John Crow Wins Heisman Trophy

By GARY ROLLINS

John David Crow, whom Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant calls the best player he ever coached, was named recipient of the Heisman Memorial Trophy, an award given annually to college football's outstanding player.

Crow, senior halfback co-captain from the little town of Springhill, La. was the overwhelming choice of 1,267 sportswriters and sportscasters taking part in nationwide balloting conducted by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York. The announcement was made on the campus yesterday afternoon, at a time when Crow was not available for comment. He is presently in New York appearing on various radio and television shows.

Crow is the second Southwest Conference football player to receive the coveted trophy. Doak Walker, of Southern Methodist fame is the only other winner from the conference.

A few days ago, Crow was named the United Press' Back of the Year, receiving 101 votes—40 per cent of the total compared to runner-up Walt Kowalczyk of Michigan State.

The amazing Crow was also named to the Collier's All-American team. Last year, he was unanimous All-Southwest Conference halfback.

Crow, 22, received 241 first place votes and 1,183 points, nearly double that of the runner-up, tackle Alex Karras of Iowa, and led the balloting in every section of the country except the Midwest.

There Crow was third behind Karras and halfback Walt Kowalczyk of Michigan State, who finished third in the overall ranking.

Others high in the voting, in order, were Lou Michaels, Kentucky tackle; Tom Forrestal, Navy quarterback; Jim Phillips, Auburn end; Bob Anderson, Army halfback; Dan Currie, Michigan State center; Clendon Thomas, Oklahoma halfback; Lee Grosscup, Utah quarterback; King Hill, Rice quarter-back; Bob Stransky, Colorado halfback; Bill Krisher, Oklahoma guard; and Don Clark Ohio State fullback.

In the point system, Karras drew 694, Kowalczyk 630, Michaels 330 and Forrestal 232.

Crow operated both as a half-back and fullback, depending on the Aggies' formation. His club's "bread and butter back," he carried the ball 129 times for 62 yards and a 4.4 average. He scored six touchdowns and was a rugged player on defense, both as a tackle and pass defender.

Crow and the Aggies have another game remaining, meeting Tennessee in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 28.

The 23rd recipient, Crow will receive the Heisman Trophy at the Downtown A. C.'s dinner in New York, December 4. Last year's winner was Paul Hornung, Notre Dame quarterback.

Therapy Clinic Offers Outstanding Service

Outstanding service is offered to Brazos County residents at no cost, Buddy Lanoux, physical therapist of the Brazos County Crippled Children's Therapy Center told local Kiwanis Club members yesterday.

Lanoux, told Kiwanians that the therapy center had made rapid strides since its opening, Aug. 1 of this year. He said he hoped that by this time next year the center's treatments will have quadrupled and call for the addition of another therapist.

At this time, Lanoux is the only therapist employed by the non-profit clinic. Lanoux defined a therapist as "a medical expert who treats by physical means the physically handicapped on the prescription of a licensed physician."

College Station Kiwanis members were responsible for beginning the center, he said. Patients of polio, cerebral palsy, spinal injuries and many other physically disabling accidents and diseases have been treated he stated. For those who cannot afford the expense, treatment is free.

Although the center is for children through 16, older patients will be accepted for treatment after clinic hours on a doctor's prescription, Lanoux said.

Some 63 children need therapy treatment in Brazos county, 39 of them in the Bryan-College Station area, but many are not taking advantage of the treatments, according to Lanoux.

The therapy center is located at 100 Highland just off College Avenue about mid-way between Bryan and College Station.

Next week at the Kiwanis luncheon, Dr. Richard E. Wainardi will give a talk on the A&M Nuclear reactor and its uses.

Ike Plans Boost In 1958 On Defense Budget

BY WILMOT HERCHER

The Eisenhower administration was today reported planning to spend an extra 2½ billion dollars next year on defense and foreign aid to meet the challenge of Russia's military scientific advances.

Plans for a bigger Defense Department budget and increased spending by mutual security agencies were laid before 31 congressional leaders from both parties at a five-hour White House briefing. Defense spending this year has been estimated at 38.4 billion dollars.

Sen. Russell D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told reporters after the meeting the defense program has not yet been firmed up. He said the legislative leaders were given a spending objective but that the administration wasn't yet sure it could stick to it. He declined to furnish any figures.

A figure of $3,940,000,000 was reported to have been advanced by Secretary of State Dulles for a new foreign aid program covering both military and economic assistance to American allies. Congress voted $3,436,000,000 for mutual security in the current fiscal year.

Apparently the administration hopes to hold over-all federal spending in the new year close to the current figures by cutting down on domestic programs.

Chairman Cannon D-Mo., of the House Appropriations Committee, said he gathered from the briefing that the entire budget for the new fiscal year will run a little more than the 71.8 billion dollars Eisenhower requested last January.

He crossed Jerusalem to Mt. Mukabbir in the no-man's land just south of the city, scene of a tree-planting dispute between the two nations. Jordan contents the planting shows Israel intends to take over the demilitarized area in violation of the 1949 armistice.

U. N. truce supervision headquarters is on the hill. There Hammarskjold talked with U. S. Marine Col. Byron Leary, acting chief of the truce organization, who is the personal storm center of another Jordan-Israeli quarrel.
