Aggie Newsmen To Give Dinner For UT Editors

Student Publications Board members and staff editors of the various A&M publications will host about 12 representatives of the University of Texas at Austin Publications, Inc., with a luncheon and a tour of A&M publication facilities Friday.

Representatives expected from Texas include Loyd Edmunds, general manager of Texas publications organization, and top editors from the Daily Texan, the Ranger and the Cactus.

Following the luncheon at noon in Rooms 2-C and 2-D of the Memorial Student Center, the visitors will browse through the various publications offices in the YMCA basement. Staff members from either school will have the opportunity to exchange ideas with staff members from the other school filling similar capacities.

In addition to the editors and staff editors of the A&M publications, local delegates expected at the informal dinner include Dr. Carroll Laverty, chairman of the Student Publications Board, and board members Dr. Robert Stevenson, Donald D. Burchard, Charles A. Roeber, William T. Williams, Bennie Zinn, Ross Strader and John Avant.

Tentative special guests include Earl Rudder, vice president of the college, and Dean Robert B. Kamm, director of Student Personnel Services.

Last year, the Texas group entertained A&M publications visitors with a luncheon and tour of their quarters in Austin.

UT Co-eds Protest Bearded 'Sips'

Strong protests from Texas University's Women's Anti-Beard Society failed to halt registration of 150 men in the Round-Up beard growing contest.

Attired in black dresses and bonnets society members appeared at the registration yesterday carrying signs which said:

"Beards are subversive . . .
Beards hide cowardly smirks . . .
Beards are freudian . . .
Beards are sinful."

Each entrant was hit over the head by an umbrella carried by a society member, then cleanly shaved by Gamma Phi Beta coeds.

Parents Discuss School Systems

A series of public meetings are now underway in Brazos County to give parents a chance to voice their opinions and ask questions on Texas public schools.

A few meetings have been held and several more are scheduled for the future, Taylor Riedel, Consolidated High School superintendent, said yesterday. The meetings are being held at all schools throughout the county in an attempt by the Hale-Aikin Committee to see what the taxpayers think about Texas schools.

In 1957, the state legislature passed House Committee Resolution 105, setting up a committee of 24 members to coordinate and complete a comprehensive "grass root" study of the citizenship of each county in the state.

The committee is to survey the needs of the public school systems as to curriculum, teacher supply, classroom facilities and other related areas, including adequate financing of the public school program.

From Brazos County, 48 men and women were appointed to the Hale-Aikin Committee by local school districts and by a county committee of representatives from

Attorneys 'Determined' To Win A&M Co-ed Suit

By FRED MEURER

Attorney John M. Barron last night termed himself "most determined" to win the upcoming suit in which he and his father, M. S. Barron, will attempt to force the Board of Directors to open A&M's doors to women.

The Bryan lawyer said if the verdict of the district court is unfavorable in the hearing beginning March 17, he will immediately appeal the case to the Court of Civil Appeals in Waco.

If it is met unfavorably there, Barron said he would carry the suit to the Supreme Court of the United States— if necessary.

In the hearing the two attorneys will attempt to obtain mandamus action against officials of the college ordering them to admit two women into A&M.

The women are Mrs. Barbara Tittle and Mrs. Lena Bristol. They were refused admittance when they tried to enroll in January.

Last week the college filed a plea in abatement with the district court, attempting to nullify the hearing on the grounds that the plaintiffs in the case failed to go through proper channels before filing the suit.

The plea, in essence, indicated that the plaintiffs arranged for the trial without appealing to the Board of Directors.

The Barrons yesterday filed an answer to the college's plea, saying there is no requirement of administrative procedure set forth showing the necessity of authority to make an appeal directly to the Board of Directors upon an order and resolution already passed ex-

CHS Students Hold Science Fair Saturday

Young College Station scientists will display their wares publicly Saturday at the Annual Science Fair sponsored by the A&M Consolidated High School Science Club.

Projects in the fields of science will be exhibited in the Science Wing of CHS Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Students from both the junior and senior high schools will prepare projects for the showing.

The exhibits will be divided into three groups; biological, physical and miscellaneous projects, with a separate division for junior and senior high students. Exhibits are scheduled from the fields of radio, rockets, botany, zoology, geology, astronomy, models, engines and others.

The projects will be judged at 10 a.m. Winners from both divisions will compete in the District I Texas State Teachers Association Science Fair in Houston March 14-15. District I takes in 33 counties and includes some of the largest high schools in the state.

cluding women students from the college.

In their answer the attorneys also denied an earlier charge that the suit is against the State of Texas and that any additional remedy is necessary.

M. T. Harrington, A&M president, and H. L. Heaton, registrar, had charged that no suit could be brought against them without legislative permission because they are state employees. But the Barrons struck back by saying the two were not lawfully authorized to deny the women entrance.

"It is my opinion that the plea of abatement is ridiculous," remarked the younger Barron last night. "It is absurd, strictly absurd."

A hearing on the plea will precede the trial March 17. Should the court uphold the college's plea in abatement, however, the trial will not be necessary and the first will be a series of trials will be over. In this event, Barron said he would appeal to the higher court.

As for the trial itself, should the plea in abatement fall through, Barron commented he didn't think it would last more than a few days.

"I don't think it will be too complicated. The facts aren't in dispute," he said.

"I don't think there is a dispute about keeping women out. The question is if laws and the constitution permit the board to do what it did," he added.

Pentomic Army Program March 4

A program entitled "Pentomic Reorganization Within the Army" will be presented Tuesday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m., in the Chemistry lecture room, for the local United States Army Reserve personnel.

The presentation will cover the reorganization of the current combat division in order to cope with modern combat conditions using the newest weapons available.

