Aggies Receive Grateful Letter For Blood Drive

The Student Senate and the A&M student body received a heartfelt letter of appreciation today from J. B. Baldwin, president of the Southwestern Chapter of the National Hemophilia Foundation, for their participation in the blood drive last Nov. 6.

A quota of 325 pints of blood was the original goal of the drive, but only 200 pints were collected. Blame for the short figures was placed on a variety of causes.

"Despite the adverse weather, the delay in the arrival of the bloodmobile and the Asian flu, the drive was a real success," said Baldwin.

The blood was collected by the Wadley Foundation in order to replace the stock of desperately needed blood for hemophiliacs (free bleeders) in the Southwest. The foundation is a non-profit organization.

Baldwin went on to say in his letter: "Due to your effort and generosity we will now be able to alleviate the suffering and perhaps save the lives of many young boys who suffer from hemophilia. It was by far the most successful blood drive we have ever had."

The drive at A&M was co-sponsored by the Student Senate and the College Station Lions Club.

Lions Told About SCONA Program

Although still in the formulation stages, we believe we have one of the most beneficial programs at any college in the nation in the Student Conference On National Affairs, Pat Resley, a SCONA III representative, told College Station Lions yesterday.

"SCONA is one program at which Texas University nor any other school can beat us," he declared as he explained the organization and its function to the group yesterday at their luncheon meeting.

Resley said the chief aim of SCONA was to enlighten college students throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico on national and international affairs and foreign policy.

SCONA I and SCONA II were termed outstanding successes by Resley, who said he felt SCONA III would be even more successful.

The program is sponsored by Texas business who wish to see the nation's young men interested in how the government operates. This year, 144 delegates from all over the U. S., Canada and Mexico will have all expenses paid here for the 3½ day conference. Key figures in American government will deliver the major speeches and lead the round table discussions, he said.

Marine Recruiters Here on Dec. 4-6

Officer candidate interviews for the U. S. Marine Corps will be made here December 4-6, the Marine Corps Officer Procurement Office in San Antonio announced last week.

Lt. Charles E. Thompson and his team will be in the Memorial Student Center to discuss the following training programs: (1) the Platoon Leaders Class (PLC) for freshmen, sophomores and juniors; (2) the Officer Candidate Course (OCC) for seniors and graduates.

Under the Platoon Leaders Class program, qualified students attend six weeks of training at Quantico, Va., during two summers. Upon graduation, the PLC is commissioned as a Second Lieutenant, United States Marine Corps Reserve, and immediately reports for active duty. There are no obligations during the school year.

PLC aviation offers training for jet aircraft and helicopters. The officer who chooses aviation must serve only two years after completion of 15 to 18 months flight training at Pensacola, Fla.

In the Officer's Candidate Course, seniors and graduates must complete ten weeks of training after graduation before the student receives his commission in the Marine Corps. Pilot training is also available through the OCC.
