Ike Urges Raise In Foreign Aid Grants

Forsees Trouble If Bid Is Rejected

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Eisenhower said yesterday higher taxes, big draft calls and a "massive increase" in defense spending would result if Congress sharply reduces his request for $3,942,100,000 in new foreign aid funds.

He drew this grim picture in a special message formally requesting "vigorous continuation" of the government's global aid program for an 11th straight year.

The money figure was not new, having been disclosed in his budget message.

Clearly anticipating a hot congressional fight, Eisenhower sought by unprecedented blunt language to jolt foes into considering what he called the menacing alternatives.

The message was released at the White House and also at Eisenhower's Georgia vacation headquarters.

The sum requested was about a billion dollars more than an economy-minded Congress provided last year but 500 million dollars less than the administration sought in 1957.

Nearly 50 billion dollars in foreign aid money has been sent overseas since 1948.

Eisenhower contended this new program, for the year beginning July 1, represents "the critical margin of assistance" needed to assure American and free world security against Red threats.

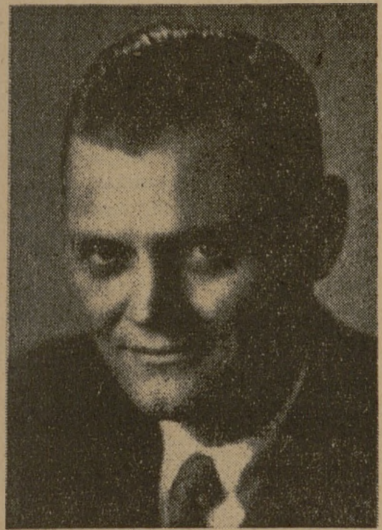

"It is my duty to make clear my profound conviction that the vigorous advancement of this program is our only logical course," Eisenhower said. "Our mutual security program is of transcendent importance to the security of the United States."

At the Capitol, House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) called the message a strong one.

Rayburn also credited foreign aid with "saving a lot of our friends from communism."

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, commented: "The mutual security program has become a major part of the foreign policy of the United States. With that thought in mind,"

After receiving his B.A. degree from the University of Texas in 1925, Hart received his L.L.D. from Harvard in 1928.

As an ex-chancellor of the University of Texas, he has also been a member of the President Eisenhower's Commission on Education after High School.

Tickets to the banquet will be on sale until 5 p.m. Monday at the main desk of the Memorial Student Center and by departmental representatives. The banquet, which will be held in the MSC Assembly Room, is for all faculty members and their wives.

Town Hall Production

Comedy Protrays 'Plowboy' Airman

"No Time for Sergeants", a Town Hall production, will be presented here March 3 at 8 p. m. in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

Direct from Broadway where it enjoyed a successful two-year run, the play was produced from the best-selling novel concerning the peacetime Air Force and the havoc wrought when a charmingly naive Georgia plowboy is drafted into it.

Charles Hohman plays the plowboy who nearly wrecks the Air Force, a role he acted for more than a year in New York.

Rex Everhart, his beleaguered sergeant, is a career man who has the misfortune of having Hohman and his scrawny buddy, played by Tucker Ashworth, assigned to his classification center.

RE Week Text Urges Use Of Common Sense

One must use several tests before making an important decision to determine the right choice, Dr. Ronald Meredith told the mid-week Religious Emphasis Week service yesterday.

Following special music by Ed Hereder, Dr. Meredith spoke on "Only Half of Me Wants to Be Good" yesterday.

Dr. Meredith listed several tests to be applied before making decisions.

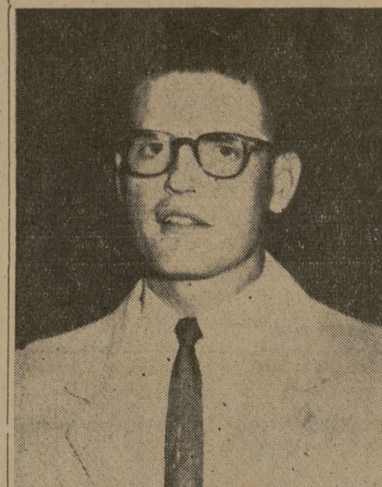

Among them are: would I be a good sport if I made this choice; does the choice show common sense; would I be willing to have my decision be made public; would I want my most admired personality to know about this and would I be doing what I honestly believe Christ would want me to do?