The program will be presented by Captains Corrie B. Curry Jr. and Herbert J. Meredith of the Mobile Instruction and Demonstration Team No. 4, now stationed at Fort Polk, La. Both officers are members of the Artillery Corps and saw action in both the World War II and the Korean conflict.

CHS Jazzers To Compete In Band Festival

College Station High School's 16-man Stage Band will journey to Huntsville Friday to compare "notes" with other jazz bands of the state in the High School Band Festival at Sam Houston State College.

Shorty Rogers, a nationally recognized jazz trumpet artist will be an adviser and critic for the clinic-festival.

Bands attending the event Friday and Saturday will be criticized by recognized leaders in music from the state and individual help in jazz arrangement and improvisation will be given, Robert Boone, director of the CHS band and high school music teacher, said.

"This is the first year we've attended the event," Boone said. "I think we have a pretty good sound, but since we haven't been in competition before I couldn't make a prediction on our outcome in the judging."

A dance Friday night featuring the Houstonians, professional dance band from Houston, will see Rogers lend the jazz notes of his trumpet to the band's sounds. Saturday night, those attending the festival will be entertained by the "All-Star Octet" and "All Star Band" selected from the best musicians at the clinic.

Saturday night all bands in the festival will combine to present a concert. The CHS Stage Band will do three numbers, "Stormy Weather", Benny Goodman's "9:20 Special" and Harry James' "Two O'clock Jump."

City Election Filings End Saturday Night

Deadline for filing for the mayor and three city councilmen positions which will be decided in the April 1 city election is Saturday midnight, 30 days before the election date, according to election requirements.

Mayor Ernest Langford and Councilmen A. P. Boyett and Joe Sorrels announced their intentions to run for re-election at the city council meeting Monday night.

Boyett is the councilman from Ward 3, which takes in the North Gate area, the A&M campus and the area north of Lincoln Avenue east of Highway 6.

Sorrels, represents Ward 2, the section of College Hills south of Lincoln Avenue and east of Highway 6.

The other council position open is in Ward 1, the area south of the campus between Highway 6 and Wellborn Road. Marion Pugh, the present councilman from this ward has not filed for re-election as yet.

Picture Scheduled For CV Students

A group picture of all students living in College View has been scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 27, between C-11 and B-12.

This picture will be placed in the Aggeliland 58 at no cost to the students.

Common Sense, Not Dictatorship

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Eisenhower, appealing for nationwide support of his foreign aid program, described it last night as "not a maneuver carried out by a dictator" but an expression of good-will and common sense.

Eisenhower climaxed a day-long conference organized by the administration in behalf of the $3,900,000,000 aid program. The President said that under present conditions the urgency of both mutual security and reciprocal trade agreements legislation "leaves no margin for error."

In an address prepared for coast-to-coast broadcast on radio, Eisenhower added: "They are iron imperatives of security and the building of true peace." The President spoke at a dinner meeting attended by national leaders from all walks of life representing Democratic, Republican and independent thinking.

Eisenhower said opposition to the aid program "is based on slogans, prejudices, penny-wise economy and above all, an outright refusal to look at the world of 1958 as it really is."

"What the ostrich-like opponents of mutual security seem to be saying," he added, "is 'billions for armament, but not one cent for peace!'"

The foreign aid rally began yesterday morning. At a luncheon meeting, former President Truman called on the Eisenhower administration to come forward with some new ideas to combat Russia's massive economic offensive.

And Adlai E. Stevenson, who bid for the presidency on the Democratic ticket in 1952 and 1956 challenged Russia to join the United States in a pooled effort to provide economic aid to underdeveloped nations.

Attorney To Speak To AAUP Tonight

Judge James P. Hart, Austin attorney, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the A&M Chapter of the American Association of University Professors tonight at 7 in the Memorial Student Center Assembly Room.

Hart will be introduced by Vice President Earl Rudder who will be presented by President M. T. Harrington.

He received his B.A. degree from the University of Texas in 1925, and his LL.D. from Harvard in 1928. He served as Assistant Attorney General of Texas from 1939-41 and was an Associate Justice of the Texas Supreme Court from 1947-50.

The attorney is an ex-chancellor of the University of Texas and also has been a member of President Eisenhower's Commission on Education after High School.

Corps Baseball Set To Start March 10

By FRED MEURER

Corps baseball players begin taking winter cobwebs from the base-paths on Bryan diamonds Monday, March 10, when the Corps baseball program gets underway for the second year.

Highly successful in its initial attempt last spring, the program is studded with hopes and ideas promising to make it much more entertaining for cadets this year.

In an organizational meeting Monday night, representatives from six Air Force groups, five Army battalions and the Band outlined tentative plans for the year.

Two leagues, one composed of the groups and the other made up of the battalions and the Band, were set up much the same as last year. Instead of playing only one complete round, as was the case last spring, representatives planned to get two complete rounds this year, or 10 games per team. A tentative play-off game or series between the winner of each league was set up for post-season play. Each game will have an hour and 15 minute time limit.

Tommy Kolterman, 5th Group Staff senior, was chosen by acclamation to head the program with the cooperation of captains of each team, who were also named at the meeting. Kolterman said a schedule would be drawn up this week and distributed among the groups and battalions.

Travis Park in Bryan was turned over almost exclusively to the Corps except for four other games previously scheduled for the diamond. In addition, plans call for the use of the American Legion park near Highway 6, but authorities have not yet been contacted.

According to a rough sketch, games will be slated almost daily for 5, 7:30 and 9 p.m. With a little cooperation from the weather, all games should be played without too much difficulty, Kolterman said.
