Talent, Selection Equal Enjoyment

By WELTON JONES

Obvious talent, a careful program selection and a most gracious audience combined last night in G. Rollie White Coliseum to produce one of the best evenings of this young Town Hall season.

The Angelaire harp quintet, five young ladies playing five concert grand harps, were the performers and approximately 600 enthralled and attentive persons were the spectators in the third program this year.

The harp is a difficult instrument at best, and multiplied five times it would seem to pose gargantuan problems to composer, arranger and performer alike. However the Angelaire harp quintet showed keen sense of the limitations and advantages of their instruments in picking the 17 numbers for their show.

They were decidedly at their best in folk and classical numbers such as a 16th century Spanish piece called "Pavane" and a Spanish dance by Granados, in which they produced a guitar sound.

Also outstanding were two folk tunes well suited for harp, "Green-sleeves", "O'Donnell A'Boo", and a Bach harpsichord suite, where the similarity between this ancient instrument and its namesake were quite apparent.

Not so successful was "Malaguena" which suffered from the lack of the biting, insistent attack possible on a piano, and some more modern compositions where rhythm was important. The harp seems to fail as a rhythm instrument.

The next regular Town Hall attraction will be Feb. 6, when the San Antonio Symphony Orchestra will be presented.

Aggies Battle Razorbacks At Arkansas Homecoming

Illness, Flu Sap Teams' Strength

BY GARY ROLLINS
Battalion Sports Editor

The Texas Aggies, Number One team in the nation, journey to the never-never land of Fayetteville, Ark. tomorrow to make contact with the potent Porkers, rated 13th in the nation.

Fayetteville on Homecoming Day has been compared with Dante's Inferno and Kyle Field on Turkey Day combined, due to the reaction of the rabid fans on seeing their magnificent Porkers take the field—against anybody, but especially against the Aggies.

Neither team is at full-strength, with the Cadets feeling the effect of injuries and Arkansas feeling the effects of Asiatic flu.

The Porkers have a very impressive record in conference play, having played three games to the Aggies' two. They hold victories over Baylor and Texas Christian Universities, the same as the Cadets.

However, they suffered a loss to the uprising Texas Longhorns two weeks ago—in Fayetteville, 17-0, while the Farmers hold a clean record, with no defeats.

The Aggies were last defeated by Arkansas in 1954, bowing by a score of 14-7 in Kyle Field. Two years ago, in the Ozarks, the highly-touted Cadets eked out a 7-7 tie. Last year was entirely different from the standard pattern, though, for the Aggies completely humiliated the Porkers, 27-0.

Trick or Treat!

The ghost and goblin atmosphere of Halloween last night saw many such scenes as this when the spooky clad younger set turned out to raid neighboring homes for goodies, ringing doorbells and yelling "trick or treat" when the owner answered. Most College Station citizens joined the fun and had treats awaiting the haunters.

CHS Bonfire Opens Tiger Homecoming

Flames from the little brother of the Texas Aggie Bonfire lit the Consolidated High School campus last night as the air exploded with Tiger yells which opened the CHS homecoming weekend.

The bonfire and yell practice were a prelude to the Consolidated-Cypress Fairbanks gridiron clash tomorrow night, which will see the homecoming queen crowned at half-time.

A homecoming throng of about 300 students, exes, faculty and parents gathered around the blazing bonfire to yell and hear short talks by Margaret Weedon, a yell leader from the class of '53; Garland Andrews, one of last year's Tiger co-captains and CHS coach Dick Gardemal.

Tomorrow night is the second district contest for the local team and will be highlighted by the crowning of the homecoming queen. She will be elected by penny voting done by College Station citizens. Money jars for each candidate have been placed in local business establishments for the past week. The money will be counted this afternoon and the winner determined.

The girl receiving the most pennies will be crowned queen and the two runners-up will be her princesses.

Eight Consolidated High girls are competing for the homecoming

Weather Today

Cloudy skies with local thunder-showers are forecast for this area and Saturday.

The warm, moist, cloudy conditions are the result of increasing southerly winds over the district.

Yesterday's high temperature was 83 degrees, at 3 p. m. This morning at 5:30 the mercury had dipped to a low of 64 degrees.