"A man is a parasite upon society if he wants everyone else to be decent and won't be decent himself," Dr. Meredith said.

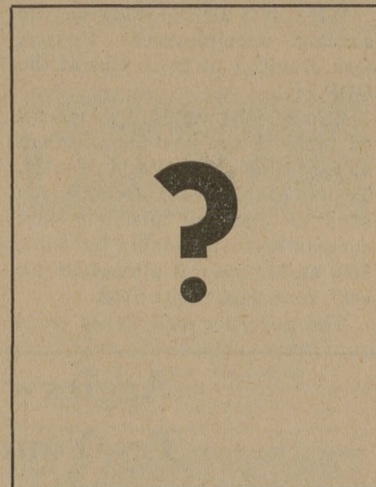

Further outlining parts of a man's fight with himself, he stated "Conscience is that little telephone inside that rings—and when it rings a person had better take it off the hook and listen."

The last RE Week talk will be in the morning at 9.

"Love, Courtship, and Marriage" was the subject for Dr. Meredith's talk this morning in the next to the last service for the 16th Annual RE Week.

Civilian Students Present Views On Required Corps to Directors

Billy McKown, president of the Civilian Student Council, and another still unknown student, will get a chance to express Civilian opinion on compulsory military training at the A&M Board of Directors meeting Saturday.

The "mystery man" is not being disclosed because of pressure that might be directed at him, McKown said. He would say however that he is a well liked student, and a very influential man on the campus.

The audience with the board was granted on the conditions that it be held to a maximum of 30 minutes and only two representatives be sent.

