Fish Estes Moves Out

Jack Estes, 175-pound Aggie right halfback from Olton is shown rounding right end against the Shorthorns in last Saturday's Little Turkey Day game in Austin which the Fish lost by 19-13. An unidentified Shorthorn is shown diving at Estes—but he missed.

Phillips Gets Hooked

An unidentified Teasip is shown imbedding his shorthorns into Fish halfback Robert Phillips in the third quarter of the Shrine Benefit Fish-Shorthorn game. Following up, but too late, is Fish signal-caller Powell Berry.

Cadets Work Light; See Orange, Hit Hard

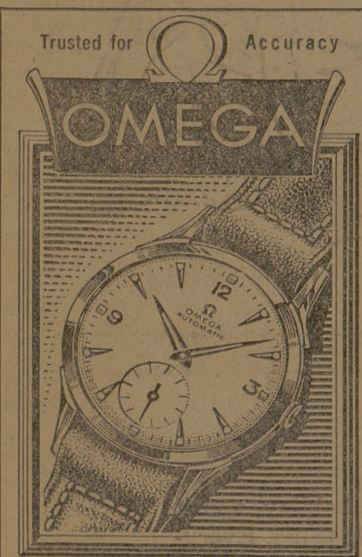

What started out to be a light dummy scrimmage turned out to be a hard-hitting "typical" Aggie practice Monday. Coach Paul Bryant testified to the Cadets' spirit. "I tried to keep them calm, but I just couldn't keep them from 'but-ting'."

"It was the best practice of the season," Bryant said, and many players agreed—as the Cadets "saw Orange" for the first time.

Kyle Field, last week resembling a mud flat on the Brazos River dried under the sun yesterday to become a race track for Aggie backs Monday as the Farmers tuned their attack to the Texas frequency.

The Cadets must defeat the University of Texas if they are to reign as repeat champions of the Southwest Conference. Rice Institute and the Aggies are in similar positions. If either team falters, the other will wear the crown.

With only two more practice days remaining before the Thanksgiving game, the Farmers will utilize their time in light workouts, sharpening their offensive and defensive games.

Fish Lose to Shorthorns, 19-13; Few, Sims, Harrison Terrific

A three-touchdown blast in a four minute-interval provided the margin of victory as the Texas Shorthorns downed the Fish, 19 to 13, Saturday in Austin.

The victory was the 12th for the Shorthorns in the 20-game series and was a Ben Hur Shrine benefit game.

After a fumble-filled, scoreless first half, played in the mud of Memorial Stadium, Texas crossed the double stripe on a 36-yard pass from quarterback Tommy Newman to halfback Drew Morris. Ray Barton's try for point was wide.

The Shorthorns scored again after recovering a Fish fumble on the A&M two-yard line. Barton's conversion try was good.

Newman scored two plays after Don Talbert had recovered a bad snapback from center on an attempted punt by A&M. Fish Jack Estes blocked Barton's conversion try.

Another Aggie fumble set up the third and winning Texas touchdown. Morris set sail around left end for 25 yards and the winning margin. Newman passed to Morris for the extra point and the Shorthorns led, 19-0.

Then the fumble-frustrated Fish began to roll; but, it was too little, too late.

Halfback Randy Sims of Houston Austin returned the kickoff after Texas' third touchdown to the Fish 35-yardline, from where Midlothian's Jon Few hammered for five yards at left guard.

Then quarterback Jim Harrison kept at left tackle, broke into the clear and sprinted 60 yards to score. Sims added the extra point.

Two and a half minutes later Midlothian's Jon Few electrified the crowd when he swung around the right side and flipped a pass in the flat to Sims who rambled 64 yards for the touchdown. Sims missed the extra point attempt.

The Fish had lost, 19-13.

Both teams lost the ball on four occasions on fumbles, with the Fish fumbling seven times and the Shorthorns six.

Few was the top ground-gainer for the Fish, picking up 37 yards on 11 trips into the line and passed once, complete for 64 yards. Sims had 33 yards on 11 tries.