CHS Band Boosters Sponsor Carnival

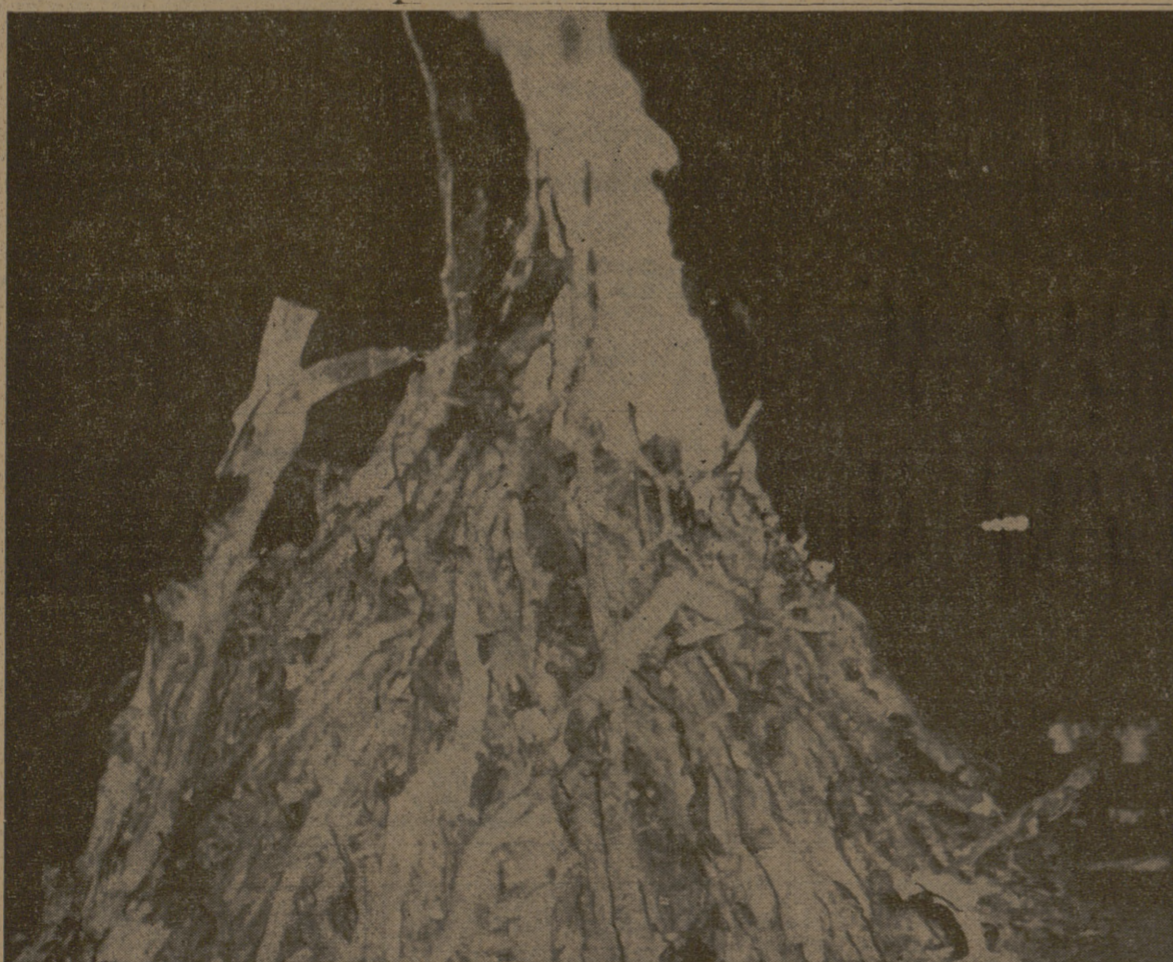

Amateur barkers begin their spiel tomorrow night at 5:30 on the Consolidated High School campus as the 1957 CHS Band Carnival gets underway.

Local service organizations and high school students will sponsor games, rides and booths of every description, giving the carnival comer a selection to fit his every taste, Bill Gard, chairman of the affair said.

The CHS Band Boosters Club is sponsoring the event to raise money for new uniforms, instruments and to pay for varied band activities throughout the year.

Food and drinks to fit all tastes will also be offered at the carnival, Gard said.

Yeaaaa, Gig 'em Tigers!

Flames leap up and yells ring out as the Consolidated High School homecoming weekend begins with a bonfire and yell practice on the high school campus last night. More than 300 attended the event in preparation for the Consolidated-Cypress Fairbanks football tilt tonight at 8.

Outbreaks Continue; Flu Not An Epidemic

Flu is on the increase with about 50 new cases being reported daily, Dr. C. R. Lyons, College Hospital Supervisor, said yesterday.

The flu is hitting primarily the Civilian students, College View students and veterinary medicine students, said Dr. Lyons. The outbreak hasn't reached epidemic proportions as yet.

There are still plenty of beds available in the hospital, since most of the married students are being cared for in their homes.

Lyons sees no chance for an epidemic, although there are twice the normal number of patients in the hospital at present. This time the Corps as a whole is escaping the outbreak, he said.

Last month's epidemic filled the hospital with hundreds staying in their rooms. Two thousand students were in bed at the same time with the virus, according to Lyons.

Dr. Lyons also reports that unlike past treatment, the flu vaccine is being given patients as treatment.

It was thought in the past that having the flu gave one a temporary immunity to the influenza, but this has been found not to be true. Dr. Lyons said many of the present flu patients had also been victim of the epidemic which struck more than a month ago, taking a toll of more than 2,000 Aggies out of classes during its duration.

Not only has A&M suffered from the Asian flu "bug" this year, but most other colleges and high schools throughout the State as well. Many high schools are still closing down and cancelling football games due to epidemics of the influenza.

Plenty of the influenza vaccine is available at the college hospital and any student may obtain the immunity shots for $1.

McRae, Heath Group Entertain Tuesday

By DAVID STOKER

Vocalist Carmen McRae, with the famous Ted Heath Orchestra and the Hi-Lo's are featured in a show of top entertainment Tuesday night at 8 in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

Miss McRae, the shapely Jamaican songstress who records on the Decca label, is one of the top female singers in America. She is a star of radio and television and has recently made her first motion picture for Universal-International.

Known as the girl with "the haunt in her voice," Miss McRae has cut many records—her best being "Whatever Lola Wants" and "Baby It's Cold Outside."

The Orchestra of Ted Heath, the band from England which made such a hit with Aggies here last year, is considered by many critics as the best jazz band in existence today. The orchestra has starred on radio, television, stage and screen. Their greatest honor was appearing at New York's famous Carnegie Hall on May 1, 1956. On this occasion the band was lauded with terrific applause.

Heath's orchestra is made up of some of England's finest musicians and should provide Aggies with some outstanding music.

As for the Hi-Lo's, Aggies can expect a quartet that sings with a rare and unique blend. Critics and public alike feel that this brilliant vocal group is one of the top acts in show business.

The quartet has appeared on television with such stars as Red Skelton, Ray Bolger and Steve Allen and has also appeared with Ralph Marterie's Orchestra in a motion picture for Universal-International.

Admission for the show is $2.50 for reserved seats, $2.00 for general admission and $1.25 for students. This is not a Town Hall show and Town Hall tickets will not be honored.