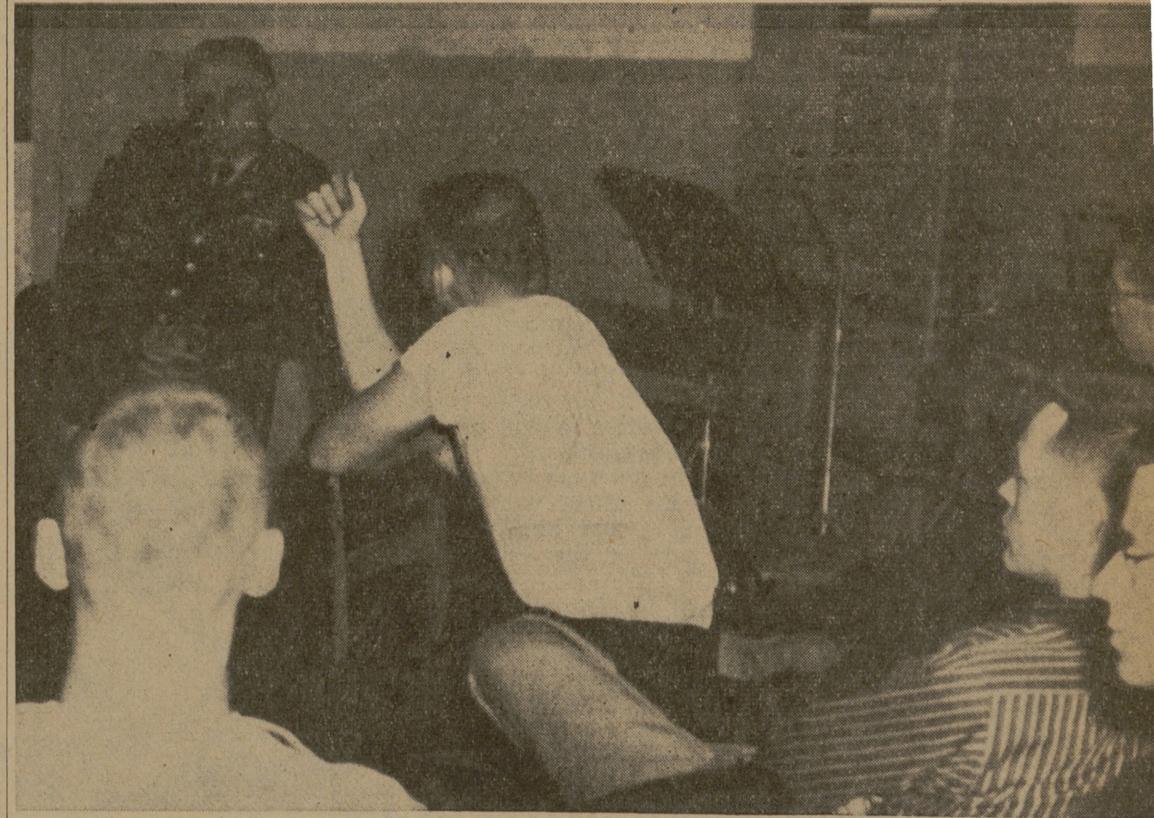

The contentions that McKown and the mystery man will present to the board have not yet been revealed.

Juniors Spark Bid For Keeping PAS

By JOE BUSER

A group of Air Force juniors has started a movement to ask the college to retain Col. Henry P. Dittman at A&M as Professor of Air Science.

The group, which was chosen in part last semester by each Air Science class, met Monday to discuss plans for the project.

They are an unofficial group, but were supported unanimously by Air Force juniors in a vote called at a December class meeting.

Col. Dittman's tour at A&M will terminate at the end of this academic year and as yet he has no new assignment. However, he said last night that D. W. Williams, then president of the college, told him last July he could not return because he was not in accord with college policy.

He said he asked Vice President Earl Rudder to reconsider his request for extension of his tour here, but had since withdrawn the request "in order to cause no more difficulties in the institution."

"I take my orders from the U.S. Air Force in Washington," he said, "and I would readily accept any assignment given me."

"But if the college desires my retention, I'll be here," he added.

The group of juniors has acquired a staff study, conducted by an Air Science class last semester, suggesting possible ways to retain Col. Dittman.

They have partially re-written the study and have given a copy to Vice President Rudder and are mailing copies to each of the A&M Board of Directors.

They are also drawing up a letter to be sent to Maj. Gen. T. C. Rogers, Commander, AFOTC.

The names of all Air Force students in favor of asking that Col. Dittman be retained are being collected by the group through individual outfits.

Nelson to Work For BA Degree At Harvard U.

Jack Nelson, Corps public information officer, received word yesterday that he had been accepted to attend the Harvard University graduate business school for two years after graduation from A&M.

Nelson, an electrical engineering major from El Paso, said the additional two years in business training would qualify him for a master's degree in Business Administration. He will enter Harvard in September.

Boasting a 2.02 overall grade point ratio, Nelson submitted his application and took the entrance exam some months ago.

Students are accepted according to results of these exams.

"It is a wonderful opportunity," Nelson said last night. "More guys should take advantage of it."

According to Nelson, John Hagler, Cadet Colonel of the Corps, and George Ragsdale, editor of The Engineer, submitted applications two months after he did, and therefore won't learn the outcome of their exams until a later date.

Nelson plans to fulfill his military duty after graduation from Harvard.

Juniors May Begin Submitting Pics

Pictures of applicants for the Junior Ball Sweetheart may be turned in at the Student Activities Office in the YMCA next week.

Deadline for turning in pictures is March 1. All portraits should be 5 x 7 or larger and taken out of their frames.

'Murals' Wrestler Breaks Collarbone

Rodney Spencer, "A" Transportation Corps freshman from DeLeon, suffered a broken collarbone in an intramural wrestling match last night.

College hospital attendants termed his condition as "good" after he was given treatment there.

The intramural wrestling season, which matches men from various outfits according to weight, began Monday. The injury is an oddity since no punishing holds are permitted in the competition.
