complete with concrete curbs and storm gutters. College Station and Bryan are paying for cost of the curbs and gutters and the highway department is paying for the actual paving of the street.
