Ponies' One-Two Punch

SMU quarterback Don Meredith hands off to halfback Charley Jackson, as they prepare to meet the Aggies on Kyle Field Saturday. Meredith engineered two touchdowns against Texas and booted an extrat point, while Jackson is the leading SMU back. He gained 571 yards in 99 carries last year.

Stephenson AP Lineman of Week

The Associated Press Donald Prestly Stephenson, senior center for Georgia Tech, has every right to call Duke his football "cousins." For the second straight year, and almost a year to the day, he was named the lineman of the week today for his superlative play against the Blue Devils.

Pony Quarterback Shifts To End

DALLAS—Billy Dunn, who started the first four games this season at quarterback for SMU, was shifted to left end today because of an injury suffered by Brady Wyatt in the Texas game. Wyatt, the regular left end, will be on the sidelines for several weeks. Dunn was standout defensive halfback last year and Coach Bill Meek believed that he would strengthen the end position. Rain drove the Mustangs inside the coliseum for the second consecutive day.

SPORT SLANTS

By GARY ROLLINS
 Battalion Sports Editor

The crystal ball is almost as outmoded as the "short wildcat," which leaves football prognosticators groping for secret information on predicting their winners.

Every week, there has been some big upset, which has invariably struck at the top of the national polls. A few weeks ago, Michigan State was riding high, with visions of Roses dancing in their helmets. Purdue beheaded them.

The Texas Aggies weren't lucky enough to inherit the top spot, but had to enter via the back door. Now as they rest at the peak, Southern Methodist grinds the axe for their assault on the Cadets.

The Ponies are much the same as Arkansas, with fast backs and a smart quarterback. Don Meredith came into his own by tying a large knot in the Longhorn's tail and toppling the "teenage terrors" from the ranks of the mighty.

Paul Bryant and Bill Meek are no doubt planning potent strategy for the meeting Saturday, but the main effort will have to come from the team desiring the victory the most. I'll choose the Cadets over the Ponies.

The second game of importance in the nation this Saturday is the Oklahoma-Missouri at Columbia, Mo.

Four weeks ago, the Cadets romped to a 28-0 win over the Tigers. The Bengals looked listless, and seemed to regard the A&M game as a necessary evil. They didn't mind losing, and wouldn't mind losing every game this season—with the exception of one—the Oklahoma game.

Even during the Aggie game, feeling and anticipation ran high, as everyone looked forward to the game with the Sooners. They overlooked the Aggies game, and set their sights for Bud Wilkinson's mighty Sooners.

Since Oklahoma is bound to lose someday, I don't believe there is anytime like the present. A winning streak will probably be broken in the Ozarks Saturday afternoon.

Back at home in the Southwest Conference, the Arkansas Razorbacks invade Houston in an attempt to get back on the winning trail. The Aggies blew up the Porker highway to the Cotton Bowl by downing the Porkers 7-6. Rice has other means of going north for the New Year's festivities, so I'll take the Owls over the Pigs.

Texas, the team of the week—last week, meets the Baylor Bears on state-owned soil in Austin. By all rights, the Longhorns with their abundance of teenage talent should beat Baylor—just like everybody else.

However, pride is valuable in this conference and Sam Boyd has injected some sort of stimulus into the Bears to make them play football once again. I anticipate a Baylor football revival and a victory, their first of conference play.

Texas Tech, embryonic member of the Southwest Conference, will test Tulsa's Golden Hurricanes in Lubbock. The Tulsa crew ranges from the Missouri Valley Conference, or the Land of the Big Rich and has looked impressive in their outing this season.

However, if the Red Raiders play football as they did against Baylor and the Aggies, they'll convert that Golden Hurricane in to a dusty brown West Texas dust devil.

That does it for the time being. The scores should resemble this:

Texas A&M	21	Southern Methodist	6
Missouri	14	Oklahoma	7
Rice	20	Arkansas	14
Baylor	28	Texas	21
Houston	24	Miss. Southern	7
Texas Tech	13	Tulsa	7
